G. O. P. SMASHES RADICAL RULE IN MINNESOTA

Farm-Labor Regime Blasted Out.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Minnesota's overthrow of the Farmer-Labor statehouse machine, strongest the state has seen, has the aspects of a political revolution.

H. E. Stassen.

In the landslide last week every Farmer-Labor state officeholder up for reëlection was beaten, and four of five Farmer-Labor congressmen were tossed out. Harold E. Stassen, the Republican candidate for governor, had a margin over Gov. Elmer A. Benson that may reach 275,000 in official figures. Two years ago Benson had a plurality of 250,000. Last week he polled 300,000 fewer votes than in 1936.

Only two Farmer-Laborites are left in office at the statehouse—Railroad Commissioners Hjalmar Petersen and Charles Munn.

Conservatives in Saddle.

The state legislature went under conservative control and yesterday conservatives and independents of the next house in caucus here picked Lawrence M. Hall of St. Cloud, a Democrat, for speaker, with assurances of ninety-five votes out of 131.

Stassen, the governor-elect, who is 31 years old, is on a trip with his family to catch up on his sleep, his whereabouts a secret. Before leaving he declared in a radio talk that when he takes office Jan. 2 the front door of the governor's office will be open to all citizens and the back door closed to special privilege.

It was largely a one man campaign, backed by an all-party movement, and the Republican state ticket rode in on Stassen's coat tails, except for one or two redoubtable vote getters.

Communism Splits Party.

Communism was an outstanding issue in the election. It split the Farmer-Labor party in the June primaries. Gov. Benson denied that he favored communism, but he was criticized for surrounding himself with a coterie of statehouse machine extremists.

A photograph of Benson riding in an automobile in a communist inspired parade in New York Aug. 7, 1937, was widely circulated in a campaign document. Railroad Commissioner Petersen was a chief opponent and critic of Benson in charging communist control of the state administration. Petersen was lieutenant governor when Gov. Floyd B. Olson died in 1936 and filled out the unexpired term as governor.

After Benson had been picked as the preferred primary candidate for governor by the Farmer-Labor convention at Duluth, the party's hotbed of radicalism, Petersen jumped into the race.

Red Dictation Charged.

He charged that communists had dictated Benson's policies as governor and declared that he would sweep these Mexican generals out of the statehouse and the party. The more conservative Farmer-Laborites swung behind Petersen. In the primaries Benson won by only 16,000 votes, despite the statehouse machine, which was fortified by a slush fund gathered from state employés.

The primaries left the Farmer-Labor party split wide open. Petersen remained silent in the general election campaign, but the segment of his party that had supported him in the primaries largely went across to help the Republican nominee.

G. O. P. Wins New Leader.

"This machine," the G. O. P. said, "has squandered public funds for political effect, flouted the law in letting public contracts, padded public pay rolls with political jobholders, and levied tribute on the wages of public employés."

The Republican party had a new and youthful leadership in the primaries. Stassen, a young South St. Paul lawyer, had unhorsed the old

650 Searchers End Third Day Without Trace of Boy

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 13.—(AP)—More than 650 searchers returned tonight from the third unsuccessful day of looking for Jerry Hays, 5 years old, who wandered away from his parents' hunting camp Friday. Sherif I. V. Pruitt asked for troops from Fort Huachuca to help tomorrow, and Maj. E. W. Grimmer said several hundred would be available. The search has been concentrated in thickly wooded Rucker canyon, fifty miles southeast of here.

DIES BLASTS KEY NEW DEALERS AS HATE PEDDLERS

Hits Ickes, Perkins and Hopkins.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Prominent New Dealers were named today by Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], of the committee investigating un-American activities, as "purveyors of class hatred" in the United States. Dies said this charge was based upon documentary evidence gathered by his committee.

Two members of President Roosevelt's cabinet, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, headed a list which Dies made public. Others named were Harry L. Hopkins, head of the Works Progress administration; Paul Sifton, assistant to Wage Administrator Elmer F. Andrews, and David Saposs, economist of the National Labor Relations board.

Points to European Chaos.

Dies plans to issue such lists at regular intervals as his committee continues its inquiry, he said. His purpose, he said, is to awaken the nation to the fact that a regular campaign to foster class hatreds is being conducted in this country. Such tactics pursued for the last fifteen years in Europe have plunged the continent into a morass of hatreds of every kind, he declared, ending with racial and religious hatreds which have caused the persecution of Jews, Catholics, and Protestants.

Included on the list of "purveyors of hatred" with the New Dealers were John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O.; Earl Browder, leader of the communist party of the United States; Clarence Hathaway, editor of the Daily Worker, communist party organ, and James Ford, colored communist.

Purveyors of racial and religious prejudice already are busy in the United States, Dies said. He is compiling another list of such persons, based upon testimony before his committee.

Lashes Hitler and Mussolini.

Dies called Joseph Stalin the world's chief purveyor of class hatred. He named Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini as the chief spreaders of racial and religious hatred.

"The persecution of racial and religious groups abroad is a natural result of the stimulation of class hatreds by which dictators attained power," said Dies. "The same thing will happen here unless we resist all forms of hatred. Too many people advocate racial and religious tolerance but preach class hatred. The only way we can be saved from the fate of Europe is by the promotion of Americanism, tolerance, and the resistance to hatred.

"The same forces and the same methods which have made Europe a mad house in which certain groups are hunted like savage animals are being used here. Class hatred is a forerunner of racial hatred. We must give pitiless publicity to the men who are engaged in this work in this country.

Letters Reveal Hatreds.

"Many persons are not aware of the extent to which class hatred has been fostered in the United States. Since the work of my committee began, I have received thousands of letters breathing hatred of the most poisonous sort."

The Dies statement was a blow at the Ickes-Perkins-Hopkins strategy of arraying class against class in the recent political campaign. It foreshadows the fight in the next congress to continue the Dies inquiry, widening its scope to include politics in the WPA as well as to probe communism in the New Deal and other un-American activities.

Dies will ask for $1,000,000 for the new quiz, he has announced. This request is expected to be fought by New Deal Democrats in the house while conservative Democrats will favor it. It may furnish the first test of the strength of the expected coalition between old line Democrats and the strengthened Republican minority.

Although Dies denies it, the report persists here that Vice President John N. Garner and other leaders of the conservative Democratic faction are secretly advising the young Texan in his investigation. Dies entered congress as a protégé of the Vice President.

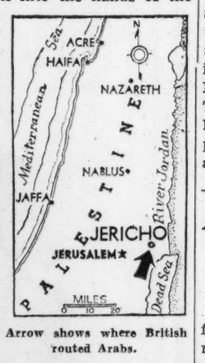
Jericho Falls Again; British Guns Do Trick

JERICHO, Palestine, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Jericho fell into the hands of the British army today after two months of occupation by Arab rebels.



Arrow shows where British routed Arabs.

The clay walls of the old city fell this time not at the sound of Joshua's ram's horn trumpets, but from the thundering rumble of British army tanks and artillery and a long column of trucks carrying British soldiers.

Surprise Sleeping City.

The first rays of dawn lighted up the barren Moab mountains overlooking the Dead sea where Moses caught his first glimpses of the Promised Land when the British forces, led by a squadron of royal air force planes, surprised the sleeping population.

The frightened inhabitants fled. They attempted to cross the salt marshes of the Dead sea, fleeing toward Jordan, or sought shelter in hermit caves in the hills overlooking the famous Wadi Kelt canyon. But all were forced to return by the British soldiers.

An inspection of the city which Antony presented to Cleopatra as a gift at the height of the Roman empire disclosed the rebels had burned the police station, postoffice, and customs house.

A Modern Samaritan.

Six planes swooped down Jordan valley early this morning, dropping leaflets and advising the inhabitants they would not be harmed if they offered no resistance.

The rearguard of the British mechanized units was massed near the inn of the Good Samaritan. At this point the Jerusalem-Jericho road plunges down to the Dead sea in a series of precipitous, serpentine turns to the spot where Joshua captured Jericho from the Canaanites. There a modern Samaritan in the person of a young British army doctor stopped to dress the wounds of an Arab peasant who had tried to escape.

EGYPTIANS CHEER, BUT TOO SOON, FOR BIRTH OF HEIR TO THRONE

CAIRO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Hundreds of jubilant Egyptians thought today they were rejoicing in the birth of a child to Queen Farida. But they were wrong. The twenty-one gun salute that set off the brief celebration was fired to mark the anniversary of the day Egypt first claimed independence. Telephone calls to Montaza palace disclosed the mistake. The queen, expecting the arrival of her first baby, is in residence at the palace, attended by two physicians and four nurses.

A THANKSGIVING NOTE: TURKEY PRICES LOWER

Good news was received yesterday for housewives who are already planning their Thanksgiving dinners.

More Thanksgiving turkeys are available this year than last. They will be larger and the price per pound will be lower. Because feed has been plentiful hens will average 12 pounds and tom turkeys 18 pounds. On the Chicago wholesale market Saturday dressed hens were selling for 22 cents a pound and toms were going for from 18 to 24 cents. Live birds sold for between 14 to 19 cents.

Although retail prices for the holiday season have not been fixed yet, leading dealers said they expected to sell their best birds for less than 30 cents. This is below last year's price, but higher than the prices in 1936 and 1935.

More of the birds sold in Chicago will come from Illinois. The hill country along the Mississippi river has reported an especially large crop.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The daughter born here this week to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carroll Jr. has 12 grandparents, including a pair of maternal and paternal grandparents and four sets of great-grandparents. B. F. Carroll of Des Moines, former governor of Iowa, is one of the eight great-grandparents.

Capture Gang After Holdups in Lake County

Lake county's celebrated police radio blockade set a new record for speed early yesterday in the capture of six young thugs who had slugged three men and robbed them of clothing and money.

The blockade, which was organized last year by Sherif Elect Thomas E. Kennedy, covers every road leading out of the county within a few minutes after an alarm is broadcast. Twenty-five squad cars speed to appointed stations and no fugitive has yet gotten through after promptly reported crimes.

Beat Waukegan Victim.

The six young robbers struck first in Waukegan at 1:30 a. m. when they stopped Emilio Vega of 113 South Utica street there. They beat him severely and took a small amount of money, his hat and top coat. The robbers then turned their stolen car southward to North Chicago.

But before they were past the boundaries of Waukegan, the sheriff's radio was flashing the alarm. Squad cars in Waukegan, Zion, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Libertyville, and other places in the county raced to their posts. These were supplemented by Cook county highway, Kenosha, Wis., and Barrington police squads.

Unaware of this activity, the six thugs halted two North Chicagoans, Edward Kency of 1617 Grove avenue and Walter Jachiem, 1448 Hervey avenue. Without a word, four of the youths beat their victims to the ground and seized $30 from each of them. They also took Kency's top coat.

Trapped in 26 Minutes.

Leaving the two men stunned on the sidewalk, the robbers continued southward. They were hopelessly cut off now, but they drove leisurely through Highland Park looking for more victims. At the corner of 1st and Walnut streets, in the suburb, a squad car was waiting. Policemen Dennis Driscoll and Clyde Schoonover recognized the bandit auto.

The squad car shot forward and the six youths found themselves looking into a pistol barrel as the police forced them to the curb. It had been just twenty-six minutes since they slugged Vega. They gave up without resistance. They were found to have no guns, but all carried long bladed pocket knives.

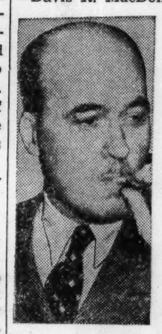
Youngest Only 17 Years Old.

They were taken to the Lake county jail at Waukegan where they admitted the three robberies. They decided on the Lake county raid while attending a dance in a hall at Halsted and Harrison streets in Chicago, they said.

The six gave their names as Anthony Ramirez, 18 years old, of 11065 Morgan street; Simon Martinez, 21, of 1121 South Racine avenue; Frank Batista, 17, of 841 South Halsted street; Apaliner Guerrero, 18, of 1226 South Peoria street; Apolonio Razo, 18, of 641 South Aberdeen street, and Juan Duran, 27, of 1004 South Sangamon street.

Find Vet Alive After 'Widow' Gets Insurance

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Davis R. MacDonald, former Pittsburgh broker, was found alive today after his wife here had divorced him, had him declared legally dead, and had collected three insurance policies on his life.



Davis R. MacDonald. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

MacDonald, who disappeared from Pittsburgh in February, 1924, was found in jail in Los Angeles, where he was held on a charge of writing a bad check for $141. The strange case involves a domestic and legal tangle involving two families.

MacDonald deserted his wife and daughter, then 9 years old. In 1935 a jury declared MacDonald legally dead and the government paid his $10,000 war risk insurance policy to his supposed widow. Two other companies also paid the face value of policies to Mrs. MacDonald.

Wife Weds; Mate Dies.

After getting a divorce, Mrs. MacDonald was married to William M. Brown, who died in 1936.

MacDonald was 31 years old when he fled from Pittsburgh. He wrote a suicide note and left his hat and coat on a river bank.

"I was a coward for not going through with it," he said in Los Angeles today.

MacDonald was a world war aviator, and it was war department finger prints that made his identification possible today. Tonight MacDonald was worried over his second wife hearing about his past.

Rears Second Family.

When he left Pittsburgh, he said, he went to New Orleans and engaged in the office equipment business. A few months later he met the woman who is the mother of his two children. In 1927 MacDonald took his second family to California, where he engaged in various sales jobs.

MacDonald will appear in Pasadena court for sentence Nov. 21. He was arrested Nov. 4 on the check charge and pleaded guilty. John Hanson, head of the Los Angeles office of the federal bureau of investigation, said he does not believe MacDonald can be held on any federal charge.

ROWDIES KNOCK DOWN CANDLES; JEER CATHOLICS

Whistle While 5,000 Intone a Hymn.

MUNICH, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Anti-Catholic feelings flared again today when rowdies whistled and jeered as 5,000 worshipers intoned a hymn in St. Mary's square. The disturbers then knocked down lighted candles and trampled floral decorations arranged for the religious festival.

A few minutes after the disturbance started a flying squad of police cleared the square, which by then was completely occupied by anti-Catholics.

While police watched, a youth climbed the pedestal of the historic column "Mariensaeule," erected in the square in honor of the Virgin Mary, and tore down the remaining decorations.

Police Look On.

Indignant shouts went up from onlookers but police did not interfere and departed after he had finished his job.

Catholics had assembled in the square for the tercentenary celebration of erection of the column. The first part of the observance, a special service at St. Peter's cathedral, was without incident. When the churchgoers joined the crowd in the square the disturbance followed.

Cardinal Michael von Faulhaber did not officiate at the service, but it was understood he was avoiding public appearances in view of yesterday's window smashing at his palace when an excited crowd threw stones. The attack followed an address by Adolf Wagner, Bavarian Nazi leader, who denounced "Roman Catholic allies of Jews."

The cardinal last Sunday urged his congregation to uphold personal rights which he charged Nazis with violating.

Divide Catholic Properties.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Nov. 13.—The Catholic University society in Salzburg has been dissolved and its properties divided between the archbishopric in Vienna and the Ahnenberge institute in Berlin, it was officially announced today.

"We will solve the problem of political Catholicism in the same way as we have solved the Jewish problem," said Jugo Jury, a Nazi leader, in a speech at Gaensendorf, near Vienna. "We can never allow our schools, to which are entrusted the youth and future of our people, to fall into the hands of anti-Nazi parties."

The question of Catholic youth education was touched upon today in a circular letter signed by Cardinal Theodore Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna. It was read from all Roman Catholic pulpits. The cardinal told the Catholics to disregard what he called rumors aimed at persuading Catholics to leave the church. He branded as false one reported rumor that parents would be forced to pay 20 cents an hour for the religious education of each child. Another reported rumor that a heavy church tax would be imposed in Austria was described by the cardinal as a "malicious invention."

NAZIS ASSESS RICH JEWS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—Nazi authorities today called on rich Berlin Jews to pay for the repairs of stores and buildings wrecked last week by Nazi rioters seeking revenge for the murder of a German diplomat by a Polish Jew. The diplomat, Ernst von Rath, secretary of the German embassy, was shot last Monday and died Wednesday.

Assessments levied on individual Jews ranged from $20,000 to $60,000. They are payable tomorrow. Jews who received assessment notices were informed that these payments did not free them from contributing to the $400,000,000 which must be paid by Jews to Adolf Hitler's government as a penalty for the murder of the German diplomat.

One hundred and sixty leaders of Berlin's Jews met in an all night session in a desperate effort to find a way for the payment of this fine.

Hunt Plan of Their Own.

So far Jewish leaders have not been told in what way the government expects to collect the money. A spokesman for the Jewish leaders said they wanted to suggest a plan of their own before the Nazis decided how the $400,000,000 is to be paid. He refused to disclose whether the Jewish leaders had reached a plan. Some declared the levy would ruin the Jews.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, warned Germans not to repeat last Thursday's wrecking of Jewish stores.

"In very short time all Jewish shops and business undertakings in Germany will be in German hands," he said. "Thus whoever damages them damages German national wealth. The government is on the watch!"

The propaganda minister delivered his warning in an address before 500 winter relief workers at a "one dish" dinner in Germania hall in north Berlin, this being the Sunday in November on which the public was allowed to eat only one dish. Germans are expected to contribute the money thus saved to the winter relief fund.

German Jews Called Guilty.

Goebbels in his address declared that German Jews were guilty of the murder of Von Rath, who will be accorded a state funeral in Duesseldorf next Thursday.

"German Jews are at work throughout the world against Germany and now they must bear the consequences of their crime," Goebbels said. "Far too long have German Jews been treated too tenderly, thanks to German generosity and kindliness. A stop has been made."

The propaganda minister was interrupted repeatedly by wild cheers as he spoke of Saturday's new anti-Semitic measures. Although warning against individual anti-Jewish actions, he said the government "will leave no provocation of international Jewry unanswered."

"The Jewish question will find a rapid solution satisfactory to the wishes of the German people," he said. "The people wish it and we shall execute their wish."

Goebbels remarked that Germany was not affected by foreign campaigns against Germany following the anti-Jewish raids and measures.

It was disclosed that in Vienna 40 Hitler Guards and Hitler Troopers were dismissed from their organizations for having participated in "private plunderings" during last Thursday's anti-Jewish disorders.

Jewish Women Seized.

Meanwhile the sufferings of 800,000 German Jews who have been branded as outcasts were heightened by fear of what will become of their relatives who were imprisoned or have been confined in hospitals. Jewish women were arrested yesterday and today when they told the police that they did not know the whereabouts of their husbands or other male relatives the Nazis sought to arrest.

At Salzburg sixteen university students were reported to have been arrested on suspicion of high treason. It was said they belonged to a secret anti-Nazi fraternity.

As a result of the Nazi drive on Jews the Jewish hospital in Berlin, which has between five and six hundred beds, has been left with only six doctors. The Jewish "Krankenheim" of the strictly orthodox Jews with sixty beds and a private Jewish hospital with forty beds have no doctors at all.

The Jewish community in Berlin had just one branch open to provide funds for those who became penniless following the destruction of their stores and homes. It was closed today.

Home for Orphans Shut.

In Caputh, near Berlin, a home for Jewish students and orphans was closed and the children told to leave. Jewish groups were trying to find some of the penniless children.

Reports from Munich said the Jewish Old Peoples' home, which houses 120 men and women between the ages of 70 and 90, was closed and the inmates turned out.

Jews in Vienna petitioned Joseph Buerckel, Nazi commissioner for Austria, to permit certain shops and cafés to serve them. All Jewish shops are still closed. Some shop fronts have been splashed with red paint. Some bear signs stating they have been "Aryanized," while on others are notices reading: "Placed in the hands of the state property custodian for sale."

It is expected that the money derived from these sales will be turned over to the state in part payment of the $400,000,000 fine imposed on the Jews.

There were reports in Vienna that Jews will be forced to wear a yellow badge denoting their race. The Nazi leader of Salzburg announced that the city now is free of Jews.

JEWS TO BE TRIED BY ITALY AS FOES OF RULE BY DUCE

Fascists Fan Support for Drive on Semites.

ROME, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The impending trial of a group of Italian Jews charged with anti-Fascism has given the Fascist propaganda machine a new weapon for whipping up popular support for the régime's anti-Semitic measures.

The names of only two of the accused have been made public. They are Prof. Eugenio Colorni, 29 years old, a student of philosophy, and Dino Philipson, 57, a former member of the Italian chamber of deputies.

The exact charges against the pair and the exact trial date have not been announced, but the controled press accuses them of being agents in a campaign of hostility against Italy by "international Jewry."

Number of Arrests Secret.

This campaign is said to include propaganda against the régime, circulation of false rumors and manipulation of the country's currency to undermine its financial stability.

The arrests, the number of which still is secret, introduced a new note into Fascist anti-Semitism. The original doctrin promulgated last July argued the scientific necessity of preserving purity of the Italian race. Later the Fascist press concentrated on the desirability of limiting Jewish activities in proportion to their numerical representation in the country.

With the arrest of Colorni, Philipson and their alleged associates, the newspapers came forth with the statement that Jewish plotting against Italy had been the motive for anti-Semitism from the start. The mass of Italian Jews was pictured, at least by implication, as enemies of the régime.

Harsher Treatment Threatened.

Simultaneously, the press warned that these disclosures of Jewish anti-Fascism might produce harsher discrimination against Italian Jews than already had been decreed. In this they echoed Premier Mussolini's declaration at Trieste last September that the future attitude of Italy toward its Hebrew population might depend upon the behavior of its co-religionists abroad.

The accused Jews will be tried by the special tribunal for defense of the state established several years ago to deal with political criminals.

In cases of espionage or treason the special tribunal has pronounced death sentences. In the case of Colorni and Philipson the Fascist press is calling for the "severest penalties."

URGE U. S. TO END TRADE RELATIONS WITH GERMANY

A resolution urging that the United States break off trade relations with Germany was telegraphed to President Roosevelt yesterday by the Jewish People's Committee Against Fascism and Anti-Semiticism. H. Jacobs, 2909 Augusta boulevard, secretary of the committee, said a committee will be sent to the Jewish congress and the Jewish labor committee to urge that they pass similar resolutions. At the same time the Chicago group urged that organizations and individuals of all creeds send pleas to Washington, urging that trade relations with Germany be broken off.

Appeals to World to Pray for Jews in Germany Today

JERUSALEM, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Dr. Isaac Herzog, once chief rabbi of Ireland and now chief rabbi of Palestine, appealed to day for world-wide prayers on behalf of Jews in Germany. Rabbi Herzog designated tomorrow as a day of universal prayer.

Six Bandits Captured in Police Radio Blockade

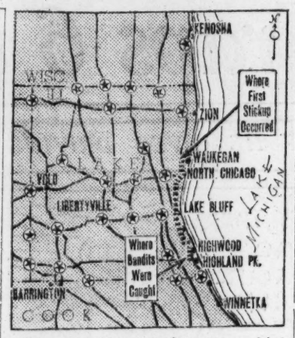
AIMS AT EX-WIFE; SHOT ENDANGERS DAUGHTER'S LIFE

Allen Butler, 31 years old, became resentful Saturday night when his former wife, Mrs. Charlotte Cashmore, appeared at his home with an escort he had never met. Butler lives with his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Mazrin, at 913 Prescott street, Waukegan.

He seized a shotgun and pointed it at Mrs. Cashmore. Her brother, Joseph Mazrin, grappled with Butler. In the struggle the gun was discharged. Slugs from a shell struck a bed in which Betty Lou Butler, 10 years old, daughter of the angered ex-husband, was sleeping. The charge was buried in the mattress and blankets and the child was unhurt. Then Mazrin overpowered Butler and held him for the police, who charged him with attempted murder.

Butler is a brother of William Butler Jr., who was tried in 1930 for the murder of his father, William Sr. The jury acquitted William.



Stars indicate points at which police squad cars took stations when radio warning went out for six bandits who had held up a man in Waukegan. They held up two Notrh Chicagoans before they were captured.

Nazi Cartoon Says Uncle Sam Can Have Jews

BERLIN, Nov. 13. — (AP) — Reichsfuehrer Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, today pictured Uncle Sam as weeping over the plight of Jews in Germany. A cartoon showed a smiling brown shirted Hitler trooper patting the weeping Uncle Sam on the back and saying "Don't cry, Uncle Sam, you can have them, all of them!" The cartoon was captioned: "Solace for a Jew Friend."

KENNEDY TO RUSH HOME TO REPORT ON KING'S VISIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy plans to return to America from London as quickly as possible, it was revealed tonight, to consult with President Roosevelt on events in Europe and the forthcoming visit of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth to Washington, D. C. The disclosure came as a surprise.

Apart from seeing the President, Kennedy is said to have important business affairs needing his attention. In diplomatic quarters it was also suggested that he will take advantage of the trip to make a personal survey of the congressional election results and gauge the significance and probable consequences of Mr. Roosevelt's setback.

It was announced officially tonight that the king and queen will reach Quebec aboard the battle cruiser Repulse on May 15 and will start back from Halifax on June 10. It is understood they will stay four or five days in America. They are to be guests of President Roosevelt at the White House.

HOOVER ASSAILS NAZI TREATMENT OF GERMAN JEWS

Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover issued a public statement today expressing his indignation at the treatment of Jews in Germany.

The statement, prepared at the request of the Federal Council of Churches, was addressed to Samuel McCrae Tavert, general secretary of the federation, New York City.

"I am glad to again evidence my own indignation and to join in an expression of public protest at the treatment of the Jews in Germany," said the statement.

"It is not the German people at large who are to be blamed for this action. The blame is squarely up to the political agencies in power.

"It is still my belief that the German people if they could express themselves would not approve these acts against the Jews. But as they cannot so express themselves, it is the duty of men everywhere to express our indignation not alone at the suffering these men are imposing on an innocent people but at the blow they are striking at civilization itself."

SMALL COLOMBIA MERCHANTS PUSH DRIVE ON JEWS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 13.—An anti-Jewish campaign here is being intensified and is spreading to other cities. The drive is supported largely by small merchants, taxi drivers, barbers, and students who have grouped to fight Semitic competition.

Jewish immigrants have increased and a bill introduced in the senate would "suspend indefinitly authorization of Colombian consuls to visé the passports of Jews." The law also authorizes the government to protect national industries against competition with colonies of Jews, Poles, Chinese, Turks, and Syrians.

The press in opposing the law points out that Colombia should be proud of opening the doors to immigrants without racial discrimination.

FALL FROM SCAFFOLD FATAL.

Arthur H. Anderson, 43 years old, 26 West Marquette road, died yesterday in the Holy Cross hospital. Anderson, a riveter, was injured Friday when he fell from a scaffold on which he was working at 51st street and Archer avenue.

SWIVEL CHAIR CRIME HUNTERS GET THEIR MEN

Catch Robbers Without Moving from Desks.

[Chicago no longer is a crime capital, thanks to a police department which has achieved an enviable record for law enforcement in recent years. This is the second of a series of articles by Joseph Ator of THE TRIBUNE staf telling the reasons for the police department's rising record.]

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Not all the criminals who land in Chicago police cells owe their arrest to the vigilance of foot patrolmen, the speed of the radio squads or to smart detectives. Many crime careers are cut short by a group of men whose work never takes them away from their desks on the sixth floor of police headquarters.

They are the personnel of the bureau of criminal information and statistics, organized in its present form shortly after Commissioner Allman took office. This is the office that keeps its finger constantly on the crime pulse of the city. If that pulse goes up it can tell the rest of the department why.

Some convicts who entered Joliet only a few months ago owe their arrest to these crime bookkeepers. They were members of gangs of chain store bandits.

They're Trouble Shooters.

Early this year the city's robbery rate, which had been going down steadily since 1932, started to climb. Ten years ago the police commissioner might not have known of this. That was in the days when police captains could "suppress crime" by tossing half their complaints in the waste basket. Today the crime records flash a red signal whenever crime of any type increases.

Commissioner Allman got the red danger flash on the robberies. He called in his executive officers and asked why, and where, and how the increase was taking place. Down in the criminal statistics bureau, clerks took punch cards listing all the robberies since the first of the year and started them jumping over the electric hurdles of a Hollerith machine.

The Answer Pops Out.

That intricate machine, developed originally in the census bureau, mechanically sorts cards on which information has been punched in a code system. It is an invaluable aid in classifying statistics. Out of the machine popped the answer to the robbery problem.

The robberies were taking place in chain stores. The robbers struck, almost invariably, between 4 p. m. and closing time, when receipts in the cash registers were largest.

Some district captains had been aware of the problem. They had attempted to solve it by stationing plain clothes men in stores which had been robbed, or which they guessed might be robbed. They put many of them into aprons to pose as clerks, which may explain to some Chicago housewives why they encountered some grocery clerks last spring who didn't know the price of butter.

District Forces Wasted.

But, lacking the board statistical picture of this particular crime wave, the district captains had been wasting the forces, and spreading their men too thin. They were guarding stores all day long, and the robbers weren't striking until after 4 o'clock. By luck, the criminals had avoided the stores which were guarded.

When the police got the facts, they changed their tactics. The number of patrolmen on the middle shift, working from 4 p. m. to midnight, was increased in districts which had been having robberies. The bigger force was put to guarding stores after 4 p. m. Automobile squads were instructed to watch stores closely from 4 p. m. to closing time. Within a few days the robbers were captured.

Up on the top floor of the Central police building at 11th and State streets is another room. It is the nerve center of the department. Because the radio calls which send squads speeding to crime scene originate there, it is popularly known as the radio room.

The radio, however, is only the more spectacular phase of its business. Its proper name is the central complaint room, and it is here that are gathered the crime statistics which have done so much to improve the efficiency of the Chicago police.

In the room is the central switchboard that receives all telephone calls from the public. To get that switchboard, you dial or call POLice 1313. If you are in a hurry, or calling in the dark, the words, "Police alarm," to the telephone operator will get your connection just as quickly. Follow one of these calls on its progress through the room, and you will see how the nerve center sends the department into action.

Cool in Emergencies.

As the calls come in a central operator switches them, without answering, to the women operators at stations around the room. They are veterans, cool in emergencies. Their first concern is whether the report is of a crime in progress.

If it is, they open a switch which flashes a light in the radio booth. The radio operator listens in on the complaint. While the citizen who calls is still speaking, the radio operator is speaking into his microphone. The moment he gets the address, he puts it on the air, and from one to half a dozen squad cars spring into action.

Complainants often do not understand this. They become irked when the woman operator asks them for further details, not realizing that the squad is already on the way to their aid. If they are sufficiently loquacious, it may arrive before they hang up. The average time taken to answer a radio call is two minutes or less.

Extra Information Sought.

The operator asks for more details in order to fill out a criminal complaint form. These forms are numbered serially. The operators pass them to a long table at the center of the room, where half a dozen men, police operators, are working.

If the complaint is not an emergency which the radio operator has picked up on the fly these operators judge whether it is of sufficient importance to be put on the air, or whether it should be sent by telephone to the district station for action.

Each of these complaints has a serial number. Regardless of whether it is broadcast, it is sent to the district desk sergeant, who enters it on his district complaint book. At the end of the day, or night, all these complaints go down to the sixth floor, where they are started through the statistical mill.

The serial numbers are what keeps Chicago crime records foolproof. The district captain, or the detective bureau, if it gets the complaint, must make a report on every crime reported to him by the complaint room. If he fails a regular audit of the serially numbered complaints leads to an investigation.

Efficiency Is Doubled.

Police radio has doubled the efficiency of the Chicago department. Before it came in the desk sergeant got the complaint and had to wait for a foot patrolman or a squad to make an hourly call before he could assign any one to investigation. The only emergency vehicle was the patrol wagon, which frequently was miles from the station when needed. Now, as has been said, the average complaint gets action in two minutes.

Police broadcasts were started in 1929 over W-G-N, the Tribune station. They were continued, experimentally, from March until June of that year. On Aug. 8, 1930, the department put its own short wave station into operation. The present central complaint room was set up two years later.

Since 1933, the first full year of radio operation, the proportion of arrests made as a result of radio alarms has nearly doubled. In that year the department made 121,614 arrests, of which 12,688, or 10.4 per cent, were made on radio alarms. Last year the number of arrests had declined to 93,236, but of these 17,250, or 18.5 per cent were made on radio calls.

621,449 Calls in Year.

Last year the central complaint room received 621,449 telephone calls, all but about 60,000 over the public telephone system. The radio transmitted 183,307 alarms to Chicago police squads, of which a little more than one in four turned out to be false alarms. In addition, the police broadcasting stations handled 43,933 calls for suburban departments. During the year the 200-odd radio cars in the Chicago department missed only 158 calls.

ACCUSED STATE AIDS DENY ARSON CASE WAS FAKED

Rap Jury Failure to Indict Two on Confessions.

The defense of State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas and his chief investigator, Roscoe C. Bonjean, to charges against them in connection with Chicago's notorious fake arson case, was disclosed yesterday. Coultas and Bonjean accuse the September grand jury of Cook county of a gross miscarriage of justice for failing to indict Frank Kolesiak and Emil Guerrieri.

This grand jury, which spent several days investigating the repudiated confessions in the arson case, was blamed in a petition filed by Bonjean with the Illinois State Bar association. He did so in response to a petition filed by Attorney Joseph T. Harrington seeking action against Bonjean, who is an attorney and member of the bar association of Sangamon county.

Seeks Kidnaping Warants.

Attorney Harrington has asked warants against Coultas, Bonjean and others on charges of kidnaping, falsely imprisoning and extorting a fake confession from Kolesiak and Guerrieri. These two were accused by amateur sleuths of setting fire to the Center hotel, 1422-30 Madison street, which burned last April 6 with a loss of eight lives.

Coultas and Bonjean came here from Springfield early in September. Kolesiak was seized in his home and taken to a hotel and questioned. Guerrieri was taken into custody on the street by two men who said they were "G-men" but later were identified as a policeman and an amateur investigator. Subsequently Kolesiak and Guerrieri were turned over to the state's attorney's office.

Coultas and Bonjean produced typewritten confessions they said Kolesiak and Guerrieri had made to them.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan started to get corroborating evidence. He learned that Kolesiak had an ironclad alibi. He was twenty miles away at the exact minute the fire started. Kolesiak and Guerrieri said they had confessed because of beatings, intimidation and mistreatment.

State Still Investigating.

"They are the confessed arson murderers of eight innocent man," Attorney Bonjean informed the Illinois Bar association. "Freeing them was a gross miscarriage of justice but their part in this tragedy is still being investigated although they are being aided by forces subversive to law and order."

Judge John J. Rooney of the Felony court postponed action on Harrington's request for warants until after the election. He is due to take up the matter again tomorrow but because he has not been sitting in the Felony court during the past few weeks Attorney Harrington wrote to him yesterday asking where he would be sitting tomorrow.

"I expect action Tuesday," Harrington said.

INDIANA GRAND JURY TO PROBE GUN DEATH OF HIGH SCHOOL HEAD

Wabash, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Wabash county grand jury will be called within a few days to investigate the mysterious shooting of Paul Bartholomew, principal of Lagro, Ind., High school, who died yesterday of six bullet wounds.

Paul Bartholomew.

Mrs. Fred Harrell, wife of Bartholomew's lifelong friend, is in jail here to await the outcome of the investigation. She told Sheriff C. W. Stephenson that Bartholomew shot himself when they were alone in the kitchen of her home.

According to Mrs. Harrell's story, her husband, an employé of a public service company, had gone across the street to his office for a few minutes about 3 a. m. after they had eaten a lunch. She and Bartholomew were sitting at a table in the kitchen when he grabbed an automatic pistol and shot himself despite her attempt to wrest the weapon away from him, she said.

Stephenson and other investigators were unable to understand how Bartholomew, who had only one arm, could have shot himself in both sides, in his back, and in his chest.

SWALLOWS POISON AND DIES.

1938 ROAD JOBS IN CHICAGO AREA COST $7,800,000

Expect $8,000,000 to Be Spent Next Year.

With the 1938 construction season drawing to a close, Robert Kingery, manager of the Chicago Regional Planning association, estimated yesterday that $7,800,000 has been spent this year on highway improvements within a radius of 50 miles of the loop. For 1939, he foresaw $8,000,000 in trafic betterments for this area.

Kingery listed four projects of superhighway character as outstanding among the 1938 improvements.

These projects are:

1. Modernization of the Lincoln highway west of Valparaiso, Ind., an extension of 1937 modernization in Lake county, Ind. A four lane pavement is now divided by a broad center park on a 200 foot right of way for the 21 miles from U. S. 41 to Valparaiso.

2. Reconstruction of Higgins road from east of Dundee to Ill. 53. Eleven miles of 22 foot pavement is being laid on a 240 foot right of way with provisions for a future parallel 22 foot pavement with a center parkway.

4. The Three States highway, Ill. 54, part of a belt route from Wisconsin to Indiana around Chicago, is under construction from North avenue to the intersection of Higgins road and Oakton street.

Other Major Projects Listed.

Other projects listed as of major benefit to trafic are:

103d street—Paved from Torrence avenue to Stony Island avenue.

Ill. 53—Completed between Glen Ellyn and Lombard, including grade separations with three railroads and one highway.

Ill. 54—Finished subway under Soo line north of Mundelein.

Ogden Viaduct Biggest Job.

The largest single structure in this two years' program is the $800,000 viaduct to carry four lanes of Ogden avenue trafic over an existing Cicero avenue subway under the Burlington railroad embankment. This work, started this year for completion in 1939 is attracting attention of the engineering world because it is being carried on without interfering with rail trafic.

Yesterday morning, after a streamliner passed at 2:10 a. m., an eighty ton beam was swung into place before the next train was due two hours later. A second beam of the same size, largest of the prefabricated pieces, will be placed at the same hour next Saturday morning. It is the only pause in the week's rail trafic sufficient for this operation.

CROWDS AT AUTO SHOW EXCEED LAST YEAR'S HIGH

82,000 Pass Through Gates Over Week-End.

BY HAL FOUST.

The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—these tradesmen of the juvenile jingle and all the other craftsmen, professional men, merchants, laborers, housewives, working girls, and children of a conglomerate metropolitan population attended Chicago's 39th annual automobile show over the week-end 82,000 strong. It was a demonstration that the interest in motor cars is not confined to any age group or social or financial stratum.

H. T. Hollingshead.

S. L. Davis, chairman of the show committee, said that this two days' attendance exceeded last year's gate tally by 14 per cent. For the eight days of the 1937 exhibition, the count was announced as an all time high of 316,000. The current show, in the International Amphitheater at Halsted and 43d streets, will continue daily from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. through next Saturday night.

Sales Ahead of Last Year.

H. T. Hollingshead, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, sponsor of the show, said this public interest in the 1939 models is not idle curiosity. It's acquisitive. He reported that sales during the first two days are 9 per cent ahead of last year.

Although the annual automobile show is considered a barometer of the market, the sales report for only two days was considered as inadequate as a basis for a business forecast. However, it cheered executives from the factories who are in Chicago to watch buying. The industry suffered a 47 per cent loss in sales during their 1938 model year as compared with the previous year. The show is the beginning of a new sales year, and executives are hopeful that the sales curve will look like the stock market reports after last Tuesday's elections.

They Go to Learn.

Of course, not every one who's going to the automobile show is going to buy. The multitude is there to see what every one's talking about these days, at lunch tables, bridge parties, in theater lobbies, and on construction jobs. Attendance is an education in a common subject of conversation—the new gear shift levers, independent wheel suspension, better driver visibility, more luggage space.

There's entertainment, too—music, colorful decorations, pretty girls. Twice daily, at 4 p. m. and at 9 p. m., there's a pageant, a stage performance depicting the evolution of highway vehicles from the bicycle and horse-drawn phaeton era, through the age of one and two cylinder horseless buggies, to today's fleet streamliners. The prevailing verdict is that it is better than anything ever before presented at an automobile show. The director is John Ross Reed, who staged "Wings of the Century" at A Century of Progress.

Business conventions related to the show will open today in loop hotels. Factory chiefs will address dealers from the midwest advising them on merchandising campaigns for the next year. The American Petroleum institute and the National Association of Sales Finance companies will open their annual sessions, both in the Stevens hotel.

Auto Show Notes

Interest shown by the large crowds at the auto show is encouraging all Chicago dealers, declared Harry T. Hollingshead, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association and president of Nash Sales, Inc., Chicago distributor for Nash. "We have had clear evidence of an improvement in confidence and now that the elections are over we expect further increases in sales," he said.

Visitors at the Hudson display yesterday were interested in the dual braking system on the new Hudsons. The regular brakes are of the hydraulic type. However, should the hydraulic brakes fail, a mechanical brake takes hold. All the driver has to do is to push the brake pedal harder than he normally would.

The management of the Chicago show is to be congratulated for the interesting way it has handled the exhibits, Lee D. Cosart, assistant general sales manager of the Plymouth Motor corporation, said yesterday. "One of the best ways to tell whether business is good or only fair is to ask how is the automobile business doing," he said. "That question is being answered at the Chicago show."

FATHER'S FATE IN WIFE SLAYING UP TO GIRL OF 10

On the testimony of a pretty blonde child, 10 years old, the state today will try to start her father on his way to the electric chair on a charge of slaying her mother.

The father is James K. Matter, gray haired and cultured engineer. He will go to trial before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne and a jury in the Criminal court, charged with shooting to death his wife Marguerite in their home at 4322 DuBois boulevard in Brookfield on Oct. 1.

The child is Martha Jean, who was responsible for her father's arrest. Reluctant and weeping, she testified against him at the coroner's inquest. She said her parents had quarreled bitterly during the day and again just before the shooting. She told of seeing her father load the rifle. Soon afterward, when she had gone to bed, Martha Jean stated, she heard her mother cry out: "Don't shoot! Don't shoot!" The shot followed almost at once.

The little girl ran into the room, she testified at the inquest, and saw her mother bleeding. Matter was picking the rifle off the floor. He wiped it thoroughly, she said, and remarked that her mother had shot herself.

RED CAP BOB, 65, LOOKS BACK UPON HIS BIG MOMENTS

He'll Be First in Country to Retire on Pension.

BY MARCIA WINN.

For forty-five years Robert Irvine has been helping people board trains. For thirty-six of these years he has been a red cap in the La Salle street station, his wiry little figure as brisk as that of any man twenty years younger than he.

Beginning Dec. 1, however, Robert, or Bob as he has been known to three generations of travelers, plans to board a few trains himself. When he does, he plans to have a red cap carry his bags, and to tip the red cap 25 cents.

Bob has been a red cap for the last thirty-six years, working for the Rock Island railroad. He will be 65 on Nov. 23, and seven days later he will become the first red cap in the country to be retired on pension. He feels he can embark on his travels well versed in train etiquet.

Worth 25 Cents, He Says.

"Now, the average tip," he says, "is 25 cents, and it ought to be. It's worth it. Once I got $25 from a party from New York, but that was in the days when $5 was nothing, but now—25 cents and you're lucky.

"The worst tightwad I ever met? John D. Rockefeller. Why, I had a truckload for him once back twenty years ago, and do you know what he gave me? Fifteen cents!"

Bob insists you can judge human nature by the way its wearer catches a train. Now, take Mary Pickford. He loves her; he says he'd love her if she only gave him a dime, instead of a dollar, because she always smiles. "She's a grand woman," he said. "Plenty grand."

"I've carried bags for Roosevelt when he was governor," he said, "for Harding and Wilson when they were president and for old Teddy with the big stick [Theodore Roosevelt], and they're all alike to me because they treated me right.

Morgan and Durante All Right.

"Now J. Pierpont Morgan was all right, and Schnozzle Durante's a regular fellow. Samuel Insull was always fair to me, and J. Ogden Armour was fine. But my favorite—Mme. Schumann-Heink. She was just like a mother to us. She always had a good word for a fellow.

"But do you know?" leaning forward in a half whisper. "I never yet have seen a woman carry as much luggage as Mary Garden." He whistled. "She needed a whole train."

"As a rule," Bob concluded, "people are getting pretty good natured. But I like to get the crabs. Why? O, because they're better tippers. They know they're that way, and they pay for it."

And now Bob, who lives at 1040 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, will know how to treat a red cap when he goes traveling.

Six Drowned as Auto Dives Into River in Canada

NEW DECREE LAWS CALLED 1ST STEP TO REVIVE FRANCE

Will Add 2 More Drastic Economic Moves.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Finance Minister Paul Reynaud served notice on France today that the thirty-two drastic decree laws announced yesterday may be regarded as "only the first step" by the government to rebuild the nation's economic structure.

Paul Reynaud.

He also announced that two additional decrees would be published Tuesday. The first would oblige foreign merchants doing business in France to obtain a special license. The second would permit groups of public employés and semi-public organizations to organize coöperative buying groups for wholesale purchases of food, coal, and other necessities.

To Reduce Public Pay Roll.

Another prospective act which Reynaud said the government contemplated would be the creation of a committee to halt immediately any increase in the number of government employés.

This move is necessary, he said, to reduce state employment lists which at present total 960,000 civil and military workers on public pay rolls. He declared the economy drive would extend to all branches of government, including the discharge of 40,000 workers in the national railway system who will be reemployed in factories manufacturing national defense equipment.

Blum Hits Program.

Former Socialist Premier Leon Blum, addressing a Socialist party meeting at Lille, struck out viciously at the Reynaud program, particularly that part extending the 40 hour week.

"At this moment there is not one single industry in the country which can work over 40 hours," Blum said.

The new decrees did not change officially "the principle" of the 40 hour week, but said there would be "certain modifications" of the 40 hour week law for a period of three years.

Blum, discussing the new financial measures, said without further explanation that "all the confidence which has been so laboriously built can be upset in a second by a frown from Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini."

LAST OF BRADY'S GANG TO DIE IN INDIANA FRIDAY

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Bertha Craig of Madison, mother of Rhuel James Dalhover, returned here today after visiting the outlaw on the federal prison farm at Milan, Mich. He will be taken to the Indiana prison in Michigan City some time this week and put to death in the electric chair early Friday morning for the slaying of Patrolman Paul V. Minneman near Logansport in May, 1937. Mrs. Craig said her son offered himself to scientists for experiments with deadly germs rather than to be executed in "the crude electric chair."

The United States Supreme court recently refused to review Dalhover's appeal from the seventh district federal court of appeals in Chicago. He is the only surviving member of the Al Brady gang which engaged federal agents in a fierce gun battle last October in Bangor, Me.

G. O. P. FINDS NEW FRAUD EVIDENCE IN INDIANA VOTE

State Leaders Map Course of Fight on Machine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Increasing evidence of bribery and vote stealing in Tuesday's election in Indiana piled up today as the Republican state central committee met here.

The meeting was called to coördinate the fight to unseat Democratic candidates that the Townsend-Minton-McHale machine squeezed through on the face of election returns and to clean up the state in anticipation of the 1940 campaign.

Four hot spots already have appeared on the vote fraud front. They are Marion county, where the Democratic machine centers its power in Indianapolis; Vanderburg county, of which Evansville is the county seat; Vigo county, with Indiana's premier tenderloin town, Terre Haute; and the Calumet industrial area in Lake county, adjoining Chicago.

Affidavits Charge Fraud.

In Marion county the Republican party has gathered 400 affidavits charging fraud and vote buying. Their contents are secret, but one affidavit is said to concern a precinct in which Democratic officials, discovering that the Republican tally was substantially higher than that of their own party, blandly switched the two tallies and reported a Democratic majority.

Investigators have started to turn up affidavits in Vigo county. They are confident that they are on the trail of a vote scandal there approaching the proportions of the notorious Donn Roberts case of pre-war days that resulted in 119 federal court convictions.

The Vigo county machine, compounded from the WPA and Terre Haute's underworld, is ruled by Thomas O'Mara. O'Mara was the author of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt's liquor control bill, under which favored Democratic chieftains have been set up—like robber barons on medieval trade routes—to levy tribute on every barrel or case of out-of-state beer brought into Indiana.

Minister Heads Drive.

Down in Evansville, on the Ohio river, an Episcopal minister, the Rev. Joseph G. Moore, is heading a nonpartisan citizens' association for clean elections. His group is in possession of a substantial number of affidavits charging vote buying, state headquarters was informed.

Lake county, on its past record, is suspected but not yet proved as one of the vote fraud centers. Investigators are at work there, but their reports have not come in.

In Sullivan, county seat of Sullivan county, Republicans are up against the first Democratic counterattack. There Tom Gallagher, prosecuting attorney who is allied with the Townsend-Minton-McHale machine, yesterday called an allegedly illegal session of the grand jury.

Sherif Ike Southwood took Walter F. Wood, Republican member of the county canvassing board, before the grand jury. Gallagher demanded that Wood yield the keys to the ballot boxes, which were in the custody of the canvassing board. Wood refused.

Circuit Judge Martin L. Kaig then stepped into the fray. He went before the grand jury, reminded its members that he had dismissed them from duty Nov. 4, told them that in view of that action they possessed no power and were meeting illegally, and demanded that they disperse.

Legal Details Unsettled.

Two legal moves designed to uncover the vote frauds are in preparation. Raymond E. Willis of Angola, Republican candidate who at present is trailing United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat, by about 5,600 votes in election returns, will ask federal courts to preserve election evidence as a basis for a contest before the senate.

Noel C. Neal, former state Appellate court judge, who was Willis campaign manager, said legal details of the court appeal are still to be settled. It is believed, however, that the appeal will be to impound ballots in at least six counties—Marion, Vigo, Vanderburg, Lake Vermilion, and Sullivan.

Willis announced that he considers his potential claim to Van Nuys' senate seat secondary to the issue of clean elections in Indiana. Van Nuys replied that he does not want a seat tainted by fraud. Among the lawyers Van Nuys has engaged to represent him is Frank Dailey, who as United States district attorney in 1914 prosecuted the Donn Roberts case in Terre Haute.

Supplementing the projected federal court action, county Republican organizations will petition for recounts in a number of counties, including the six in which efforts are expected to be made to impound the ballots. These petitions will be heard by state Circuit courts.

These court actions are but preliminary moves. The Republican organization is, of course, hopeful of seating Willis and the candidates on its state ticket who trail in the returns by only from a few score to a few thousand of the million and a half votes cast.

But the organization leaders consider of even greater importance the possibility that recounts and other investigations will yield sufficient evidence of vote frauds to bring about federal grand jury inquiries in areas where activities of the Townsend-Minton-McHale group have been most flagrant. They have hope of cleaning up the state through the federal corrupt practices act.

Democrats Rake Governor.

Factional troubles are beginning to plague the Democratic machine, which Frank McHale, the so-called Jim Farley of the statehouse gang, is trying to keep well oiled as the keystone of McNutt's drive for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination.

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend is criticized by Democratic leaders for his statement the other day that he was satisfied with the outcome of the election. Since the Democrats lost six congressional seats and a host of local offices Townsend's critics hint that his remark smacked of stupidity and marked him as an untrustworthy leader in the 1940 campaign.

Election of Reginald H. Sullivan, a former Democratic mayor, to a new term at the head of the Indianapolis government, also may do the state house crowd more harm than good. Sullivan's closest adviser is Kirk McKinney, who never has seen eye to eye with McNutt, Townsend, Minton, and McHale.

Temperatures lower than any Chicago has experienced this fall are expected today. Forecaster C. A. Donnel indicated that the low this morning might be near 25 degrees. The previous minimum was 30 last Tuesday. Yesterday the mercury rose only to 46 in the afternoon, and last night it dropped sharply. Fair skies and brisk westerly winds were forecast for today.

Horse Stumbles, Pitches Rider and Falls on Him

Charles Lindsay of St. Charles went riding yesterday in Willow road west of Techny. His horse stumbled and Lindsay went over its head. Then the animal somersaulted and fell on him. At the Evanston hospital, where he was taken by a motorist, it was found that Lindsay's collar bone and left arm had been broken.

HEARST'S COLLECTION OF ANTIQUES IS UP TO HIGHEST BIDDER TODAY

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—W. R. Hearst's notable collection of historical and literary autographs and manuscripts as well as his collection of early American furniture and historical blue Staffordshire china will be sold at auction this week at the Parke-Bernet galleries in Fith avenue.

The collection of Americana covers a period from the middle of the seventeenth to the opening of the present century, beginning in 1638 with an Indian deed to the land on which Exeter, N. H., was founded by John Wheelwright.

This is followed by two letters by William Penn, a series of documents on witchcraft in New England, a number of letters by Cotton Mather, and a document relating to the "Mississippi bubble" land fraud and signed by the Sieur de Bienville, founder of New Orleans.

LANDON NAMED U. S. DELEGATE TO LIMA PARLEY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has appointed former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his Republican opponent in the 1936 presidential campaign, to the delegation which will represent the United States at the coming conference of the American republics in Lima, Peru. Secretary of State Cordell Hull is chairman.

Among others in the delegation will be the Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university; Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state; Laurence A. Steinhardt, ambassador to Peru; R. Henry Norweb, minister to the Dominican Republic; Emilio del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the Porto Rican Supreme court, and Dan W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. The conference will open Dec. 9.

WARN MOTORISTS TO OPEN GARAGES IN WARMING CARS

Motorists were warned yesterday against the peril of warming up cold motors in closed garages. Deadly carbon monoxide fumes from automobile exhausts already have begun to take lives in the Chicago area, said a bulletin issued by the Greater Chicago Safety council.

"Drivers who warm up car motors without opening the doors of the garage are making a mistake that has proved fatal to many," the bulletin said. "Carbon monoxide is produced by the combustion of gasoline. If the doors are closed it cannot escape. The driver inhales it. Before he is aware of his danger he has been overcome."

HUSBAND, IN RAGE, SUSPECTS RIVAL AND SHOOTS HIM

Former Inmate of Asylum Seized After Attack.

Three men were playing cards last night in Mrs. Lucille Konwinski's tavern, 3188 Avondale avenue, when a man carrying a shotgun came in. He pointed the gun at one of the players, Fred Rosencrans, 37 years old, 3236 North Troy street, and cried:

"You broke up my home."

Then he fired. Most of the charge took effect in Rosencrans' back. Andrew Boberg, 2708 North Fairfield avenue, who was in the card game, grappled with the gunman, wrested away his weapon and held him for the police. He is Philip Hirsch, 57, of 3186 Avondale avenue. His wife, Cora, 55, told police he was released from the Dunning asylum three years ago after a long stay and had been acting strangely.

Rosencrans, yard foreman for a coal company, was taken to the Belmont hospital. He and his companions, as well as Mrs. Hirsch, said there was no basis for Hirsch's accusation.

UNION PRESIDENT LAYS BEATING TO RIVALS' THREATS

Benjamin M. Brown, union leader who was beaten Saturday by unidentified assailants in his home in Markham, asserted yesterday that he had received threats from representatives of a rival union. He is president of the Live Stock Handlers' union, No. 567, affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

"Two of our stewards, James McQuade and Joseph McAuliff, were beaten in our headquarters at 1632 West 48th street last Monday," said Brown. "With the sluggers, I was informed, was an official of the American Federation of Labor union that is opposing our membership drive. James Winkelman, a vice president, and I obtained a warant Wednesday charging this official with assault."

Corliss Bliss, Chenoa, Ill., looking over a few of the mechanical penny banks exhibited at the hobby show opening today at the Stevens hotel.

A fortune in collectors' items will be displayed at the Chicago Antiques Exposition and Hobby show opening today in the Stevens hotel. The show, held annually for thousands of persons who supply museum and private collections, is said to be the largest of its kind in the world. It will occupy the entire exposition hall at the hotel.

Antiques of many types are included in the exposition, O. C. Lightner, managing director, said. They range from rare stamps to old furniture, embracing cameo collections, Indian relics, paintings, glassware, buttons, firearms, dolls and thousands of other objects.

Collectors are showing especial interest in early American historical material, Lightner said, particularly colonial primitives—tools and utensils.

The Samuel Insull collection of jewels will have its first public showing. Confiscated by the government in lieu of taxes, it was acquired by J. J. Bittle, Des Moines jeweler and collector, who has brought it here.

Attendants will wear costumes of other days, some more than 100 years old

HUNT KILL-CRAZY GUNMAN AFTER SHOOTING OF TWO

Police hunted in vain yesterday for a crazed gunman who killed a colored man, wounded a colored woman, and tried to kill several other persons Saturday night in the West North avenue district.

The madman, who is white, was driving an automobile. First he tried to run down Mr. and Mrs. A. Hall, 2154 Hubbard street, who were walking in Ferdinand street near Damen avenue. Three times he drove his car onto the sidewalk at them. When they ran into a house at 2053 Ferdinand street, the maniac fired six shots into the house. John Hollis, 59 years old, colored, was hit three times in the chest and killed. Mrs. Arthrine Middleton, 26, colored, who lives on the second floor, was wounded in the right leg.

Capt. Harry O'Connell of the North avenue station said there was no apparent provocation for any of the acts of the killer. An inquest into the death of Hollis will be held this morning in the county morgue.

HUNTER IS SHOT; HIS COMPANION SAVES HIS LIFE

A student's knowledge of first aid last night probably saved the life of a companion who was accidentally shot in a hunting accident.

Daniel Parrilli.

Daniel Parrilli, 22 years old, 6311 Wayne avenue, and John Caporali, 1453 Taylor street, both students at Lewis institute, were hunting yesterday near Carpentersville in Kane county. They were crossing a field when Caporali's gun was accidentally discharged. Slugs struck Parrilli in the left thigh. Caporali made a tourniquet with a belt and took his companion to St Joseph's hospital in Elgin. Surgeons there said that the tourniquet had been an important factor in preventing Parrilli from bleeding to death.

GUNMAN SHOOTS 4 IN RESTAURANT ON SOUTH SIDE

Four persons were shot last night by a colored gunman who invaded the restaurant at 3900 Wentworth avenue, where they were eating, and fired without warning.

Those wounded are Albert Racow, 23 years old, 3932 Wells street; William Rosebourgh, 30, and his wife, Susie, 26, of 15037 Lincoln street, Harvey, both colored, and William Bryant, 21, colored, of 3938 Wells street. Mrs. Rosebourgh is in a serious condition in the County hospital.

Lieut. William Keith of the Stockyards station ordered a search for Johnnie Lee Jormon, 30, colored, of 4219 Wabash avenue, described as Mrs. Rosebourgh's former sweetheart, as the alleged gunman.

MOTHER CABRINI BEATIFIED; POPE ATTENDS RITES

Cardinal Mundelein Heads Prelates in Ceremony.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mother Francesca Saverio Cabrini today became the first American citizen numbered by the Roman Catholic church among its blessed in heaven.

Peter Smith, who testified to miracle.

Mother Cabrini, who devoted her life to Italian immigrants in the United States and became a naturalized American herself, was beatified in moving ceremonies in St. Peter's cathedral.

Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, who celebrated the beatification mass, paid Mother Cabrini tribute in the first radio broadcast delivered by an American prelate from the basilica in St. Peter's.

While Pope Pius XI. was officiating at the high altar an accumulation of wax caught fire in the base of one of the wooden chandeliers holding candles around a bronze altar canopy. Vatican firemen were called, but they decided the flames were no danger.

Founded Sacred Heart Order.

After the pope had departed one of them climbed a ladder and extinguished the blaze with a bucket of water. Few in the audience were aware of the mishap.

Beatification, which entitles her memory to special veneration in the localities where she did her good works, was a step toward sainthood for Mother Cabrini, founder of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

Should she be elevated to the sainthood, Mother Cabrini might be the first American to be so honored by the Roman Catholic church.

For sainthood to be attained at least two more miracles would have to be proved before the congregation of rites after beatification.

A colorful congregation of high prelates and spectators heard a cathedral canon read the bull of beatification that placed the venerable mother among the blessed for two miracles of healing attributed to her intervention.

Pope at One of Rites.

According to custom, Pope Pius did not attend the first service in the richly decorated and lighted basilica in the morning, appearing only for the afternoon rites.

Cardinals of the congregation of rites and the full chapter of the cathedral were seated before the high altar for the morning ceremony.

Cardinal Mundelein, who celebrated today's mass, officiated at the funeral mass at Mother Cabrini's death in 1917. Churchmen said he was the first prelate ever to celebrate the mass of beatification for a person at whose funeral mass he also officiated.

In the audience were Sister Delfina Grazioli, formerly of Seattle, Wash., and young Peter Smith of New York, whose testimony that they were miraculously healed through Mother Cabrini's intercession resulted in the pope's placing her among the blessed.

For Pope Pius' arrival in the afternoon a brilliant crowd assembled, including the full papal court and the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See.

The pope knelt at the bishop's chair and gently swung an incense burner before the sacrament exposed on the altar while the choir sang a hymn to the newly blessed, an oremus, or invitation to pray, and the tantum ergo, or eucharistic benediction, which closed the religious ceremony.

Hold Rites in New York.

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—All day thousands of Roman Catholics filed through a chapel in upper Manhattan, where reposes the body of Mother Cabrini, "the little nun," who today was beatified by the Catholic church.

In the early morning here, at the hour in St. Peter's cathedral in Rome when Cardinal George Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, was singing the mass which marked the beatification, sixteen men laid the crystal and gold plated bronze casket in a glass fronted, onyx lined receptacle underneath the altar table in the Mother Cabrini High school chapel.

His grace, the Archbishop Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, celebrated mass before the altar, a private mass attended only by nuns of the missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

MANY CHICAGOANS VISIT ROOM WHERE MOTHER CABRINI DIED

While beatification rites were held in Rome yesterday for Mother Francesca Saverio Cabrini, hundreds of Chicagoans visited the room where she died in the Columbus hospital here.

A constant procession of Catholics peered into the simple room in the hospital at 2548 Lake View avenue, which Mother Cabrini founded. The room contains an iron bed, a wooden wash stand, and the wicker rocker in which she was sitting when she passed away.

Benediction services were held at the hospital at 5 p. m. Earlier in the day special masses were celebrated there and at the Mother Cabrini hospital on the west side.

HALF FARE TRIPS FOR PAY ROLLERS ON U. S. VESSELS

Taxpayers Complain, but Jobholders Cruise On.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Federal jobholders can take South American cruises on government operated ships at half the cost to ordinary taxpayers who support the jobholders.

This fact was disclosed today as the United States Maritime commission, which is responsible for this act of generosity, attempted to justify the situation in the face of complaints from private citizens.

The 50 per cent reduction applies to 38 day cruises down the east coast of South America aboard the three luxury liners, the Brazil, the Uruguay and the Argentina. These liners formerly were the Virginia, the California, and the Pennsylvania of the Panama-Pacific line, but were taken over early this year by the government as the nucleus for the only American line operating along the Atlantic coast of South America.

The line is known as the American Republics and will be leased to the Moore McCormack Steamship company on Jan. 1 for private operation under the maritime commission's direction.

The maritime commission decided to operate the line during the fall, which is an off season. Six weeks ago the commission authorized half fares for government officials, employés and their families on all sailings from Oct. 8 to Dec. 31. The order enables federal jobholders to take a cruise for as low as $240 on publicly owned ships, which charge ordinary people $480 and up.

Officials of the maritime authority said they merely were following the private lines' policy of giving reduced rates to employés, and that it is better to operate ships carrying half pay passengers than empty.

When asked, if stimulating business was the intent, why they didn't give ordinary citizens the same benefits, they replied that opinions may differ.

Agents for the American Republics line in Chicago said they had received approximately 200 bookings for the three ships, but only two from government employés.

HARBISON SISTERS OF HOMESTEAD FAME TO BE BURIED AS ONE

Grand Lake, Colo., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The inseparable Harbison sisters, homesteaders of a hardy era, will be buried together tomorrow. Both died of pneumonia, Kitty, 66 years old, last Tuesday, and Annie, 70 years old, yesterday. Everybody knew the "Harbison girls" and so did thousands of tourists who visited their homesteads north of Grand Lake. The sisters became homesteaders in 1896, never married, and preferred hard work and frugality to substantial sums offered for their 400 acres.

U. S. COURT TO GET TRANSIT MERGER REVISION TODAY

The amended Shaw plan for merger of the elevated and surface lines will be presented at 10 a. m. today before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over the companies in receivership. The amended plan, drawn up by Walter A. Shaw, Judge Wilkerson's traction adviser, is satisfactory to the elevated lines, but the surface lines will protest today that it gives too large a participation to the security holders of the elevated lines.

The proposal as it now stands provides for formation of a new company to take over all properties of both systems. Spokesmen for the surface lines said yesterday, however, that they believe a final settlement of the transit muddle is near.

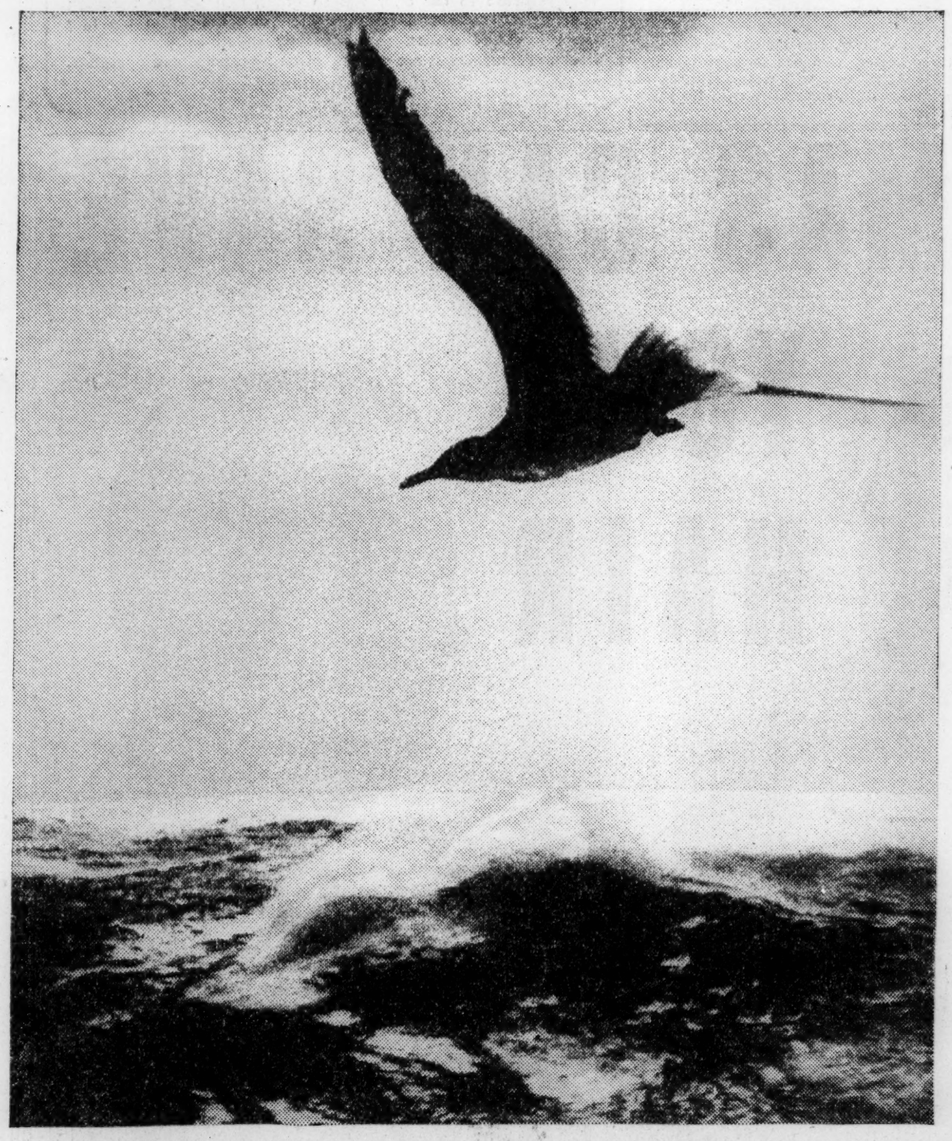
"Fish Gotta Swim, Birds Gotta Fly"



STRAIGHT FROM NATURE COMES A NEW FASHION IN CAR STYLES—

Functional Design

"FISH gotta swim, birds gotta fly"—those six words from a famous song illustrate a fascinating and fundamental principle which automobile engineers call: "FUNCTIONAL DESIGN."

For functional design is the keynote of 1939 motor car progress.

What is Functional Design?

In the words of Carl Breer, Executive Engineer of the Chrysler Corporation:

"The very essence of nature is functional...

"The bird is perfectly constructed so as to apply its power to fly quickly and efficiently through the air.

"Fish are shaped to function efficiently in the liquid medium through which they move.

"In nature, all beauty of form—from the simple shape of a raindrop to the complex grace of a panther—is the result of perfect Functional Design.

"For the greatest engineer and designer of them all is nature, which has fashioned all creatures to move with a minimum of effort and fatigue."

Beauty of form—movement with a minimum of effort and fatigue—those are the real fundamentals of Functional Design which you can now get in your new motor car.

In the new Chrysler Corporation cars for 1939, the beauty and efficiency of Functional Design are strikingly evident both inside and out.

The New Streamlining

These four great new cars—Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler—have a common grace and sleekness of form born of true Functional Design...yet each is completely distinctive in its own individual style.

You will see that many familiar air-resisting protrusions and attachments have disappeared.

New Safety Headlamps

You will see headlamps recessed into the graceful curves of the fenders with more efficient road lighting.

You will see trunks streamlined as an integral part of the body with even greater space for luggage.

You will see windshields bigger for more vision, much greater safety.

But efficiency and beauty of line are only part of the story—other benefits of this development are in luxury.

New Ease of Action

The instruments are placed where the eye can instantly pick up the dials—the controls are where the hand can quickly reach them.

Sweeping New Trend

For years a leader in mechanical advantages—such as Hydraulic Brakes, Safety-Steel Bodies and Floating Power engine mountings—Chrysler Corporation this year establishes a sweeping new trend in the field of STYLING.

Functional Design is the vital new force. It has created thrilling new beauty in the new 1939 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler. See these great cars at the Automobile Show. Examine every detail. Compare them with other cars.

Again for 1939, as throughout the years, "You Get the Good Things First from Chrysler Corporation!"

GREEN ACCUSES LEWIS OF FRAUD IN C. I. O. REPORT

Membership Figures Are Padded, He Shows.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight branded the accounting of John L. Lewis before the first convention of his Committee for Industrial Organization in Pittsburgh as a fraud on the C. I. O. membership and on the American people.

In addition to his incisive analysis of the Lewis report as quackery and humbug, Green ridiculed Lewis' claim that the constitutional convention, called to form a permanent union on C. I. O. lines, "is likely to prove one of the most effective steps yet taken in the direction of labor unity."

Garment Workers Lost.

Green asked rhetorically: "How in the name of common sense can any one believe such bare falsification of the facts?" As evidence of falsification he mentioned withdrawal of the International Ladies Garment Workers union, one of the largest of the C. I. O. affiliates, with 250,000 members from the Lewis ranks within the week.

The labor leader recalled that on severing its C. I. O. connections David Dubinsky, head of the garment union, said: "The formation of a permanent national union to supersede the C. I. O. would in our judgment sharpen the conflict in the labor movement and would create greater obstacles for ultimate reconciliation."

"We share this view," was Green's terse comment.

"It is clearly evident from an examination of the report of the chairman of the C. I. O. to that organization's first convention that his accounting to the membership for the last three years is a fraud," Green said.

Driven to Desperation.

"It constitutes a deliberate attempt to deceive the members of the C. I. O. and the public. Apparently the leaders of the C. I. O. have been driven to desperation by their failures in the organization field and on the political front."

Green challenged Lewis to make public a true report on membership and finances. He charged that the C. I. O. leader did not dare to do so.

"Who will believe the C. I. O.'s total membership claim of 4,037,877 given in the report?" he said. "The breakdown by unions discloses the amazing inflation, stuffing, and falsification employed to reach this paper total.

"For instance, the membership of the United Mine Workers is listed as 612,113. Yet the last official report of that union gave its membership as 447,824.

Only Fraction Paid Up.

"The steel workers' organizing committee claims 525,612 members in the C. I. O. report. Is there any proof that it has even a fraction of that number? The textile workers' organizing committee lists 450,300 members. All our information from accurate and direct sources indicates the textile workers have fewer than 50,000 paid up members.

Green shifted his attention to the financial report.

"This is mysterious to say the least," he said: "The financial accounting of all the activities of the C. I. O. for three years is given on one brief page. It is said a total income of $3,540,358 was received by the C. I. O. in the last three years.

"How much of this sum was contributed by the United Mine Workers, the financial angel of the C. I. O.? The report does not indicate. Yet the financial statements of the United Mine Workers union show it contributed over $2,000,000 to the C. I. O."

Proposes Higher Wages and Taxes.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP)—John L. Lewis proposed for the first constitutional convention of the Committee for Industrial Organization today a program of higher wages and taxation of speculative wealth. The convention opens tomorrow.

May Sue in Paris

CONSTANCE BENNETT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Constance Bennett, the actress, was on her way to Europe today with the reputed purpose of conferring with the Marquis Henri de la Falaise in regard to a Parisian divorce. Accompanying her were Douglas Fairbanks and his wife.

Henri de la Falaise.

Miss Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett, the actor, and the marquis were married in 1931. They were reported estranged as far back as 1934. He is the former husband of Gloria Swanson.

According to a Hollywood report, Parisian divorce negotiations, if held, may include discussions of a money settlement.

WAR FLYERS DIE WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES IN FOG

Sparta, Tenn., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Two men were killed tonight when a New York National Guard airplane en route to Nashville, Tenn., crashed into the fogbound Tennessee hills near here. The victims were identified as Lieut. Roy W. Krout and Lieut. Lansing C. Holden, both of New York.

Both men were war time aviators. Holden was a widely known architect. He was graduated from Princeton in 1919 and from Harvard in 1924. He also had been a movie art director in Hollywood.

Krout was a candy manufacturer.

2 Die in River Plunge.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Two men were killed today when their sign towing airplane plunged into the Detroit river fifteen miles south of here.

The body of James Burns of Detroit, the pilot, was recovered by coast guardsmen who raised the wreckage from the water. A search still was being made for the body of Roy Lowry, also of Detroit, his companion.

State police said the ship was climbing when one of the wings fell off and the ship went into a spin at about 800 feet.

NEW CAMPFIRES

By CALEB

AN ANCIENT Indian legend tells of the proud young squaw, Running Deer, betrothed to a great warrior of the Blackfoot tribe. There were famines, and war came. Her betrothed did not return from battle. Many other braves of the tribe were slain.

Her stricken people broke camp and set out to journey to a far-off valley where they might find a warmer wind and peaceful neighbors. They folded tepees and loaded household goods on sledges—all but Running Deer. Her eyes fixed on the distant horizon, she sat motionless before the lodge fire and would not stir.

The fire burned low; all was ready for the march, but still she did not move. An aged chief approached and spoke to her:

"My daughter, the fire before your lodge has gone out. Its warmth has departed and will not return. Those who warm their hands before gray ashes must perish. In life we must make new fires, new camps. This must always be so."

But Running Deer did not reply. She merely held her hands, palms outward, toward the ashes of the dead fire before her lodge. Her kinsmen moved on—to new campfires. The legend says that Running Deer still sits before the dead embers of her lodge fire, dreaming of the past.

While many of the oldest traditions and institutions of society are as vital now as ever, each of us is called upon sooner or later to seek new campfires, new ways, new customs, new conditions. Some there are who, like Running Deer, sit and hold hands, palms outward, toward gray ashes. Others move on to fires freshly kindled from the old blaze—but built by their own hands with skill and care.

Today some of the campfires before which our fathers warmed their hands are waning. New ones spring up, lighting the dusk, shedding warmth. The wise ones move with the general advance—abandoning the fires of tradition if they are dead, lending a hand to build the new ones.

Fingers will be burned at new fires, but no matter. There is no turning back. For thousands of years men have passed from the embers of one outmoded fire to the warmth of another. Progress is possible in no other way.

MINNESOTA G.O.P. VICTORY CRUSHES FARM-LABORITES

guard. He won the gubernatorial nomination by defeating George E. Leach, mayor of Minneapolis, and Martin A. Nelson in the primary.

Stassen promised that if elected he would fire the communists and the Fascists on the pay roll. He stuck to the main text that he was running against the Benson statehouse machine, the most arrogant one Minnesota has had. He said he would work to bring in new industries.

Farmers Disillusioned.

Folks in Minnesota's cities and towns were showing aversion to crusades against business. People were getting weary of made jobs and wanted real ones. WPA workers and low income groups no longer showed a solid front. Farmers were becoming disillusioned.

The friendship of Benson for John L. Lewis' C. I. O. filled state leaders of the American Federation of Labor with wrath. Activities of communist headquarters for the Farmer-Labor ticket were leaving a bad taste.

Stassen got support from all parties. The Democratic party is split, as is the Farmer-Labor. The Democratic party suffered a body blow in 1936 when President Roosevelt and National Chairman James A. Farley prevailed on the Democratic candidates for senator and governor to withdraw in favor of the Farmer-Labor candidates.

Conservatives Back Stassen.

Farmer-Labor supporters of Railroad Commissioner Petersen from all congressional districts, meeting in Minneapolis, voted to indorse Stassen.

Walter K. Michelson, a New Ulm editor and former secretary to Farmer-Labor Senator Henrik Shipstead, came out for Stassen. Dr. George O. Orr, for years a delegate to Republican national conventions and chairman of the "Floyd Olson for senator" committee in 1936, became head of the Stassen all-party volunteers.

Many of the Democratic leaders became active for Stassen. A coterie headed by Joseph Wolf continued to operate as an aid society for the Farmer-Labor party, intimating that this was in conformity with White House wishes. One group sent a message to the President and received a message expressing Mr. Roosevelt's esteem for Gov. Benson.

Capital Wires Crossed.

Washington high ups, however, apparently did not click together. At Duluth Farley urged Democrats to support Thomas Gallagher, Democratic candidate for governor, and the rest of the Democratic ticket.

Congressman Elmer J. Ryan, the one Democrat to survive, immediately declared the only way to hand the communists a setback was for Democrats to unite to defeat Gov. Benson by voting for Stassen. Ryan and Stassen are former law partners in South St. Paul.

Governor Elect Stassen is the son of parents of German, Scandinavian, and Czech descent, who still farm the homestead in Dakota county, just outside South St. Paul, the packing center, in which Stassen was born. He worked his way through the University of Minnesota. With his wife and son he lives in South St. Paul.

He was elected Dakota county attorney in 1930. That was the election in which Olson was elected Farmer-Labor governor. In 1934 Stassen was reëlected.

Political Issue

HUNT FOR CLEW TO 2D WOMAN IN IOWA TANGLE

Body of Widow's Mother Dug Up in Yard.

Le Mars, Ia., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The home of Mrs. Sumner Knox here was searched today for clews to the identity and whereabouts of an elderly woman who once lived there. The search followed disclosure late yesterday of a home-made coffin containing the body of Mrs. Knox's mother, 80 years old, buried in the back yard.

Mrs. Sumner Knox. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Knox is held in the County hospital here for the investigation. Sheriff Frank Scholer said she admitted cashing the checks her mother, Mrs. L. A. Trow, received from the government as a widow of a civil war veteran. He said she also admitted bringing another woman into her home to impersonate her mother to quiet the suspicion of neighbors.

Hunt Second Woman.

It was for this other woman, the sheriff said, that he, State Agent George Dickey, and Police Chief Fay Terpenning are searching. The sheriff said neighbors verified the fact that an elderly woman not Mrs. Knox's mother lived in the home at one time. Her identity has not been learned. Further excavation will be delayed until the attempt to identify the woman is completed.

Mrs. Knox's mental condition is such that she cannot be questioned. She has not been informed that her mother's body was found.

Find Crack in Skull.

A crack was found in Mrs. Trow's skull, according to the sherif, but he said he believed it was inflicted accidentally after death and during burial. He said there were indications the body was kept for some time before it was buried, apparently about six months ago.

Mrs. Knox, formerly socially prominent and head of the local W. C. T. U., was convicted of forgery several years ago in connection with the strange will of T. M. Zink, Le Mars attorney, who left a $50,000 estate to found a womanless library for Lemars. She served one year of a five year term and was paroled.

POLISH FOREIGN CHIEF IS HIGHEST IN SENATE VOTE

WARSAW, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Nationalist movement popularly known as "OZON" fulfilled preëlection forecasts and led all other government groups today in balloting by electors on candidates for Poland's sixty-four senatorial seats. Only government designated candidates participated.

Foreign Minister Col. Josef Beck polled the largest number of votes among the prominent candidates. Col. Adam Koc, founder of "OZON" in 1937, also was elected. The 208 seats in the sejm [lower house of parliament] were filled in elections last Sunday. After today's elections the president will complete the senate roster by selection of thirty-two members.

INQUEST TODAY IN DEATH OF BABY KILLED BY A SLAP

An inquest is to be held today into the tragic death of Ted Koch, 4 months old. The baby was slapped to death Friday by his father, Ralph, 24 years old, in an outburst of rage when the baby's crying interfered with a radio program.

Koch surrendered to the Morton Grove county highway police with the explanation: "I lost my head." He was held by police for the inquest.

Meanwhile the child's mother, Marcia, 20, made arrangements for the funeral this afternoon. She has blamed her husband's violent temper for the death and for their separation. The baby died in the home of Koch's brother-in-law, Dudley Brattin III., 4229 North New England avenue, where the couple had become reconciled after being separated for more than a month.

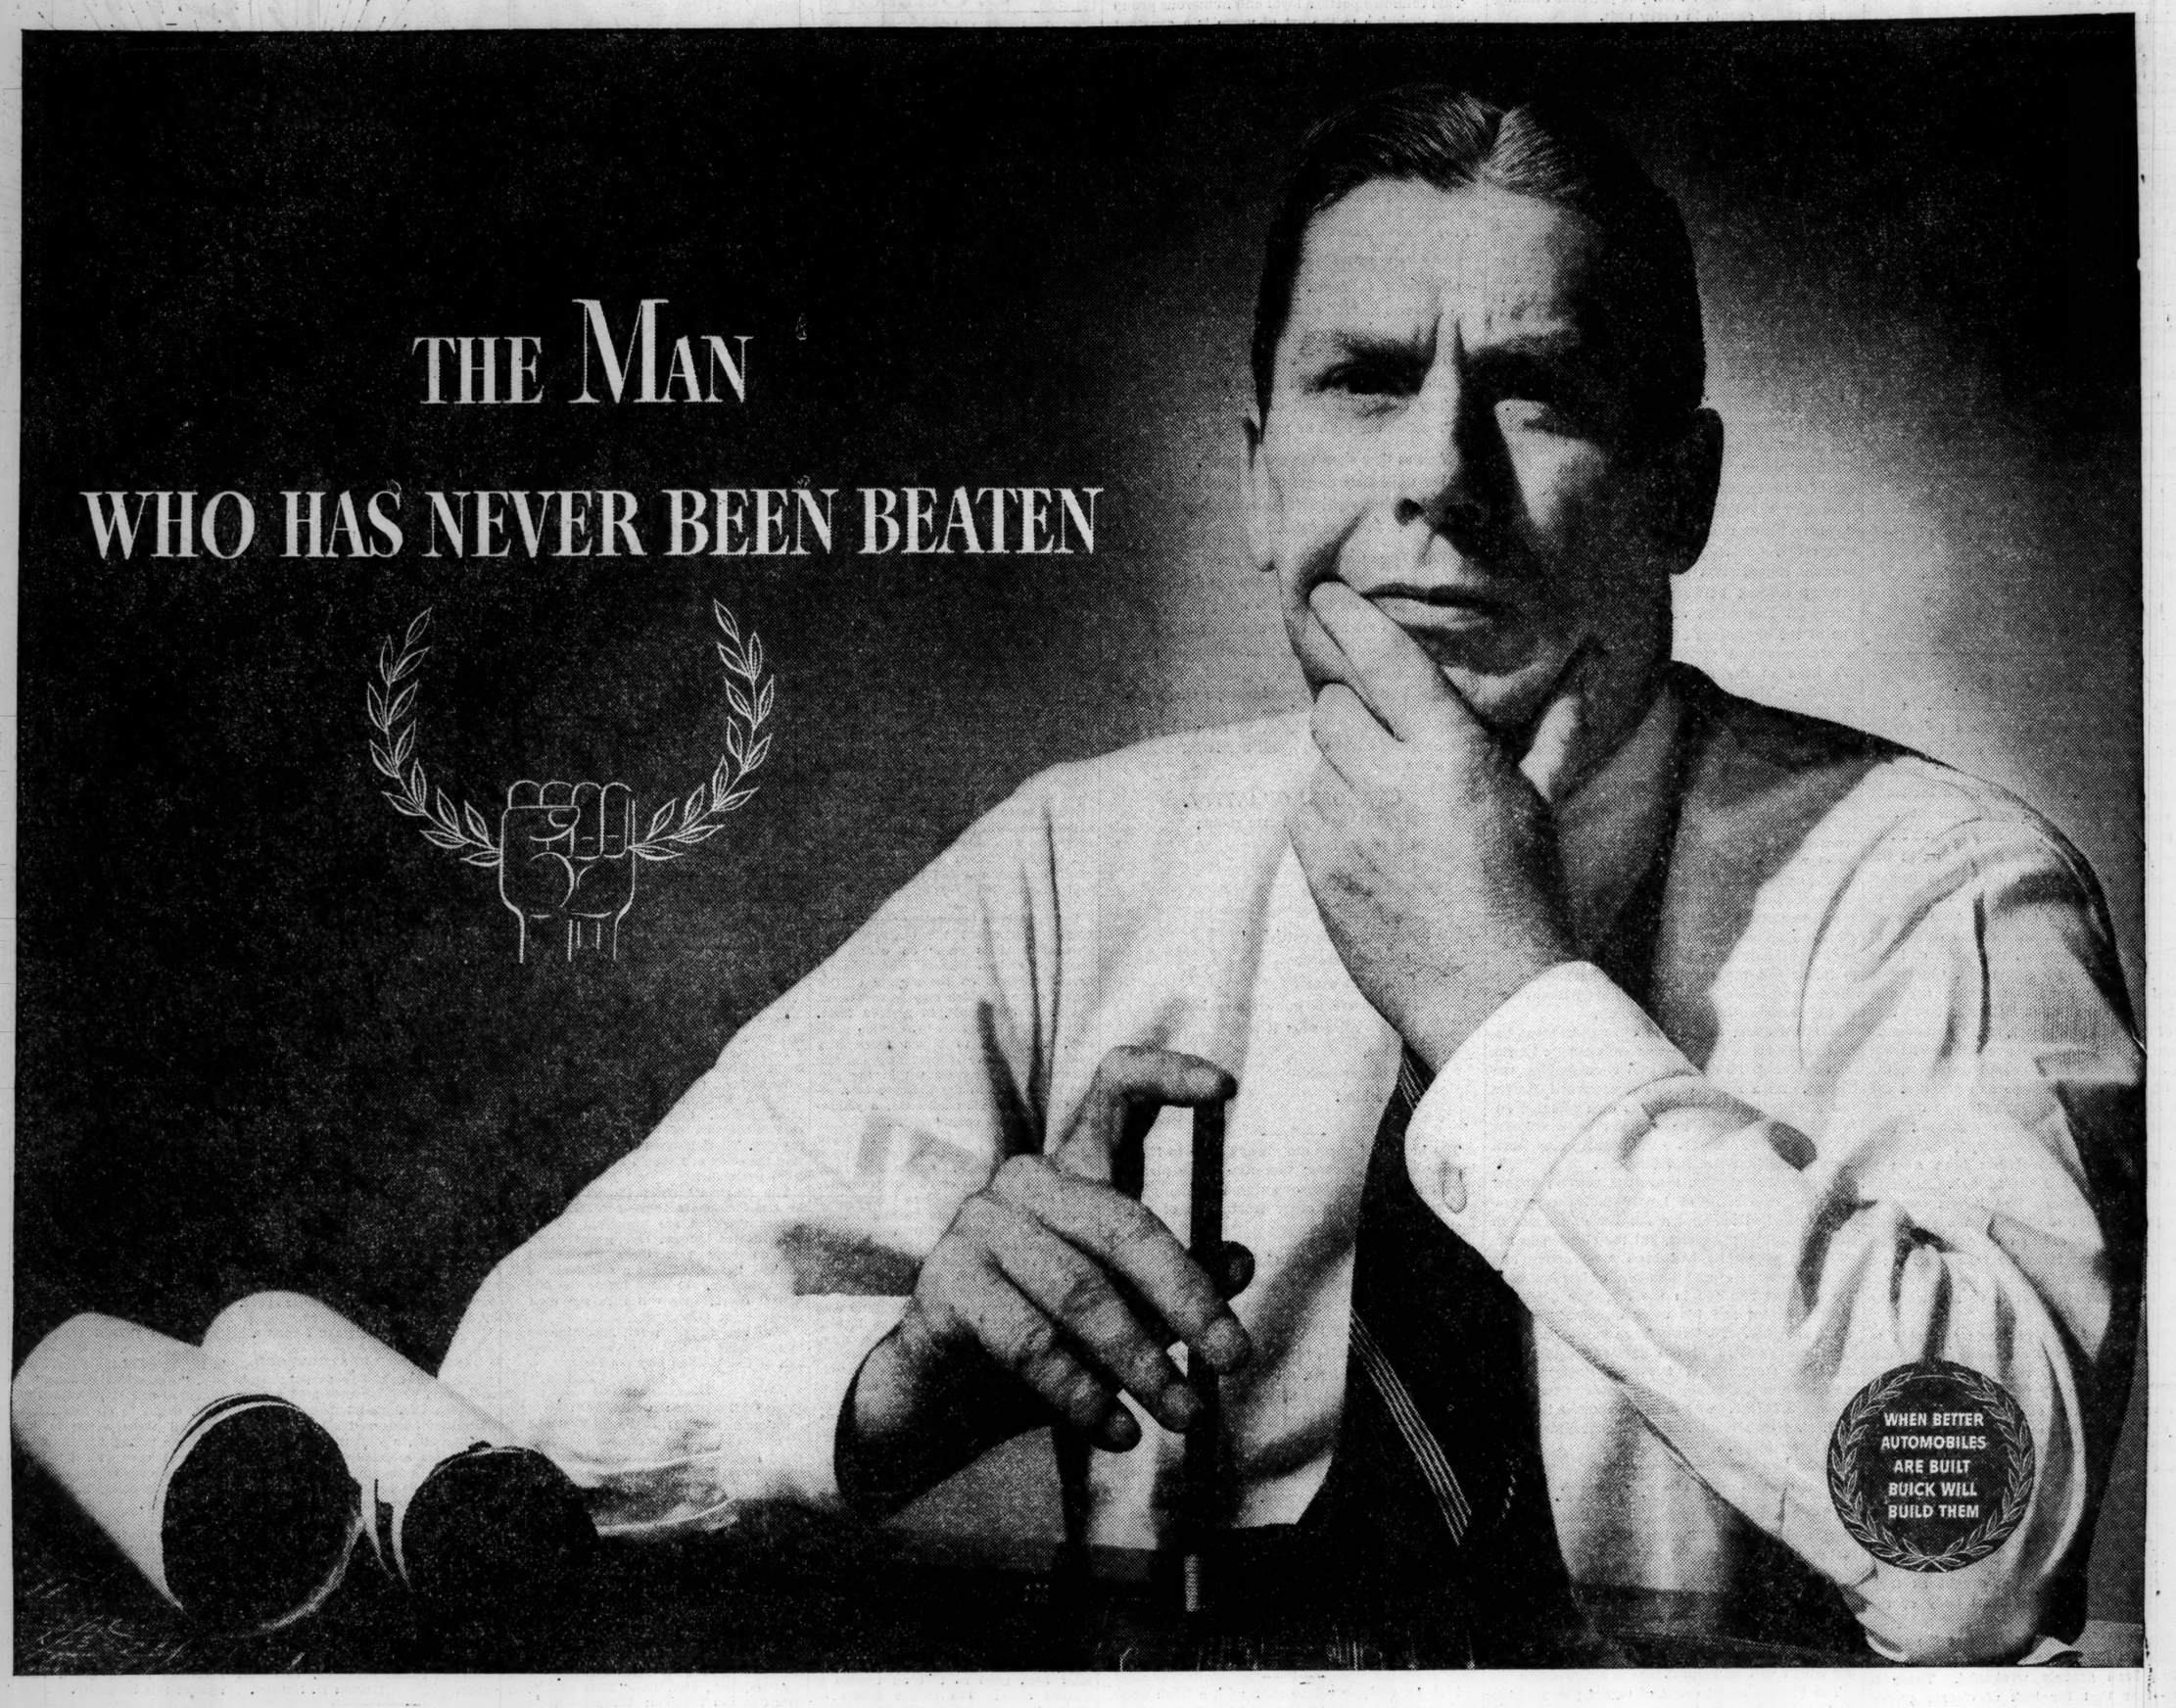
COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY



LIKE all the rest of us, this man has had his share of disappointments and discouragements in the past ten years.

Like us all, he has had his difficulties to surmount, his obstacles to overcome, his moments when it seemed that his best was not enough.

He has seen progress earned in weary inches by efforts that should have brought giant strides.

He has seen months of brainsweat and labor robbed of their rightful reward by economic forces beyond his control.

But never yet has he been beaten.

And because he wouldn't be beaten, America is richer today and faces a richer future for tomorrow.

This man is typical of the men who produce America's automobiles.

To the casual eye, his job is the regular job of bettering, little by little, the cars we Americans take so completely for granted.

But in the past decade his task has literally been that of holding an industry together.

It has been the task of providing jobs, maintaining families, keeping alive the spark of hope in the eyes of honest men —of taking the finest cars the whole world knows and so stepping up their value that purchase could not be denied.

To accomplish this he has had to do the impossible. He has had to conjure up new materials—devise methods never before known—scheme out machines undreamed of.

But in ten years he has done more to improve the automobile than was done in two-score years before!

He has given us bigger cars, better cars. He has given us the Dynaflash engine for livelier, thriftier power, the Turret Top for safety, Knee-Action and BuiCoil springing for riding ease, No Draft Ventilation for all-weather comfort.

He has multiplied the value while he whittled down the price.

And he has actually increased the number of man-hours of employment in every automobile—made more jobs for every car sold!

BUICK

We do not mean to acclaim here any special genius peculiar to Buick men.

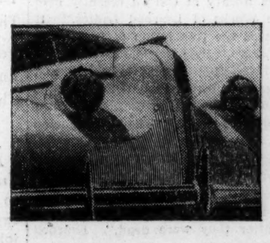
We are thinking instead of a trait in American character — something that finds a challenge in the words "It can't be done!" — something that resolves "There shall be light!" when darkness seems the deepest.

We are of course gratified that this trait happens to have been especially fruitful in our case.

But it is something you can be proud of as well—something you can rely on in times to come.

For the spirit of the man who won't be beaten is the greatest assurance that America won't be beaten.

It has brought us great things in automobiles—it has and will bring us great things in other fields.



It can bring us comforts — conveniences — luxuries. Yes — and peace and contentment and security to all our people.

The man who has never been beaten happens in this case to be an automobile man. The important thing is that he is an American—typical of the real, the true America, past, present and future.

THE NEW AGE.

Probably the most insistent question, in the background at least and sometimes poignantly in the foreground of thoughtful minds throughout the world, is whether we have not reached the end of an epoch. This epoch has been one of the greatest material accomplishment and, though radical agitation denies or ignores it, of great social advancement for the masses in the western world, especially in the United States. It has included the invention and building of the railroads and steam transport on the seas, mass production of commodities, the coming of the telegraph, the telephone, the radio, and the airplane, the reaper and cotton gin, the power plants and electric light and power, the skyscraper in America, the automobile and the vast system of modern highways, the unnumbered devices and facilities which have lightened labor on farm and factory in advanced countries, the advance of medical knowledge and practice, the conquest of most of the great epidemic diseases which through the ages have destroyed vast numbers.

This gigantic achievement has been so pervasive in its effects, has flowed so widely into the common lives of men that it has come to be taken as a matter of course. We press the button and the light comes on. A miracle has occurred but we take it as we take the air we breathe. Genius, the rare gift of superior minds and wills, has passed its gift to us and we take it for granted.

But this world of new comforts and aids to living, of new experiences and powers, was not created impromptu nor by votes. It was created by the individual, not by masses or majorities. It was created by the effort and sacrifice of pioneers and leaders and organizers. It has cost self-sacrifice, self-control, self-direction, not only in the labor of the scientist and the inventor but in the genius and labor of the manufacturer, the business man, and the financier. A vast mechanism for creation, production, distribution of the new goods and services of the modern world has been built, and only by its protection and maintenance can they be brought as they are being brought to the general body of the people.

Yet there is reason for concern lest the structure which has raised the common condition of us all has been gravely weakened. There is reason to fear that for lack of clearer understanding of the price which must be paid for the accomplishments we enjoy, the price of reason, of intellectual labor, of self-discipline, and self-control, the price of law and social peace, the destructive influences now at work throughout human society will disintegrate and shake the structure down. Communism is its deadly enemy, but there are many other subversive ideas and forces at work to strangle initiative and enterprise, to breed envy and distrust of success, however honorable and profitable to all, to inflame violence and the primitive passion to destroy. The only defense from these passions is understanding of the conditions, moral and intellectual, which have made civilization with its gifts possible and which are essential to its preservation.

If given peace and order the great processes which have created the welfare which civilization enjoys will carry us forward, will accomplish new miracles. But the incoming generation will not receive them out of the air. They are not ordained. They must be sustained by the same virtues of the mind and character that produced them. If they are not sustained the new epoch will be one of rapid decay. The achievements of our epoch will not be rivaled, or continued, or even retained. The deterioration of morale and clear thinking, of which there have been so many grave examples in recent years, will drop the whole level of human life to a far lower level, and far from producing an equalitarian Utopia for all there will be established a tyranny of poverty, perhaps of despair. The forces which have risen to a new power and scope to struggle for or seize authority present themselves in many guises for pretended betterment. They wear all the robes of justice and humanity, but in all their variety they are working to one end, the undermining of the conditions which ages of human experience have painfully evolved and have approved.

The new age will be a battle for civilization.

WHEN HITLER MEASURES STALIN'S ARMY.

Only a part of the Russian purge ever becomes generally known. Most of the executions go without public report. Some figures become available slowly. It is only when Stalin has a motive for making a trial or a killing public that the curtain is briefly raised to disclose what has been going on.

The marshals were put through a form of court martial but the frame-up was not disclosed. The most complete tabulation of what Stalin did to the army between May, 1937, and June, 1938, reveals the execution of two marshals, three out of six army group commanders, ten out of thirteen army commanders, 57 out of 85 corps commanders, 110 out of 193 divisional commanders, 202 out of 400 brigade commanders, and of the commander in chief of the navy and all the fleet admirals, the chief of the air force, the head of the tank corps, and the commandants of the staf colleges. The purge also took thousands in the rank of colonel and major. To bring the army under complete political control Stalin then put political commissars as police agents in every unit.

It was upon such a military force that Czechoslovakia, France, and Great Britain had to rely if they undertook to tell Herr Hitler that he would not be allowed to have his way. Their conclusion was that their Russian ally was militarily worthless, an opinion in which the Japanese had preceded them. Unless the Japanese had been well assured of the impotence of the Russian army they never would have extended themselves as they have in China. The events then have fully justified the Japanese judgment. Russia has been of no military aid worth the mention to the Chinese, who were encouraged to believe that they would have support from this ally. Chiang Kai-shek made his surrender to communism in vain.

Subsequent events will show how much respect Hitler has for Russia's military forces.

THE SPLIT IN THE C. I. O.

David Dubinsky and the members of the executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union have been opposed to the methods of John Lewis' C. I. O. for some time. They have now voted not to send representatives to the meeting of the C. I. O. convention in Pittsburgh this week. They will stand as an independent organization pending settlement of the present conflict between John Lewis and the American Federation of Labor. Dubinsky was one of the organizers of the C. I. O., but Lewis' recklessness and violence persuaded him that the head of the new labor movement was a wrecker. The election confirmed him in the judgment that Lewis was bringing labor into conflict with all fair minded American opinion and was promoting a dissension injurious to American workers.

Dubinsky has never been called one of the tories of American labor and Lewis had to go very far out on the extreme left to alienate the garment workers of this large union, numbering about a quarter of a million in metropolitan centers. Lewis, confident that he had bought his way with political contributions into the New Deal, allowed the communists to take over a number of his affiliated unions, and when the more sober men associated with him became alarmed and tried to throw out the revolutionaries he sided with the extremists, as Homer Martin sadly discovered in the Automobile Workers' union.

Martin's effort to get the communists out before they overthrew him was defeated by Lewis, who replaced the officials who were making the trouble. As a result of this replacement Martin has already lost several of his own selected administrators. When he appears as a witness before the Dies committee the country may learn more of the inside of this struggle.

The general election last week was an almost complete overthrow of Lewis' political pretensions. He had suffered a number of defeats in the Democratic primaries, but the election in the states in which he had been most active and where the violence and disregard of law had been the greatest resulted in the complete defeat of his candidates and his utter discomfiture as a political figure. That may have had some effect upon the decision of the garment workers to cut loose from him, but their distaste for his methods and philosophy of government had been expressed before. The election showed that the C. I. O. attack upon American government had completely failed.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

The announcement to parliament that Britain's king and queen will visit the United States makes the thing official and gives Washington plenty of time for preparation. The protocol will require much study. There's many a headache in it. Inasmuch as the royal party will be in Canada before the visit to Washington, the American magister ceremoniarum can do some scouting which will be helpful.

The biggest social event of recent years in the capital was Paul V. McNutt's clam and cocktail bake. It was supposed to start a candidate for highest national honors and was properly regarded as important, but as a precedent for royal entertainment it wasn't of much use. The people went for the food. Washington will go anywhere for a meal and something to drink.

For the king and queen this visit is in the line of duty. If they could be put in an airplane and be shown something of America they might have a good time. A visit to Washington will be a chore. It would be to any one. The Grand canyon, Yellowstone, the Yosemite, Michigan avenue, stretches of the James and the Mississippi would be something. The buried gold at Fort Knox might entertain even the governors of the Bank of England. Washington will not be much fun.

However, the trip is duty, and England, as much now as in the time of Nelson, expects every man to do it.

Editorial of the Day

LADIES' LONG LEAD.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The great Bodleian library at Oxford recently held an "Exhibit of the Works of Learned Ladies." It included such things as the translation of the fourth book of "Imitatio Christi," by Lady Margaret, countess of Richmond [1443-1509]; the Latin verses and letters of Elizabeth Janes Weston, Lady Grace Gethin's "Reliquiæ Gethinianæ," and Queen Catherine Parr's "Prayers or Meditaciones" and "The Lamentacion of a Sinner."

The London Times Literary Supplement remarks that "no doubt most of these learned English women would rather have received a little more scholarly recognition in their lives than that their works should be exhibited long after they were dead." Learned ladies of the present time do not suffer such neglect by their contemporaries and most emphatically literary ladies do not. Indeed, the recognition accorded them seems constantly to grow greater. A glance at the reports of best selling books in ten of the greatest American cities, published weekly by the New York Times, confirms this.

In every city but one the fiction leader on the best seller lists was the work of a woman author. Of the twenty places represented by the first and second best selling novels in these ten cities, sixteen were held by women authors—Daphne-Du Maurier, Rachel Field, Laura Krey and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. In the case of nonfiction, the lead is even longer. Women authors—Anne Lindbergh, Margaret Halsey, and in one instance, Eve Curie—hold nineteen of the twenty places represented by the first and second best selling nonfiction books. Nor when one remembers the successes in other years and seasons of such writers as Pearl Buck, Margaret Mitchell and Marjorie Hillis does this seem to be unusual.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SONGS FOR BLUE MONDAY.

This column's poets, a loyal and numerous group whose devotion to the art of verse is a constant joy to the Linemaster, will be given free swing again today. Every once in a while they deserve the privilege of putting on a show by themselves, so let us grant the stage to the children of the Muse, for the treading of light or solemn measures.

First, a holdover from the Armistice day verses, which were in copious supply. About thirty compositions were submitted, of which three were accepted. Two were printed yesterday, and here is the other winner:

FLANDERS SENTINELS.

(Dedicated to Lieut. John McCrae, author of "In Flanders Fields," who is buried there.)

In Flanders fields our soldier dead
Rest calmly in their earthen bed.
Above each mound, in soil set deep,
Thy cross, dear God, to bless their sleep,
Trusting our faith be not misled.

And as they sleep the grasses grow,
For while they dream the poppies blow;
A wind doth sigh; soft shadows creep
In Flanders fields.

With faces toward the rising sun
They marched until their day was done.
Now in the stillness of the night
The stars are naught but angels white,
Standing watch o'er the graves they won,
In Flanders fields.

Inchcape Cragmoor.

Frivolity is now in order, so let us hear the column's Gay Girl carol about her latest fictitious boy friend:

UNKNOWN QUANTITY.

He's not the type I care about;
His profile is not Grecian.
He has no poise
Nor gallantry,
Nor any grace patrician!
He cannot croon,
He cannot dance,
Shakespeare is quite above him.
I don't know what it is
He has,
But oh-gee-gosh—
I love him!

The hearts of poets are always close to Nature in her varying moods; therefore these pleasing lines on the last phase of autumn gardening are selected from many other treatments of a pictorial subject:

NOVEMBER GARDENS.

I somehow think my flowers would rather die
Suddenly in frost-fire's holocaust
While facing eagerly the autumn sky
Than learn this death, their joy of blooming lost
In endless waiting for a certain doom.
Today I picked the last bright marigold.
The purple phlox has still one faded bloom.

Nasturtium buds stay closed. These shortening days
Give hardly time for opening. The blaze
Of scarlet sage has almost flickered out.
And there's an air of hopelessness about
The wan petunias huddled close together.
They know as well as I that winter comes.
Only the gold and bronze chrysanthemums
Display their beauty, heedless of the weather.

Donnafred Baker Hoff.

Now let us have a love song with a fresh voice, rapturous yet colloquial, free from literary pose but telling the whole story in breathless ecstasy:

HEAD OVER HEELS.

I'm in love with the winsome wind
And I'm head over heels with sky;
The trees leave me breathless and wanting
And all of my heart is a-sigh!

Oh I'm in love with all of life
And I look in awe at the moon;
I'm thrilled at the touch of beauty
That comes with the sun at noon.

I'm in love with the sound of a voice,
And the look of eyes, and something new.
I guess I'm in love with the whole dam' world
Since I'm in love with you!

Shan.

Verses on disappointments on love are thick as autumn leaves in the Line's mail. Here is an excellent example in the use of restraint in the treatment of the theme:

YOU WILL FORGET.

Your days are filled with loss and sadness now,
But soon you will forget the tanned young face,
The laughing eyes, the smile of him you knew,
The way he said your name.

You, too, must change
And see him only as a fading star
That leaves the sky as other stars appear.

A humorous moan from a poet who has not yet "made the Line," until this moment will serve to end this concert with a smile. The title requires explanation for the unlearned; it is an old Roman joke, meaning a date not on the calendar.

THE GREEK KALENDS.

I've typed a dozen reams of rhymes
Of what my love and I did do,
And of the grand and wondrous times
My heart had skipped a beat or two.

The verse was good enough to wow
The LINE to which I sent it;
What I can't understand is how
I missed the day they chose to print it!

E. L. Cherry.

Now, poets, make your bows, for the Linemaster is ringing down the curtain. Every day in every way you are getting better and better.

THE TATTLE-TALE TONGUE.

PHYSICIANS place a fair amount of dependence upon the appearance of the tongue; not so much its shape, breadth, and thickness—as its decorations. If the digestive tract is on its good behavior, this structure will appear free from débris, moist, and reddish pink in shade.

A perfectly clean tongue is found in only about half of those who attain middle life. Much depends upon how scrupulously we observe the rules of hygiene. Mouth breathers, particularly those whose lower jaw relaxes during sleep, permitting the soft palate to vibrate with every breath [snoring], are likely to develop brownish incrustations as well as deposits of gummy material on the teeth. Excessive smoking is also a contributing factor.

Particles of food may hide between the papillae, exhibiting a fuzzy, furlike layer. Scarcely any one can drink a glass of milk without leaving a thin, albuminous film lining the oral cavity. Unless additional articles are eaten with the flushing out assistance of more saliva the mouth will need to be rinsed thoroughly. If one is accustomed to meals composed largely of milk and vegetables [alkaline foods] the reaction may be unfavorable with an unhealthful looking tongue. Adding a bit of meat—balancing the diet—may be followed by the complete disappearance of the offending stucco. If saliva is not formed in sufficient quantities, if the habit of the individual is to leave unswallowed bits of edibles—bacteria and microörganisms may mix with this waste and bring on not only irritation but fermentation, which makes for a bad taste as well as foul odors.

But sometimes the coating may thicken greatly and afford the observer some idea of what is going on within the body, as certain disease conditions reflect themselves on the surface of this organ, some of which may be recognized easily. For example, in typhoid fever, or when the liver fails to function properly, a grayish to brown fleece may gather. Excessive redness may indicate inflammatory processes within the gastric pouch and in the presence of a severe cold or a mild influenza, a yellowish cast is quite characteristic.

If there is soreness with tiny, shallow ulcers we may look to threadlike plant fungi as the cause. Cauterizing these spots with a small crystal of potassium alum will frequently destroy the invading growths and inaugurate healing. Should the patient complain of pain or general irritation, we should always look to the condition of the blood as well as to the diet. Anemia, too little vitamin C [oranges, grapefruit, and lemons], or an inadequate content of hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice should be investigated. Jagged teeth or poorly fitted dental plates may account not only for irritated areas but for actual ulceration, while broken stumps can cause no end of trouble.

Geographic tongue is so described because of the irregular, maplike appearance of lesions which are the result of a sensitivity to a food or some other irritant. The spotted portions may be covered with a grayish substance surrounded with islands which are depressed and red but with no signs of inflammation. Inspecting the "map" at intervals of a week will disclose that the boundaries have changed considerably. It is as though continents and oceans had moved about with the speed of recent happenings in continental Europe.

Good mouth hygiene cannot be overemphasized. The teeth should be brushed after each meal so that all residue is washed away. The tongue should be cleansed gently, using but little force. A soft rubber brush is helpful, although a bit of gauze or paper tissue wrapped about the finger or a toothbrush handle will suffice. Every now and then a bad taste will vanish with the stimulation of a larger quantity of saliva—chewing gum or sucking a lozenge may be all that is needed. The irrigation thus induced, coupled with the muscular movements, will clear the parts entirely.

BLOOD SPOTS ON BODY.

A. R. writes: What is the cause of blood spots appearing on the arms, chest, and other parts of the body? These areas consist of small points or rings which look as though insects had just finished sucking blood from the part, but this is not the case. Some seem to be permanent and others lighten in a few weeks and finally disappear.

REPLY.

This is a spontaneous form of blood blister. A capillary ruptures or dilates. A blood count may disclose the fact that the platelets are reduced in number. Some attention to the blood, with correction of anemia, may be helpful. Under the general name, purpura, many types of reddish spots are described. Occasionally the difficulty is due to lack of vitamin C—a mild form of scurvy.

TOO MUCH ASPIRIN.

A. B. writes: Does the constant use of 10 to 16 aspirin tablets a day impair the health? A man who always held a good job loses it suddenly. For pain [real or imaginary] in the arm he has been using this many tablets. Now there is no interest in securing a job. Is this reaction due to the drug?

REPLY.

The dose is quite too large for regular use. A competent physician can find the cause of pain and hence render drugging unnecessary. Aspirin is a coal tar product.

GAS AND ITS CAUSES.

M. E. writes: If food digests and eliminates too fast would this cause gas? If so, can this be corrected?

REPLY.

The presence of gas within the bowel may be due to swallowed air, to improper digestion of starchy foods, or to too much cellulose [fiber] in the diet. If there is a true inflammation of the colon, digestion may not proceed normally, with grumblings and rumblings due to the presence of air. A careful study of your digestive processes will disclose the difficulty.

TRENCH MOUTH.

A. S. writes: What are the symptoms of trench mouth? Is it a serious disease? Is it contagious?

REPLY.

Vincent's disease, or trench mouth, is a form of sore throat, due apparently to two organisms. It occurs chiefly in children and young adults who are run down. Anything that contributes to low resistance may invite the condition. If the patient is greatly debilitated, the malady may persist for quite some time. Cure rests with good oral hygiene, better nutrition, and plenty of vitamins. It may be conveyed from mouth to mouth.

THE MUNICIPAL COURT RESULTS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—I am nonpartisan and have never voted a straight ticket. I endeavor to sort the wheat from the chaff.

Yesterday the illiterate electorate voted a straight ticket of Municipal court judges, despite the nonpartisan recommendation of all the lawyers in the city. These lawyers appear daily before the court and should know the good from the bad.

The Municipal court though dealing in small cases is important. The decisions rendered are important to the unfortunates brought before that court.

I do hope that those who voted straight tickets, without a semblance of discrimination, are haled before the Municipal court; they will then rue their unintelligent selections.

Why not campaign for appointments in this court so that the disgraceful result of this election may not recur?

OLD FOLKS: ORGANIZE!

Chicago, Nov. 11. — We find almost all classes of citizens organized to protect their interests—labor is organized, employers are organized, business men are organized, and veterans are organized, to mention a few outstanding examples. Therefore, if the people of advancing years are to get the consideration that is their due, they, too, must organize to protect their interests and to educate society as to their worth, and to secure legislative protection when necessary.

I will be pleased to hear from as many as possible as to what they think of this suggestion. H. S. AYLING.

BOUQUET FOR THIS PAPER.

Attica, Ind., Nov. 10.—"Hats off" to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE: When the going was toughest you stuck by your guns in spite of adverse public sentiment, coercion, intimidation, and slurs. You stood up for what you thought was right for the American people. You helped in a great measure to save this country for not only the present generation, but future ones. Your policy has begun to show results. Keep up the good work. America owes you a vote of thanks. ROY J. HARRISON.

ENOUGH JOBS TO GO AROUND.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Gov. Horner has a problem on his hands: What to do with the old political jobholders and the new ones he will have to take care of to satisfy Kelly and Nash. Those people that were handing out the money to twenty or more workers in a precinct will have to be taken care of. Will he create more jobs or will he have to let some of the old jobholders out. In my ward I walked around several precincts where I saw twenty or more in each precinct wearing Lucas or Jarecki badges, most of them old men. A. AMERICAN.

PROBABLY WILL GO FISHING.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—What with a block of conservative Democrats and a good sized number of Republicans in the new congress, the President will be between the devil and the deep sea. And as he has a fondness for the deep sea he no doubt soon will be off on a fishing trip again. MAURICE LAZARE.

DATE NOT YET ANNOUNCED.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Can you tell us when we're to have another fireside chat? I just can't wait till Teacher tells us what happened. MORRIS STEVENSON.

VOTE AGAINST AUTOCRACY.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Hurrah for the great G. O. P. victory! The American people want democracy [in its real sense] and not autocracy. S. B.

A JOB FOR THE CLERGY.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—I appeal to THE TRIBUNE and its readers to focus their attention on the distribution of clothes purchased out of "Chicago's own" community fund, supposedly for relief of poor children. I demand that the job of distribution be taken away from precinct captains and politicians generally. When selfish politicians have the handling of such favors—what happens? I am giving plain facts. I know of several cases, but one in particular, where a man holding a well-paid, steady position, whose family were given clothes last Christmas, while deserving children were left out in the cold.

I suggest that the distribution of said clothes be given to the clergy of all denominations. They know their poor. They know deserving children.

POLITICAL FRIENDS.

TOLERANCE AND BROTHERHOOD.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Last night Maj. Bowes' radio program presented a sidelight which vindicated humanity's faith in American ideals and spirit. One of the contestants, a youngster, the son of a rabbi, was especially good. At the end of the program the Major announced that he had been requested by the famous Father Flanagan to send this boy to join the priest's "Boystown" unit, and this clergyman of another faith assured the boy's father, through Maj. Bowes, that not only would the boy be well taken care of, but he would see that the boy complied strictly with all the Hebrew dietary laws. This beautiful gesture of tolerance and brotherhood emphasized again our oasis in a world mad with blind hate. God bless all men like Father Flanagan. God bless America. MILTON H. NELSON.

AND SHE'D JUST LOST HER JOB.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Perhaps the woman who took the 85 cents in change, due me, off the lunch counter at Woolworth's yesterday, doesn't realize that she took that money from a girl who just lost her job and could have used it for her needs. I knew the waitress made a mistake when she gave it to the woman, and I just waited to see if she would be honest enough to return it or give it to me, but I was sadly mistaken. FAIR PLAY.

FROM A WISCONSIN CITIZEN.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 9.—Congratulations. We in Wisconsin are deeply grateful to you for the great help you gave in this campaign to preserve American traditions, our democracy, our exceptional, our unique position in civilization today.

True, the work has just begun. May you never falter in your efforts to get, may I call it, political morality in our American life. Character building will still be our main objective, with love, not hatred, ruling our hearts and minds.

Sorry that New York and Illinois failed us in a way, but there is much encouragement in the vote in those strongholds of un-American ideas and rotten machine politics. We are surely proud of Wisconsin. THE OLD DOCTOR.

BARS DOWN FOR ALIENS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—I noticed an article in the Voice of the People with the caption, "Aliens Taking Jobs." I think Mr. Roosevelt and his secretary of state, Mr. Hull, ought to do something about letting all these aliens in this country. They are taking American born citizens' jobs and they still let them come in when there are millions on relief already. I am a Democrat, but am beginning to wonder why. E. N.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—There are an estimated 14 million unemployed Americans whom our government is unable to supply with jobs, yet foreign refugees at the rate of a hundred a day are permitted to land in this country and are replacing more American jobholders. These refugees are promised help before they can obtain passports. Every red blooded American should file a violent protest against this absurdity. C. T.

WARNS US AS TO SUBWAY.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 11.—Don't let them do it to you, Chicagoans! Let New York have its stinking, noisy subway, where people are treated like cattle. Give Mr. Ickes' blood money back to him and be yourself. You now have the best streetcar system in the world. Keep it and be proud of it. Use that old "I will" spirit in repulsing the amateur transit "experts" for once and for all. TRAVELING SALESMAN.

SIGN OBSTRUCTION.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—At the corner of two busy intersections in our neighborhood there is a gas station whose "3c off" sign hides from view the "stop" lights at the corner for cars north bound. This causes great uncertainty for the drivers and is highly dangerous. Would you see that the proper parties are contacted so that the sign can be moved to a safer place? S. E. E.

Patrolmen assigned to investigate this complaint report that they found along the east curb of Central avenue in the parkway about thirty feet south of the trafic signal a sign advertising the price of gasoline in an adjoining filling station. This sign was three feet wide and six feet in height and interfered with motorists' view of the trafic signal. The officers interviewed the owner and he at once had the sign moved onto the property of the filling station where it does not obstruct the view of the signal. We will watch to see that this does not occur again.

ESTATE SETTLEMENT.

Harvey, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please explain in detail what procedure does a man go through when he finally inherits an estate after waiting one year to get the estate in his hands.

2. Can this man take the full estate in his hands after one year even if he gave his attorney full power of attorney?

3. What can this man do to eliminate the attorney out of the estate?

4. Can this man hire another lawyer to check up on the first lawyer and see that this man gets everything due him?

Makeup Tints Should Key Dress Colors

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

From one of the noted dress designers comes a guide in connection with the new trend in makeup. While no one can adopt unto herself a "chart" nowadays, one can gain an idea or two for her own use with suggested colors in front of her.

The new cosmetic trend, with which up-to-date women are by now thoroughly consistent, stresses the fact that the dress colors we wear are reflected on our skin tone, and therefore call for cosmetic hues to harmonize with various costume reflections.

If you have gone in for the rusty brown ranges of dress colors, the above mentioned authority suggests that you use a static red lipstick shade "charged" with yellow. This vivacious yellow-red lip coloring tone will not only harmonize with your costume, but will give your wavering spirits a boost.

Should your wardrobe consist of plaids, reds on the cardinal and garnet shades, and light blues on the hard and soft royal hues, complement your dress reflection with vital red lipstick.

If you've a decided preference for clothes which run the color range all the way from purple to mauve [this group includes luscious shades such as violet, deep amethyst, egg plant, plum, prune, orchid, pink, fuchsia, American beauty, violetty blues, emerald green and blue-green] select your lipsticks to match. For instance? A delicious bluish-pink is decidedly feminine; piquant lips call for a fuchsia-pink shade; lips which you're desirous of having look like the bloom-on-the-plum, or the juice-of-crushed-grapes, can be etched with a plum-red shade of lipstick.

Thus, your color scheme might work out this way, following the cue given by our authority: Red heads, natural powder, and static red lipstick "charged" with yellow; blondes, natural or fragile powder, and bluish-pink lipstick; brunettes, ochre powder with rose tint, and either a vital red or plum red lipstick.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The woman with very dry skin—so dry that after a bath or a few hours out in the wind she feels like clawing at it to relieve the itchy sensation—couldn't acquire a better habit than that of using a soothing lotion generously every day.

Such lotions aren't expensive; they're necessities rather than luxuries for the thin skinned. Even if they did cost more than they do they wouldn't be an extravagance. One of the best, a creamy pink lotion created especially to counteract the drying effects of blustery weather, is also one of the cheapest. Used after the bath in the morning, it not only relieves itching and makes wool dresses less of a trial, but actually beautifies the skin of your body.

This lotion works in quickly; it doesn't leave a messy feeling. And it relieves the dryness almost instantly. Use it generously on the legs, between skirt and shoe top. That is an area most women find troublesome in winter.

And use it all over the body if yours is the kind of skin that itches from dryness.

Upswing Hairdress Is Here to Stay, Its Originator Insists

Women's hair must go up, up, up, Guillaume, the Frenchman who originated the upswing hairdress three years ago, asserted yesterday on his arrival in Chicago.

"The neck, it is beautiful," he said with Gallic fervor. "Why must the women hide it? I discover the neck, and I have it in mind to see a new woman, so!"

Sixty per cent of the women in Paris are wearing their hair high, M. Guillaume said. The style had a poor start in America, he suggested, because women twisted it up into the peeled onion effect, severe at sides and back with a tuft at the top. But M. Guillaume has many improvements to offer:

Adapt the high hairdress to your face, he suggests. If your face is long, wear soft bangs, with soft curls or fluffiness at the sides. If pointed, do the same. If round, pile the softness high and to the side. If heavy, with large features, have the hair soft at the sides, to lend width. If your neck is thick, have your neckline trimmed into an oval. If your neck is thin, do not pull it high in back; keep it soft.

"To wear it very high, very high, all straight up and no curls is fine," he said, "for the very nice, very oval, very young face. For the perfect face, yes. But not for all the women. Must she always want to look alike?"

Fur Coat Days Bring Riot of Color in Hats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The ceaseless change in hat styles continues to provide the big excitement of any woman's life. Since hats do more than any other item of a feminine wardrobe for drooping personalities or sagging enthusiasms, what's new in headlines is important.

Fur coats bring out high hats and a new rage for color. Difficult and unaccustomed coiffures require new ways of anchoring headgear as well as preserving a smooth neckline. When a brilliant designer combines the two, we have more new hats.

Millinery designers provided the heaven sent boon of nets or snoods. The latest products are the fine hair nets to keep your hair neat and tidy. These are the human hair nets, enlivened with bow knots of soft felt to be worn with the hat over the net. Other nets have small colored discs that look like confetti. Others for evening have pearls and colored beads. For typical feminine gayety and charm these can't be equaled.

Some new street and daytime hats feature both small and large numbers that are worn with dramatic collars, glorified versions of collar and scarf combined. These are worn swathed around the chest in front, then turned up over the head at the back, the hat on top of the fabric. The general appearance is dramatic, the backline is smooth, with no loose ends of hair.

Brilliantly colored flower hats are new. Tiny sailors made of violets have a full baby blue veil, and a big bow of soft blue velvet at the back. An irresistible model is a coral pink velvet trimmed with two huge cabbage roses directly in front and a complexion veil. Another is violet felt trimmed with tiny French tinted moccasin flowers in velvet. Veils mist all these gay flowered creations that are designed especially for wear with fur coats.

Unfortunate Query.

Members of a football team went backstage to see Miss Gertrude Lawrence Saturday night between acts and to present her with a football. They shouldered into her dressing room, gave her the autographed pigskin, and Miss Lawrence returned the courtesy by an autograph in the shape of a cupid's bow in lipstick impressed on each grid man's cheek. Miss Lawrence bridged an awkward moment before they departed.

"Did you play today?" she asked brightly. There was a groan of anguish from the team. Turned out it was the Minnesota team [annihilated that afternoon by Notre Dame].

Paronomasia (Pun to You and Me).

Harry Cronin's observation about a nite spot, once small now large and successful: "It was raised from a pub."

When Ex-President Hoover was in Germany last March he visited Goering's castle, a handsome establishment adorned with museum treasures — paintings by Cranach the Elder and Roman sarcophagi—and characterized by what sounds like Wagnerian splendor, as exemplified by the heralds with trumpets at the entrance, the great Hall of the Vikings, and the Byzantine room with a fountain. Mr. Hoover stayed to dine, accompanied by his secretary. The centerpiece at the table was the gold bust of a woman.

"A bust of my first wife," explained the German economic dictator, resplendent in a glittering uniform, through his interpreter.

This must have astonished Mr. Hoover, if the gold bust of a woman as a centerpiece had not. Apparently he made no appropriate response, for the information was repeated by Gen. Goering.

What Mr. Hoover answered is unrecorded. What he could have answered is a matter for conjecture. While he probably was mulling over an appropriate response further information came from Gen. Goering's head of the table.

"Tell him the bust is solid gold," said Gen. Goering. Maybe he thought Mr. Hoover, as a mining engineer, might be interested.

Candid note in a small printed folder sent his old friends and patrons by a man who runs a hunting lodge in the northern peninsula of Michigan: "Pete's going to be cook again. I'm weak about the guy. So the food will be as plentiful and lousy as usual."

Biting the Dust.

Query.

A delegate to a recent convention of women's clubs at a nearby city was a little old lady, bent with age and carrying a rolled umbrella, who went to the registration desk, presented her credentials and started for the door and her car, ignoring the information committee eager to give service and answer questions. One of the committee hurried after her.

"Isn't there anything we can help you with?" she asked.

Whitney Develops as Conductor

BY CECIL SMITH.

Robert S. Whitney, active in the musical life of Chicago until he moved to Louisville, Ky., last year to take over the conductorship of the Louisville Civic orchestra, returned yesterday afternoon for a single appearance as guest conductor of the Illinois Symphony orchestra at its weekly Great Northern theater concert. During his absence reports had filtered northward that his conducting had matured greatly in the face of his new and exacting opportunity.

Yesterday's concert verified these rumors, establishing Mr. Whitney as an assured and persuasive leader, and one likely to go on to considerable success in his field. Crisp and clear in rapid rhythmic passages, his beat is responsive to the demands of changing moods, and allows a lyric line to communicate its meaning to the orchestra with warmth.

Having revised his First symphony, in E minor, considerably since he first directed it here with the same orchestra two years ago, Mr. Whitney gave us a further opportunity to admire its genuineness of sentiment and general air of competence. The last of its three movements, quick moving and full of ebullient rhythm and syncopation, proved the most taking. The slow movement, while flowing, is a little thin in emotional content, and the opening movement is somewhat overburdened by self-conscious, dissonant harmony that does not sound quite spontaneous.

Ralph Niehaus, Chicago tenor, was soloist in arias from Tschaikowsky's "Eugene Onegin" and Ponchielli's "La Gioconda." His musical intentions were good, and his voice responded as long as he kept it small and did not make operatic demands upon it.

The overture to Glinka's "A Life for the Tsar," the Adagietto from Mahler's Fifth symphony, and the Polovtzian dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor" rounded out the orchestral side of the program.

Swank Night Club Satirized in New Ballet

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In a complicated whirl of garish costumes and hyper-sophisticated music, a new ballet called "Café Society" was revealed last night to a world which presumably had been awaiting this very thing. The unveiling took place at the Civic Opera house during the third all-ballet evening of our newly acquired Littlefield group. Ferde Grofe, composer of the music, conducted this first performance.

Using for her setting the kind of swank night club that would charge a dollar for a drink of water, Choreographer Catherine Littlefield fills the foreground with forty-odd characters who might be expected to frequent these cathedrals of boredom. There are diplomats and visiting nobles, debutantes and college stags, excursionists out to see life. There is the columnist who knows everybody, the fight champion who takes a bow, the party thrower who gets things going. Also, of course, there are waiters and check girls and a miscellany of other characters.

This vast force is manipulated in divers ways. Pure miming and straight dancing have their parts in the ballet, but the bulk of the choreographer's effort has been directed to the movement and effective arrangement of her highly colored masses. The result is twofold—a complicated counterpoint of movement and a series of eye-filling stage pictures.

The music is nervous, high strung, full of starts and stops—ably reflecting the life depicted on the stage and weaving itself so competently into the pattern that all sense of a combination of separate entities disappears.

Our poor tired brain stopped trying to follow the symbolism of the ballet and stopped trying to understand the satire in which it is doubtless very rich. The complexity of the whole thing—its huge cast of characters and the fact that their carryings-on are often simultaneous and therefore calculated to split a watcher's attention into two or more parts—troubled at least one breast with the suspicion that ballet, as an art form for average humans, has here overreached itself.

Before an Auditorium audience that clapped, shouted, and finally stamped in its excitement, Kirsten Flagstad yesterday made her first Chicago appearance of the new season. The great Norwegian soprano contributed to Northwestern university's history and enjoyment of music series a program of lyric songs drawn from many sources and bastioned at the end with two excerpts from Wagner's "Tannhäuser."

With the dignity and simplicity which are her outstanding characteristics, Mme. Flagstad made her songs direct and personal and inexpressibly moving. The singer had been ill for a day and a half previous to the recital, but no serious sign of any indisposition appeared after the hurdle of the first two songs had been crossed.

Edwin McArthur, her accompanist, deserves a warningly wagged finger for some of his excessively robust moments—especially for the iron-handed way in which he disposed of the infinitely delicate "Ungeduld."

Flattery for All Figures

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Slim and plump figures alike are flattered by a dress of this type, with its broad shoulders, slim waist, and flared skirt below a molded hipline. It's the tailored type of frock that lends itself well to all kinds of daytime activity, for it is simple and distinctive. It makes up beautifully in bright colors, and teal blue in sheer woolen is a special favorite. If the dress is made in a plain shade, a touch of embroidery at the waistline is in order for trimming. We suggest pattern No. E-700, available for 10 cents extra.

Prints are effective mediums, too. Because it is so simple, this pattern may be used for a home frock, if you like, and it is attractive in this version in the many inexpensive cottons.

Style No. 2141 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

SMALL TALK . . . 16 new outfits for the toddlers are featured in Clotilde's new 32-page Fall and Winter Fashion Book for 1938-'39. Contains descriptions of 148 new patterns, 17 photos, 11 favorite recipes of movie stars, and numerous household and beauty hints. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents, or 20 cents for the book and one Clotilde pattern, if ordered at the same time.

Lois Thompson Betrothal Told at Debut Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE second of the 1938-'39 debutantes to have her formal engagement announced at the same time that she makes her formal bow to society is Miss Lois Thompson, the middle one of the junior John R. Thompsons' three daughters. Last Sunday Miss Elizabeth Crawford's engagement to Nathaniel E. Duval was announced at a debut tea given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David A. Crawford, and yesterday Miss Thompson's engagement to Edward C. Nicholson was made known by her parents at a tea given at their home in Astor street.

The tea had not been announced as a debut, but Miss Thompson's name has been included on this year's list, and she is taking part in all the debutante activities. Her fiancé is the son of the late Ermina Carry Nicholson of Chicago and Col. W. Fenlon Nicholson of California. Teddy and his sister, Peggy, live with their grandmother, Mrs. Edward F. Carry, in Chicago.

Miss Thompson was educated at the Girls' Latin school, the Wheeler school, and Emma Willard Junior college, from which she was graduated last June. Mr. Nicholson attended the Hill school and then finished his education in California. The wedding is planned for January. Miss Thompson's elder sister is Eleonore, who made her debut three years ago, and their younger sister is Pauline.

Ralph E. Ellis Jr. Engaged to Wed Eastern Girl.

Also of interest this morning is the announcement being made by Mrs. J. Whitall Nicholson of Moorestown, N. J., of the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Dorothea Nicholson, to Ralph E. Ellis Jr. of Washington, D. C., and Framingham, Mass.

Miss Nicholson is the daughter of Mrs. William McE. Miller of Philadelphia and Teheran, Iran [Persia], and the late John W. Nicholson. She was graduated from the Kent Place school and Miss Wheelock's in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Ellis is the son of Mrs. Charles E. Fynchon, formerly of Winnetka, and the late Ralph E. Ellis. He prepared for college at the Asheville school and was graduated from Yale university.

Fall Brings Numerous Changes of Addresses.

Some new addresses: The Ambrose C. Cramers have come into town from Lake Forest for the winter and have taken an apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive. The junior Denis E. Sullivans, who spent the summer in Lake Forest, have leased an apartment at 1430 Lake Shore drive.

The junior Orville E. Babcocks have left Lake Forest to live in town, and are at 50 West Schiller street. Mr. Babcock is convalescing at home from a serious illness.

The junior Robert E. Kenyons have moved to Junior terrace from Sheridan road, and the William M. Lamports are seeing winter in from their new apartment a few doors away in Dearborn street from their former home. The Louis K. Boysens' new address is 219 Lake Shore drive.

The William Turpins [Harriet Leonard], who were living in Indianapolis, have moved to Winnetka. Newcomers to Winnetka are the Taber De Forests, who have taken a little house on Ash street formerly occupied by the M. Dutton Morehouses. Mr. and Mrs. Morehouse have bought a house in Lake Forest, in which they gave a housewarming last Saturday afternoon that was a party for two engaged couples, Miss Frederika Walling and Charles H. Ross and Miss Henrietta Boal and Philip W. Moore Jr.

Miss Lois Thompson and Edward Carry Nicholson, whose engagement to be married was announced yesterday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr. Miss Thompson is one of this season's debutantes.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Henry W. Clausen of 5106 Kenwood avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Julia, to Clyde Irvin Bowman of Portland, Ore. Miss Clausen attended Lasell Junior college and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Bowman attended the University of Oregon and is in business in Portland, where he and his bride will make their home after their wedding next spring.

Noted Rabbi Pleads for Justice and Mercy to Germany

A noted Jewish rabbi last night pleaded for mercy and justice toward Germany, declaring that while Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany won a victory at Munich based on military might, Czechoslovakia and the democratic countries won a moral victory.

This rabbi, Dr. Ferdinand Isserman of St. Louis, Mo., speaking before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall, compared the present European scene with that connected with the Old Testament prophecy of Jonah.

"Not by seeking the destruction of our oppressors, but by their regeneration and restoration to sanity; not by placing them without the pale of civilization but by remembering that they, too, are members of the human race and can return to the family of nations," was Dr. Isserman's plea. "We must not yield to hatred and revenge when only by international justice will peace be brought about. Only when justice rules can swords be beaten into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks."

Service Club Girls Give Radio Program for Community Fund

Episodes taken from actual cases in the files of social agencies were dramatized yesterday by members of the Service club and broadcast over station WBBM. The broadcast, from 10 to 10:15 a. m., was designed to assist the Community fund drive. It was sponsored by the women's division of the fund, headed by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank. Service club members who played roles were Nancy-Leigh Bowes, Jeanne Miles, Frances Kelly, and Emily Goehst. They were assisted by Nelson Thomasson III., Laurence Cooper, George Allen, and Edwin Hulbert.

Good Morning!

This week marks your last chance to visit the State-Lake until Christmas day.

Reason, Balaban and Katz are taking the theater over and on Nov. 18 it will be closed for redecoration.

Nice, therefore, that the screen swan song under the Jones, Linick, and Shaefer management should be such a good little picture as is "Broadway Musketeers."

This is a surprisingly potent program drama—an interesting study in contrasts. It has "different" quirks as to story, good direction and an A-1 cast in which Ann Sheridan, and Janet Chapman, a youngster who makes up for lack of beauty by most unusual winsomeness and sparkle, do the outstanding work.

The "Broadway Musketeers" are three girls whose childhood home was an orphanage. . . Isabel marries a fine man, has a lovely home and a dear little daughter. . . . Fay Reynolds becomes a "strip artist" torch singer. . . . Connie, the dimwit of the three, is stenographer to a boss whom she adores.

Fay, arrested in a night club raid, is bailed out by Isabel, who hasn't seen her childhood pal for years, but reads of her plight and rushes to the rescue—meeting at the police station, Connie, also virtually a stranger to her. . . .

The three girls ride out to take a look at "the old homestead"—the orphanage—and, afterwards, have luncheon together, agreeing to hold a yearly reunion at the same place. . . . And Fay learns of Isabel's discontent in the face of all that Fay realizes would have made her own life perfect. . . .

It is Fay's turn to come to the rescue—and her reward to have at last for her own what she has yerned for.

Isabel has been a bad wife, a negligent mother, but she justifies her existence as she ends it. [If I seem cryptic, that's what I'm meaning to be.]

The picture has an exciting gangster angle. But it is the sincerity and ability of the cast which provide its main pull.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 13.—Although Paulette Goddard believes that she'll get the Scarlett O'Hara rôle as a result of last week's tests, the inside rumor is that Katharine Hepburn already has been picked to play opposite Clark Gable. . . . Edgar Bergen and Florence Heller back in tune. She's taken off twenty pounds. . . . Adolph Zukor leaves for London next month and there will be plenty of Hollywood drama wrapped up in that exit. . . . Binnie Barnes getting wires from Tyrone Power. . . . Phil Lieberman, brewing heir, who came here to ask Wendy Barrie to marry him, leaves next week—without her. . . . Add Betchas: The ten gallon hats that western heroes wear hold about a gallon and a half. . . . Earl Carroll gets $2,000 a week—win, lose, or draw—in his coast theater restaurant. . . . Jimmy Monaco, who penned "Pocketful of Dreams," weds Virginia Case this week.

Deanna Durbin will warble "Last Rose of Summer" in her next. . . . Horror pictures are the newest trend as a result of the success of the Dracula and Frankenstein re-issues. Universal is now readying "Son of Frankenstein," in which Lugosi will go through the picture with a broken neck. According to the plot, Lugosi is hung by the monster and then cut down and revived. As a result he lives with a fractured neck. This piece of whimsy was not authored by Sir James Barrie, so help me. . . . Joy Hodges and Lee Bowman an item. . . . Hal Wallis due back today. . . . Jack Waldron in from New York to work at Slapsie Maxie's. . . . Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard in one of their infrequent appearances, at the Trocadero. The swanky coast spot is slicing its couvert charges in half and turning to an attraction policy. Negotiations are on for the Yacht Club Boys to open there. . . . Nancy Carroll with Charlie Grayson. . . . Merle Oberon with Bob Riskin.

Jeffrey Lynn and Doris Carson may take the leap Jan. 1. Ditto Rochelle Hudson and Hal Thompson, one of the Disney execs. . . . What's this about Sam H. Harris getting hitched? He's been going with Mabel Wayne [she penned "Ramona"] and Bobbe Arnst, the ex-Mrs. Johnny Weismuller. . . . Edgar Bergen has taken up stunt flying. I thought Charlie McCarthy was the dummy. Aviators say, however, that Bergen is a natural born pilot. . . . Joan Crawford with Charlie Belden. . . . A youngster invaded the radio studios and single handed routed the supposed-to-be-tough "Dead End" kids, flattening Bobby Jordon and then scaring the life out of his pals. . . . Gloria Youngblood, the Injun, is wearing Rudy Vallee's frat pin. . . . Lou Clayton, Jimmy Durante's manager, who had his nose bobbed, is sorry he ever started it. Now they have to graft a piece of skin from behind his ear. . . . Mrs. Bob Hope made her radio debut as a warbler this week and was a sensation. . . . Bing Crosby tells me that all of his future Paramount films may be on the "Beebe Family" pattern, with Fred MacMurray and young Ellen Drew.

Jack Benny so very embarrassed because he made a hair-on-the-chest reference in the broadcast of "The Crowd Roars." He and Robert Taylor are great pals. . . . Rudy Vallee negotiated a deal at Universal. . . . Richard Barthelmess dickering with Columbia and Paramount. . . . M.-G.-M. deal for Ina Claire should be closed by the time you read this. They want her for the Hedy La Marr flicker and the Garbo opus. . . . Lana Turner with Gene Markey. The next night, Markey with Joan Bennett and those two grand looking youngsters at the Troc. . . . L. B. Mayer interested in Jerry Brady as general manager of his racing stable. . . . Sir Stork expected any minute

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's, stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy, which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister, Evie. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived, she explains Penelope helped her escape. Under their care Betsy rapidly improves. Colin learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she admires. When Geoffrey learns she intends to disinherit Betsy, he kills her. Broderick helps him cover up the crime. Under pretext that Fanny is dying and calling for her Geoffrey gets Betsy to go off with him. Drugged and unconscious, she is taken home and from there by ambulance to a private nursing home, with Evie as nurse.

INSTALMENT XLIX.

SECRET SCHEMING.

In dripping darkness the ambulance ground over gravel to a large, stuccoed mansion. New villas, tumble-down shacks, and waste ground formed the obscured surroundings, while far away to the right loomed the vague bulk of the Alexandra palace.

A lady held open the door. She was thin, had the pinched lips of a martinet, and an air of passé elegance. She greeted Dr. Broderick with eagerness.

Warmly she cried, "Ah, doctor, you'll find everything ready. Will you come this way?"

A car was stopping just behind the ambulance. The doctor waited till its occupant had joined them, then introduced him as the patient's husband, Mr. Scarpath. With quickening glance the lady asked if he were related to the admiral, was told he was the son, and nodded, gravely pleased.

The specialist wasted no time.

"We must get her straight into a blanket-bed, Miss Baldman. You're giving me the right rooms, I hope?"

"O, certainly, doctor—just vacated, luckily. Three, wasn't it, together?"

"Yes, yes!" impatiently. "I've brought my own nurse. Worked for me years ago, but has since been abroad—Miss Tompkins." He motioned to Evie, stiff and nervous, at this juncture sidling forward out of the gloom. Miss Baldman bowed with distant condescension and paid her no further notice. "Now," as the stretcher bearers approached, "will you kindly take this up?"

Heels clicking on the waxed treads of the stairs, Miss Baldman led the way. Once she looked back at the muffled form borne up behind them.

"Unconscious?" she whispered.

"I've been reluctantly obliged to give her morphia," said Broderick shortly. "Are those the rooms?" He pointed with his gloves toward a row of doors through the central of which a nurse was seen hovering. "In that case you may leave us. I'll have a word with you presently."

When Dr. Broderick came down Miss Baldman had tea ready, and served it before the cheerful fire in her cozy office.

"Well, Miss Baldman, and how are you making it?"

Brightly she smiled. "O, so so, doctor! Not quite full just now, so naturally not overstaffed."

Broderick eyed her closely. Hair dyed, quite gray at the roots. Haggard, ageing—and struggling to hide it. Heloise Baldman had been a rural canon's daughter, who, thrown on her own, had scraped together a bit of capital and entered partnership in a luxury home in Beaumont street. For a short time she had flourished, but neurotic spinsterhood had led to quarrels with her equally difficult colleague. Result, a rupture, and the setting up of this cheaper place by herself.

At first he had sent her overflow, but finding flaws in her régime—due to straitened finances, perhaps—he had withdrawn his patronage. Now she was a-twitter at having him back—as she should be! He decided to take her into well edited confidence, which he proceeded to do.

"I quite see, doctor. As you say, a most tragic case."

"The real tragedy lies," he remarked, "in the husband's attachment. That's why we must guard against possible scandal."

"O, most naturally!"

"I'm giving the case my personal attention largely through friendship, but don't imagine it means shortage of funds. If I'm placing the misguided lady in this rather remote district it is to lessen the chance of interference from the associates who have done their utmost to get her into this state. Should they in spite of all come making a nuisance of themselves, can I trust you to make short work of them?"

"Leave it to me, doctor." Miss Baldman snapped her thin lips together. Then, diffidently and half fearing a snub, she asked if the patient was likely to recover.

Meeting her eyes he shrugged. More genial than of old, she thought, in spite of this look of frayed nerves.

"It's her lowered condition that's the trouble. That and her unbalanced temperament. Now you see why I feel it wise to have a woman of proved discretion looking after her. I shall want Tompkins' meals carried up, and I'd like you to discourage any gossip between her and your regular staf."

Leaning forward and placing his cup on the table he spoke frankly, almost with affection.

"We must not lose touch again, Miss Baldman. Forgive me for mentioning such a thing, but is it true that you are in danger of closing down?"

Her taut smile quivered. She clutched hard at the silver cross on her bosom and then, in a rush, let the whole story come forth. O, it had in no way been her fault! She had slaved, schemed, battled to keep up appearances. Ill luck, the wily rooking of her late partner, malice, and again malice had pursued her. A lone woman, too proud to beg favors. . . .

"There, there! We all have our bad times." Broderick, rising, patted her shoulder. "Don't, however, call yourself alone. You and I will be seeing a good deal of each other for a few days. Suppose we go into it thoroughly and decide just what can be done?"

Emotional with gratitude, she made a swift grab at his hand.

"O, doctor, how good you are! If I could just tide things over, put in a few improvements——"

"Quite, quite!" He sounded distrait. "By the way, I'll be requiring an oxygen tent."

"O, certainly! I shall order it at once."

He was staring down at his slightly splashed spats.

"And we might call our patient Mrs. Smith—in the event of inquiries. Understand?"

The doctor was gone now, and all above was silent. Thus far not one cough—so the morphia still had the patient stupefied.

Evie, to her vast relief, was finding there was really extremely little for her to do. The doctor, it seemed, was planning to be here almost constantly, and Geoffrey as well.

"Keep to your room," ordered her brother, coming in to find her sitting with folded hands in her wicker armchair. "Don't come out till you're sent for—and above all," hammering his emphasis softly on the bedrail, "don't answer one question from the matron or other nurses if you should meet them in the hall. It's not your business to discuss things. Got that clear?"

"O, yes, Geoffrey! Only—haven't I to bathe her sometimes?"

"You'll be told about that—and what you want will be handed to you. Your dinner's coming along now." He turned his head as clinking china was heard outside. "Take it in, and when you've done set the tray on the hall table. That's all for now."

He went through into Elizabeth's bedroom and for the rest of the evening all Evie heard were a few indefinable sounds which included the quiet raising of a window. Yes, of course. If it was as she was beginning to suspect, they would want fresh air. . . .

And you can revise it to read: "There's nothing certain but death, taxes—and Notre Dame" . . . Barbara Brewster forsaking all others for Buddy Marino, vocalist at Victor Hugo's.

Haggis on Way for Feast of St. Andrew Society

Note for those of Scottish descent: The haggis, ceremonial Scotch Highland pudding, is on its way to Chicago. It is being prepared aboard the S. S. Cameronia for the annual feast of the haggis Nov. 26 of the Illinois Saint Andrew society in the Stevens hotel. Proceeds from the banquet will go to the Scottish Old People's home in Riverside. In case you have forgotten, the haggis is made of the hearts and livers of sheep, mixed with onions and herbs, and boiled in a lamb's stomach.

As a reminder that there are more kinds of cheese than American, Swiss, and Limburger, this column will present today and tomorrow a brief introduction to some of the best of more than 400 varieties of cheese.

COMMON VARIETIES OF CHEESE.

American: This is a semi-hard, yellow, domestically produced Cheddar-type cheese, most popular of all because of its wide variety of uses. It melts easily, so is good for cooking.

Brie: This is a delicious soft rennet cheese somewhat resembling Camembert. It has a rather strong odor and sharp taste and is one of the best dessert cheeses. Brie originated in France.

Camembert: Of French origin, Camembert cheese now is produced domestically, though much of it still is imported. It is a soft, creamy cheese with a rather thick, edible rind. The flavor is pronounced. Camembert makes an excellent dessert.

Cheddar: A hard, sharp flavored cheese first made in England. There are many types of Cheddar made in this country. Herkimer is one of them.

Cheshire: A hard English cheese, one of the oldest and most popular. It is made nowadays in a huge cylinder weighing from 50 to 70 pounds. The color is a deep yellow.

Cream: Cream cheese, mild flavored and snowy white, is made from rich sour cream or from sweet cream thickened with rennet. Cream cheese must be sold fresh. Housewives use it in baking, in salads, and in many other ways.

Edam: A Dutch skim-milk cheese made in cannonball shape and covered with a red rind. The texture is hard, the flavor similar to that of Cheddar, but sweeter and more nutlike.

Gjedost: This is the Norwegian national cheese made of goat's milk. It is dark brown in color. The taste is sweetish, the cheese extremely hard. Other Scandinavian cheeses are Gammelost, a strong smelling hard cheese made of skimmed sour milk; Mysost, a light brown buttery and mild product; Appetitost, a buttermilk cheese, and Nokkelost, a spiced cheese.

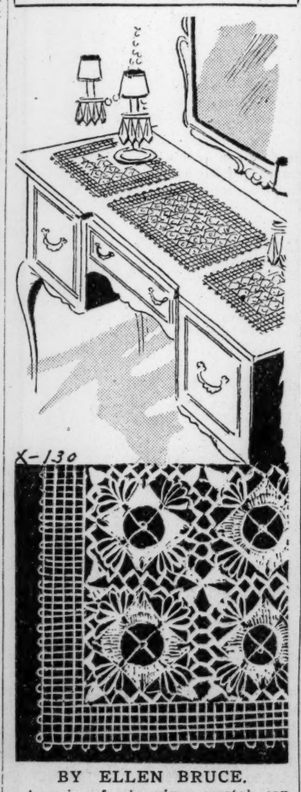
Gruyere: Gruyere is a pasteurized Swiss cheese with a nutlike flavor. We may buy imported or domestic Gruyere, both of which are of good quality. A popular dessert cheese.

Crochet Pattern



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A pair of gleaming crystal candelabra is definitly enhanced with the use of a finely crocheted buffet set. It is no trick to make three pieces, as illustrated, or to make one long runner, depending upon the number of medallions used in each row and the number of rows desired.

For instructions for crocheting the buffet set, No. X-130, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

leased a house on Tower road, Winnetka, not far from their own, which is rented. Their daughters, Virginia, who has completed two years at the University of Southern California; Barbara, and Joan, all are home this winter. Edwin Jr. is at the Staunton Military academy in Virginia.

The Barrett Kerfoot Masons [Mary Williams], who were married last April, have taken a house on Beverly place in Highland Park.

Some who like to keep their country homes only partly open during the winter take apartments at Chicago hotels for the season. At the Drake are the Louis E. Leverones, the Max Epsteins, Mrs. Herman H. Hettler, and the junior Edwin M. Ashcrafts. Also making the Drake their headquarters this winter are the George Henry Highs, the Wallace G. Winters, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch.

The Otis Chatfield-Taylors [Marochka Anisfeld have moved to New York. Mrs. C. Ross Cuthbert has taken an apartment at Hampshire house in New York for the winter.

Junior League to Open Theater Institute Today.

A five days' Children's Theater institute will be opened today by the Chicago Junior league in its clubrooms in the Drake hotel. Miss Gloria Chandler, field secretary of the Children's theater of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, will direct the institute. At the sessions this afternoon there will be a casting and first rehersal of a play that will be presented to the public on Friday afternoon at the conclusion of the institute.

Several young Lake Foresters who are interested in learning about wines will gather at the Illinois Athletic club at 4 o'clock this afternoon to hear Henri Charpentier, noted French chef, in a dissertation on the proper use of wines. He will demonstrate the use of wines for a list of selected viands.

Other wine and spirit experts who will speak briefly are Charles H. Currier Jr., Melvin A. Orgain, and Lowell Northrop. In their audience will be Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., the Jefferson D. Curriers, the junior Fred W. Fairmans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr. As more of their friends become interested in serving wines the study group will be enlarged.

Portraits of Chicagoans Go on Exhibition Today.

An exhibition of portraits in oil by Charles Sneed Williams will be opened today at the Ackerman galleries, 408 South Michigan avenue. Hanging in the exhibit, which will be continued to Nov. 30, are portraits of several well known Chicagoans, among them the late Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Roger Sherman, and Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr.

The Lake View Musical society will give a concert followed by a reception for its president, Mrs. Herman L. Kretschmer, at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. Simon J. Feeney and Mrs. Leonard B. Ettelson will be the hostesses.

The Newberry Center league is planning its Christmas dance for Saturday, Dec. 17, at the Shawnee Country club in Wilmette. Mrs. John Sharon and Mrs. William Putnam are co-chairmen of the benefit. A meeting of the dance committee will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Buckingham Gunn in Evanston.

Mrs. Reed G. Landis is opening her Glencoe home on Wednesday for a meeting and tea for alumnæ of the Emma Willard school in this vicinity. Mrs. Landis is a graduate of the school. Her elder daughter, Miss Nancy Landis, finished there last June, and her younger daughter, Susanne, will enter the school next September as a junior.

The school, in Troy, N. Y., was founded 125 years ago and is the oldest girls' school in the country. Miss Lois Thompson, whose engagement is announced today; Miss Elizabeth Knowlson, and Miss Mary Jane Fetzer are three of this season's buds who were graduated there.

Walter S. Brewsters on Way to Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster left last Tuesday for Los Angeles. They sailed Friday on the Lurline for Honolulu, where they will spend the winter. They will not return to Chicago until early spring.

Nigel Kane of England, who met Mr. and Mrs. Allan Crawfurd-Price [Helen Jeffries] in London, is visiting Mrs. Crawfurd-Price's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Jeffries, in Highland Park. He also will spend a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Ferguson [Virginia Jeffries] in Evanston.

Chicago will not see Lord and Lady Lionel Tennyson before next spring, probably, for word comes from Santa Barbara that they have taken a house in Burlingame for the winter. The Tennysons had a house in Santa Barbara for the summer.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is expecting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Munson, for a visit in December.

Peace Leader to Speak.

Dr. Frederick Kettner, international director of the Secretary of Peace league, will be the especial guest at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Italian tearoom, twenty-third floor Medical and Dental Arts building, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Meet Wednesday to Plan Milk Distribution to Needy

A special luncheon meeting of the Chicago Milk Fund association will be held at 12 o'clock on Wednesday in room 11 at the Palmer house. The object of the meeting is to discuss ways and means to distribute 120,000 quarts of free milk to needy families with pre-school age children during next year, and 15,000 quarts this Christmas.

CONTRACT ACCORDING TO CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 24: Both sides vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 no trump	Double	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 spades	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ Q 8 6 ♥ A K 9 5 2 ♦ 7 5 ♣ A Q 8

What call do you make now?

Answer: You should pass. You have a strong hand, but partner's bidding has been WEAK. The fact that he bid spades, the higher ranking suit, after having first bid diamonds in response to your double is, in this particular sequence, discouraging. You must bear in mind that North first would have responded with a major rather than a minor suit if he had wanted to encourage you. Moreover, with a fair hand he would have passed to the double of one no trump. His bidding, therefore, represents something like six diamonds to the jack or queen, and probably four spades to the K 10, with an inability to stand your heart bid. [Eighteen points demerit for 2 no trump, 32 points demerit for 3 no trump, 36 points demerit for any other bid.]

TODAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 31: With both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
2 hearts	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ A 6 ♥ 7 5 ♦ Q 10 8 6 5 2 ♣ J 10 4

What call do you make?

Question 32: With both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
2 hearts	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ A 6 3 ♥ 7 5 ♦ J 6 5 2 ♣ 9 5 3 2

What call do you make?

TODAY'S HAND.

Match point duplicate.
West, dealer.

SOUTH
♠ K 10 9 6 4

♣ 8 6 3

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 club	1 spade
2 clubs	2 spades	2 no trump	Pass
Pass	3 spades	Double [final bid]

The bidding on this hand was typical "match point." West's free club raise was light, and so was North's first spade raise. The three spade bid was inexcusable, even at match point duplicate, and even though North obviously felt that his partner might go down only one trick, whereas East-West might make 120 points by fulfilling the two no trump contract. East's double was sound.

West opened the club king and continued with the queen and the four spot. East won and underled his ace of diamonds, declarer winning with the queen. Declarer now crossed to dummy with a heart and led a trump toward his own hand. East went up with the ace and laid down the diamond ace. When declarer's king fell it was obvious that no more diamond tricks could be expected by the defense. There was very little doubt that South had the heart ace. If West had had that card there would have been no point in ducking when a heart was led to dummy's K Q J. The only chance to defeat the contract, then, was to build another trump trick. To that end East led the thirteenth club and now declarer was helpless. If he trumped low, West would overtrump with the jack; if he trumped with the king, East's queen would become the high trump.

East's sound analysis had saved the day. East-West might have made game in no trump against a spade lead by South and, with a remarkable diamond guess by East, but what if South should take it into his head to open a heart?

Courtship Is Compatibility Trial Period

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Louise tells us that the man with whom she is going around, and to whom she supposes she is engaged, "brings out the worst that is in her."

No formal announcement of an engagement and no engagement ring's appearance explain Louise's remark about her "just supposing she is engaged." She and the man have talked of getting married, when, where they will live, etc. And they have been taking each other for granted for going on two years now.

The formal engagement announcement and its accompanying fourth-finger pledge is not the problem in Louise's career. It is that the man to whom she feels committed for life brings out the worst that is in her. He arouses all the stubbornness in her nature. She feels a sense of inferiority with him. He makes her jealous and they quarrel often.

The period of courtship, Louise, is the trial period. Not a period of trial. It is the period in which you are supposed to become better acquainted. It is a trial period in the sense that if you find your emotional reactions are opposed to all promise of a successful marriage career, you have time to withdraw from the match. You do not have to go through with a marriage understanding, nor an announced engagement, even, if you find the proposed mate offers you nothing but incompatibility.

The man to whom you assign the rest of your life should bring out the best in you, not the worst. He should bring out the desire in you to help, not oppose him stubbornly. In place of a feeling of inferiority, you should be infected with a sense of importance, an assurance of your own worth.

Marrying isn't going to change these traits. After you have settled down to the business of living together you will find your incompatibilities and misunderstandings expressing themselves with even more force.

No, Louise, the kind of mate that most insures married happiness is the one who inspires the best in you!

Mother Must Guard Strength of Convalescent Youngster

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The perfectly well person, the one who's never been sick a day in his [or her] life, who's never experienced pain or weakness, who's never been forced to forgo all the pleasant active ways of vigorous everyday living, can scarcely understand what it means to be ill, or to be convalescent with all that that implies.

If your child has been through a serious illness there is almost sure to be some sort of aftermath, and an aftermath that may last some time. Ordinarily this consists of weakness, which usually is accompanied by behavior not usual with your boy or girl. Irritability, impatience, easy tears, depression [which is an almost inevitable accompaniment of weakness], unreasonableness, and boredom.

The illness also may be of such a nature that it leaves a temporary physical handicap in its wake, one which lasts quite a time, such as a weakened heart, a slight paralysis, or impaired vision.

When either of these results is the case it is important not to expect too much of your child, nor to allow the school to expect too much. If you do, and your child fails under too heavy a burden, it is not only a strain on him physically, but may create settled feelings of inferiority which are distinctly bad for him.

You need not spoil your child. You need not, in most cases, even let him know what you are doing. But you must make allowances. You must see that he attempts only what is within his strength and within his capacity at school, until gradually his full vigor has returned.

Do you sail into your housework and sewing with gusto when you've been ill, and are you as patient and gay and responsive as when you're well? We certainly should not expect too much of our children, especially in view of the fact that they can't and don't sense as clearly how and why they feel so far from normal.

Bear with your child in his convalescence of body and personality.

The Housewife

It's not a bit too soon to be thinking about and planning for Thanksgiving. Of course the first thing that pops into your mind is a turkey, beautifully browned, plump and inviting. Why not serve him to your family and guests on a special platter this year? One that's made expressly for Thanksgiving dinner.

These good looking turkey sets come in thirteen pieces—a dozen dinner plates and the platter. In the center of each is the famous bird, and he appears again in medallions in the border. You have your choice of a blue and white set, or a brown and white one. This china comes from a famous china center, Staffordshire, England. But the price for the whole thing is most reasonable.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The world championship and pace setting Blackhawks last night continued to burn up National Hocky league ice as they administered a blistering defeat to the rough and rugged Montreal Canadiens, 4 to 3, before a record early season crowd of 16,264. Five thousand were turned away.

It was the fourth straight victory for the champions in four games played, and their second successive against the fearsome Canadiens, who, like the Hawks, are strengthened greatly by taking stars from the disbanded Maroons.

There were as many Hawk stars last night as there were Hawk uniforms, but the brightest of all was that skinny, old rushin' Russian, Johnny Gottselig, who smacked in the first two Chicago goals in the first period, and added the final and winning Hawk counter late in the final period to further delight his thrilled and roaring constituency.

Canadiens Strong at Finish.

The Canadiens added their second and third goals in the last three minutes, making Johnny's last accomplishment vastly more than the artistic gesture it appeared to be when he made the goal in 4 minutes and 54 seconds before the final siren.

Gottselig's first goal was registered in 6:38 of the opening period, on assists by Cully Dahlstrom and Joffre Desilets. It brought an end to a whirling skirmish in the Canadien defense zone and Johnny registered when he whanged a bouncing puck into the nets. The score became 2 to 0 for the Hawks in 17:57 of the first period. Babe Siebert had been tossed into the penalty box for interference and Gottselig was put on the ice with the Thompson-Romnes-March line to effect a power combination. Mush March broke Stew Evans' stick as he crashed across the blue line, then gave the puck to Paul Thompson. Paul set up the play for Gottselig, who shot back from the left of the cage to beat Goalie Wilf Cude.

Canadiens Get One.

The first goal in the second period was by the Canadiens in 11:54. Because of penalties to Evans, March, and George Mantha, both teams had been operating short handed. Evans got out before the other two and Herb Cain replaced him. As soon as Cain got on the ice he picked up the puck from inside the blue line and passed to Blake, who was waiting near the cage.

In the last minute of the second period, 19:39, Alex Levinsky again extended the Chicago margin to two goals in a mêlée which seemed about to bring a penalty as the Canadiens sought to hold and slug Russ Blinco. But there was no whistle so Alex got a brilliant goal, while Blinco and Thompson were credited with assists.

After the third period was three-fourths over, Blake was bounced for tripping and the Hawks went to work. In 15:06 Gottselig scored on assists by Doc Romnes and March. Romnes had been off the ice during the second period, getting seven stitches taken in a skate cut in his right leg.

Hawks Needed It.

The Hawks' fourth goal first gained importance as the deciding marker in 17:20 of the final period, when George Mantha hit the nets, and it became the big tabulation thirteen seconds before the end of the game when Siebert scored to come within one of tying.

The Hawks, who didn't win their fourth game until Dec. 12 last season, have as many points as any two teams in the league combined. They have eight, Boston has four, Toronto, four, New York Americans, four, and Rangers, two. The Canadiens and the Detroit Red Wings haven't broken into the point column.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 13. — Green Bay's Packers finished their campaign of revenge this afternoon with a masterful victory over the Detroit Lions, 28 to 7, that left no question for debate over comparative abilities of these rivals for the professional championship of the western division of the National league.

This triumph, the eighth in ten games, assured the Packers of at least a tie, even if they are defeated next Sunday by the New York Giants in their final contest. And since Detroit, now with three defeats and five victories must win all its remaining games to tie, Green Bay apparently is ready to take over the western division championship it vacated last season in favor of Chicago's Bears.

The majority of today's record throng of 45,139, the largest crowd ever to see a football game in Detroit, probably will agree that the Packers are heir apparent to the National league championship.

Bears Win in Mud.

The Bears defeated the Packers in the rain and mud, 2 to 0, early in the campaign. Green Bay obtained satisfaction from the Bears, now definitly out of the race, last week. In the final home game in Green Bay, Detroit whipped the Packers, 17 to 7. That humiliation was the spur for the relentless Packer attack this afternoon that scored two touchdowns in the first half and followed with two more after Detroit had marched ninety-six yards with the kickoff at the start of the third period.

Only in this brilliant sortie, founded largely on a sixty-three yard gain by Lloyd Cardwell on a pass from Bill Shepherd, did the Lions resemble the team that had crushed Green Bay by ten points. But even as the thousands, confidently expecting the Lions to continue, roared their approval, the Packers struck back with disheartening certainty.

Four Plays Bring Touchdown.

Green Bay today was a smooth, evenly balanced machine because Cecil Isbell, hero of this year's All-Star game, led an assault that was as effective along the ground as it always has been in the air. Isbell collaborated with the veteran Clark Hinkle, whose all around play seemingly is effortless, but none the less devastating to the best planned defenses.

Isbell's passes were the threat Detroit feared. And Don Hutson, whose

No Time Out for the Irish; Wildcats Next

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 13.—Eighteen seconds of the Notre Dame-Minnesota game remained to be played. The Irish had just scored their third touchdown for the 19 to 0 licking administered to the Gophers. From the student section on the west side of the stadium, jammed with 56,000, came the steady chant of hundreds "Beat Northwestern."

This is the objective of the undefeated Irish eleven: To beat the Wildcats, who until Saturday had been the only foe to humble Minnesota.

Notre Dame has won ten consecutive games, seven this year, the best record since Elmer Layden took charge of athletics at his alma mater. Northwestern and Southern California bar the path of the Irish to a claim to the national championship, a goal last achieved in 1930.

Wildcats Are Dangerous.

Unquestionably Notre Dame will be the choice over the Wildcats, but an aroused Northwestern squad that played Michigan to a scoreless tie Saturday, a tie that probably eliminated the Wolverines from the Big Ten race even as Wisconsin dropped Northwestern the preceding week, may surprise Notre Dame. Back in 1935, you will recall, the Irish won six consecutive games. The sixth was the stirring triumph over Ohio State, 18 to 13. Then came Northwestern to blast Irish hopes, 14 to 7.

Notre Dame is a great team because it possesses a brilliantly balanced attack, an aggressive line defense, and, most important, because it has speed. Its runners are dangerous from any point on the field. Its record of sudden decisive attack, shown by its fourth period rally against Army, reached the season's height against Minnesota.

Bob Saggau, sophomore left half, finally advanced to the first eleven, is a prime factor. Two of his passes scored touchdowns against the Gophers. Louis Zontini, right half, ran eighty-four yards for the first period score. Except for these three plays Notre Dame was held in check by Minnesota's line, but Notre Dame has yielded only three touchdowns to opponents. Its constant threat offensively means that only an unrelenting, mechanically perfected defense can curb the Irish assault.

The Big Ten race comes to the final group of four games—Northwestern and Iowa have completed their conference schedules—with the winner of the Minnesota-Wisconsin game

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

As a result of a campaign on the part of the Baseball Writers' association, the two major leagues will hold their annual winter meetings under the same hotel roof in New York, Dec. 13, 14, and 15. . . . Heretofore the sessions were held in different hotels and the scribes ran themselves dizzy keeping up with the news developments. . . . Four members of the Sioux Falls, S. Back in Tipperary.

I'll be back in Tipperary when the autumn comes again,

O, I'm lonesome for the welcome that I used to know of old

Sure we said good-by and parted on the upland when the eve
Kindled all the crystal candles of the sky,
And, although she smiled upon me and pretended not to grieve,

So it's I'll be going back to her when autumn's in the air
And the ghosts of vanished vikings haunt the sea,
For my truant heart is hungry for the perfume of her hair

Bengals Rally for 14-14 Tie with Cards

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—With only two minutes left to play, the Cincinnati Bengals turned an apparent defeat into a 14 to 14 tie with the Chicago Cardinals today. Dwight Sloan, Cardinal back, fumbled and Bernard of the Bengals scooped up the ball and ran forty-two yards for a touchdown.

A few seconds after the score tying play, there was a free for all fight between football players, officials, and spectators in front of the Bengals' bench. It started when Frank Patrick of the Cardinals was tackled hard by Bernard. Soon fists were flying in all directions, with police battling to break it up.

Cardinal Passes Click.

The Cardinals did all their scoring in the second period. Sam Agee opened the first touchdown drive by throwing a pass for a sixteen yard gain to the Bengals' 37 yard line. Sloan then passed to Patrick on the 9. Sloan then passed to Tinsley in the end zone and Patrick added the extra point.

A few minutes later the Cardinals recovered a fumble on Cincinnati's 38 yard line. After Robbins had gone around right end for nine yards he threw a pass to Russell on Cincinnati's 1 yard line. On the next play he carried the ball over. Patrick again kicked the extra point.

Intercepted Pass Helps.

The Bengals made their first touchdown in the first quarter when Owen intercepted a pass by Lawrence in midfield and ran the ball to the Cardinals' 22 yard line. Owen carried the ball to the 10 yard line, the 2 yard line, and over. Martinovich kicked both extra points.

Santa Clara Is Upset by St. Mary's, 7-0

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—St. Mary's Gaels, playing inspired football, pulled one of the major upsets of the season today by defeating the previously unbeaten Santa Clara Broncos, 7 to 0. A capacity crowd of 60,000 saw the Gaels rush over a third period touchdown, kick the point, and then stave off desperate Santa Clara rallies for the balance of the game.

Santa Clara, undefeated since 1936 and Sugar Bowl champion the last two years, went into the game with a record of sixteen successive victories. St. Mary's had lost to California and Fordham this year.

St. Mary's touchdown was scored late in the third quarter after the Gaels had taken possession of the ball thirty-five yards from the Santa Clara goal. Four passes, with Ed Heffernan tossing each time, coupled with a few line plays put the Gaels over. Full Back Herb Smith went through center from the 2 yard line for the touchdown and Quarter Back Mike Perrie kicked the point.

Santa Clara was turned back three times in the last period, once on the St. Mary's 3 yard line, again on the 1 foot marker and finally on the 14 yard stripe. Twice the Gaels held for downs. The third threat ended in a pass interception.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Bears bade farewell to their constituency yesterday with their finest performance of the season. Closing their 1938 home schedule, they humbled the Washington Redskins, defending champions in the National Football league, by passing and smashing their way to a 31 to 7 triumph before 21,817 in Wrigley field.

After a scoreless first period, they stepped out to a 17 to 0 lead in the second quarter, moved on to a 19 to 0 advantage on a safety in the third, and scored twice in the fourth. From the opening whistle to the final lunge at the line there was no doubting the Bears' superiority. Yesterday they played the football coaches and Chicago fans had expected of them all season.

It's So Useless, Though.

Ironically, it availed them nothing. While they were throttling the Washington running attack and limiting the effectiveness of the Redskins famed passing attack to a net of thirty-six yards on nine completions, Green Bay was beating the Lions, 28 to 7, in Detroit. The Packers' victory left the Bears without even a mathematical chance of sharing in the western division title.

Sam Francis, former Nebraska full back, who led the voting in THE TRIBUNE'S All-Star poll in 1937, opened the scoring early in the second period with a twenty yard run on a reverse around Washington's right end. Joe Maniaci kicked the extra point. Eighteen plays later Maniaci plunged inside Washington's right tackle for one yard and the second touchdown. He again added the extra point.

Washington gambled on a fourth down pass in the final minutes of the quarter and lost, the Bears taking the ball on the 33 yard line. Four plays later Jack Manders place kicked from the 32 yard line to give the Bears a 17 to 0 lead.

Scores Two Touchdowns.

Manders shot between Washington's left tackle and guard midway in the fourth period for three yards and the third Bear touchdown. He also scored the fourth touchdown, taking a ten yard pass from Ray Buivid a few minutes later. Joe Stydahar was responsible for the Bears' two other points, blocking two of Sammy Baugh's punts within three plays at the outset of the third period. Andy Farkas, a Chicago High school product, who attained collegiate fame at Detroit, scored the safety by recovering the second blocked kick in the end zone.

Washington had relied upon Baugh's passing to keep it in first place in the eastern division, half a game ahead of the New York Giants. A line that whipped the Redskin forwards into submission early and a secondary defense that plagued receivers enabled the Bears to smother the Redskins' aerial attack and drop them into second place.

Baugh, for the first time in his professional career, was stopped. He completed only seven passes in sixteen attempts, found his defensive assignments against the Bears' battering backs more exacting than his frail physical equipment could cope with, and generally was disappointing to the 21,187 who had come to see him exhibit his artistry.

Filchock Goes Over.

Washington's only score came in the final minutes of the game. Frank Filchock, former Indiana quarter back, went over from the 5 yard line, after he had returned an intercepted Detroit, Mich., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The New York Rangers came from behind tonight to open their National Hocky League schedule with a 4 to 3 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

Trailing 2 to 1 at the start of the last period, the Rangers scored three goals to go in front and then cut short a Detroit rally in the final minutes. A crowd of 9,200 saw the teams wage a furious struggle that resulted in two fights.

The Rangers tied the score at 2 all early in the third period when Cecil Dillon skated around the net, feinted Normie Smith out of position, and scored. Less than two minutes later the Rangers went ahead to stay on Lynn Patrick's brilliant shot. The fourth Ranger goal was made by Neil Colville.

AMERICANS WIN, 2-1

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The New York Americans opened the National league hocky season for 15,000 Metropolitan fans tonight with a 2 to 1 triumph over the Boston Bruins. It was Boston's first loss.

Both New York goals were scored with a Boston player in the penalty box. In the first period Lorne Carr took a pass from Eddie Wiseman near the blue line and lined the puck past Goalie Tiny Thompson. Wiseman scored again in the final seconds of the second period on a relay from Nels Stewart.

Boston's goal came early in the final period as Bill Hollett sent a long, low shot into the nets on a pass from Gordon Pettinger. The Bruins tried desperately to tie the score and in the closing seconds withdrew Goalie Thompson and placed six forwards on the ice. Lineups:

MITCHELL SAILS TO LAKE DINGHY TITLE; PIRIE IS 2D

Twenty class D dinghies competed in the event. Mitchell's score was 62 points. Lockwood M. Pirie, with Joe Haller as crew, was second with 60 points. Ed Schnabel Jr., with his father as crew, was third with 57 points. All three craft represented the Belmont harbor fleet.

DAZZY VANCE IS WINNING BATTLE WITH PNEUMONIA

Clearwater, Fla., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Dazzy Vance, once one of the greatest pitchers in baseball, tonight was reported out of danger from an attack of pneumonia which has confined him to a hospital here for a week.

For several days his condition was critical. He is expected to be moved to his home in Homosassa within a few days.

Vance, who did most of his pitching for the Brooklyn Dodgers and wound up his career with the St. Louis Cardinals, operates a hotel and hunting camp.

in Madison Saturday receiving at least a share of the championship. However, if the game ends in a tie both would lose the championship if Ohio State defeats Michigan. A victory for the Buckeyes would give them four games won, one lost [to Purdue], and one tied [with Northwestern]. Ohio State has had the advantage of a six game schedule.

Watch Those Wolverines.

If Michigan defeats Ohio State the Wolverines will share in the championship if Wisconsin and Minnesota tie. And Purdue, by beating Indiana, also may tie for the title under the above circumstances. The final standing of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Purdue, and Michigan then would be three games won, one lost, and one tied.

Michigan almost kept the pace that would have assured it a share in the Big Ten title last Saturday. After turning back Northwestern's most determined bids, the Wolverines, in the fourth period, saw their own hopes shattered when a five yard penalty for back field in motion checked the running assault and Fred Trosko missed the placement that would have produced a 3 to 0 victory.

Maroons Own the Cellar.

Indiana scored its second touchdown of the season to whip Iowa, 7 to 3, and thus leave last place in the conference to exclusive possession of Chicago. The Maroons welcomed the grand old man of the Midway, their coach for forty-one years, A. A. Stagg, and his team from the College of the Pacific. Sentimentally the game was a complete success, but the Stockton team, alert on pass defense, piled up a 32 to 0 victory.

Wisconsin's trip to Los Angeles added deserved fame, for the Badgers whipped U. C. L. A., 14 to 7. The team took an early lead and, then granted only one touchdown to their opponents' razzle-dazzle rally. The Badgers are due back in Madison today to prepare for Minnesota's invasion.

These Are Good, Too.

Texas Christian, Duke, and Tennessee, most prominent in the list of undefeated college teams, marched over Saturday's opponents to keep pace with Notre Dame. Dartmouth fell victim to Cornell, 14 to 7. The Indians' victory string thus ended at twenty-two consecutive triumphs.

Cornell's victory was no upset, for the Big Red, although beaten earlier, had shown its power. Saturday Cornell marked up eighteen first downs to five and outrushed Dartmouth, 214 yards to 128.

Duke won its intersectional battle from Syracuse, 21 to 0, and Tennessee defeated Vanderbilt, 14 to 0. The undefeated Vols now have only Kentucky and Mississippi between them and a perfect season.

Davey's Quite a Pitcher.

Davey O'Brien, successor to Sammy Baugh at Texas Christian, completed seventeen of his twenty-four passes for gains totaling 230 yards and the Horned Frogs whipped Texas, 28 to 6.

The upset of the schedule was Washington's 7 to 6 victory over Southern California. Undefeated since the opening game, which was lost to Alabama, the Trojans now have been dropped back into a tie with California for the Pacific Coast conference championship. A week ago Southern California defeated California. Saturday California whipped Oregon, 20 to 0.

STATE SKATING ASSOCIATION TO MEET TONIGHT

The Illinois Skating association will meet tonight in the Columbus park fieldhouse to make plans for the coming season. Wilfrid Smith, CHICAGO TRIBUNE sports writer, will give a talk on the increase of racing interest in Chicagoland. Smith will name the site of THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derbies which will be held Jan. 15 and 16.

Driver Crushed to Death in First Race in Midget Car

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Oscar L. Coleman of Dallas, former southwestern racing champion, was crushed to death today in his first venture on a midget auto track after fourteen years of driving standard machines. Coleman lost control of his newly acquired midget car while making a time trial to qualify for races at a Dallas park.

GIANTS' ATTACKS BY LAND AND AIR ROUT RAMS, 28-0

New York Line Halts Cleveland Backs.

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Unleashing tremendous power overland and in the air, the New York Giants crushed the Cleveland Rams, 28 to 0, today before 25,000 in the Polo Grounds.

The Giants ran almost at will through the outclassed Cleveland line, held the Rams to a net gain of thirty-nine yards rushing and never let them get inside the New York 37 yard line.

Two passes, the second one caught by Jim Lee Howell on the Cleveland 5 yard line while lying on his back, set up the score in the opening period. The Giants, who had gone sixty-seven yards for the first points, went thirty-five for the second touchdown in the second quarter with Karcis smashing through the short side guard for the score. The next time they got the ball they moved sixty-six yards with Tuffy Leemans passing to Ray Hanken in the end zone for the touchdown.

In the third period, Passer Ed Danowski broke off from the Ram 31 yard line to canter over for the final touchdown. Lineup:

CLEVELAND [0].		NEW YORK [28].
Benton	L. E.	Poole
Markov	L. T.	Widseth
Ragazzo	L. G.	Dell Isola
Cherundolo	C.	Hein

DODGERS, 32; EAGLES, 14

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Brooklyn's ambitious Dodgers made two brilliant thrusts today to turn back the Philadelphia Eagles, 32 to 14, in a National Professional league game. Their sights trained on a slim chance to ascend into the eastern division lead, the Dodgers counted 20 points in the first half and sat back to await developments.

These weren't long coming as big Dave Smukler, Eagle full back, ran back the third period kickoff an exact one hundred yards, and a twenty-seven yard pass from Emmett Mortell to Bill Hewitt added another touchdown eleven minutes later. Jay Arnold place kicked an extra point after each.

Hewitt	L. E.	Druze
Ellis	L. T.	Kinard
Schmitt	L. G.	Golemgeske
Harper	C.	Cooper
Rado	R. G.	Emerson

Bukant	F. B.	Farrell

Chicagoland Dog Is in Line for U. S. Retriever Honors

BY BOB BECKER.

This signal honor is expected to be bestowed on Nigger of Barrington, a black Labrador owned by Gordon P. Kelley of Lake Forest. No other retriever in the country has made such a record in field trials this fall, won so many open all-age stakes, and turned in such perfect performances on land and in water as this 7 year old Labrador, bred and trained in Chicagoland.

Nigger is so far ahead of all other field trial retrievers that he can't help but win the big challenge cup offered by Field and Stream and the honors that go with it. Already he has won six trials since spring and he may register another victory before the season ends in the east. At the present time Nigger is in the east, waiting to run in another trial which will be held on Long Island.

This black Labrador was bred by Thomas Howell, whose Labrador kennel at Barrington was a leader in promoting the interests of the breed in the middle west. Nigger's sire was Fresco Smut, a tough, determined, brainy dog. Nigger's dam was Kitty of Barrington, a sweet tempered, tractable, fast, little Labrador. Nigger of Barrington has the best qualities of these two famous Labradors to such a degree that today he is called the "automatic retriever."

His work in most of the trials has been almost flawless. Nigger was trained by Martin Hogan and soon became almost unbeatable on land. Then he was taken over by Francis Hogan [his son], given his water work and polished until today Nigger is king of the field trial retrievers in the United States.

In his last two victories in the east he won under women as well as men judges. At the Rolling Rock trial Mrs. Walton Ferguson was a judge. At another trial one of England's most famous women retriever judges placed him first in the all-age stake.

MOON MULLINS—PLUSHIE'S ON THE SUCKER LIST

I DIDN'T HAVE ANY IDEA POKER WAS SUCH A DANDY GAME, MR. SHARP.
REALLY.
YES- IF ANYBODY AS STUPID AS MY HUSBAND CAN WIN FORTY-TWO DOLLARS FROM YOU AND COL. SMITHFIELD-HAMM, IT MUST BE SIMPLY FASCINATING.
LORD PLUSHBOTTOM OFFERED TO GIVE ME HALF OF WHAT HE WON IF I LET HIM PLAY AGAIN TONIGHT-BUT I WOULDN'T THINK OF IT.
YOU WOULDN'T?
NO- I WANT YOU TO LEARN ME HOW TO PLAY AND I'LL WIN THE WHOLE FORTY-TWO DOLLARS FROM HIM!

BEARS SMOTHER REDSKINS AND BAUGH, 31 TO 7

The intense rivalry which developed between the teams after last year's championship game, and which received impetus from the Bears' protest of two Redskin plays, was manifest throughout by vicious play. The Bears were penalized sixty yards and the Redskins twenty-five. Vic Carroll, giant Washington center, and Bob Swisher, the pride of Peoria and Northwestern, were ejected from the game in the second quarter for fighting and in the third quarter, Pete Bausch, a former Redskin who was the Bears' captain for the day, was ordered from the game for objecting too strenuously to a pass ruling.

Even on First Downs.

Danny Fortmann, Bear guard, had a tooth kicked out and Russ Thompson, Bear right tackle, lost three teeth in a mêlée.

Both teams made fourteen first downs, six of Washington's resulting from penalties called on the Bears.

The Bears' first touchdown drive got under way from their 35 yard line where Baugh's quick kick was killed early in the second quarter. on the fifth play Swisher took a long lateral from Bernie Masterson and raced down the side lines thirty-one yards to the Redskins' 23.

Francis added three, then swung wide again around the Redskins' right end with only George Musso for interference. Musso cut down Baugh and Francis ran twenty yards for the score.

A few minutes later Bjork deflected one of Baugh's passes and Francis intercepted it on the Redskins' 47. Francis got five, then Masterson passed thirty yards to Les MacDonald for a first down on the 12. Swisher raced wide to the right, cut back behind his blockers and went ten yards for another first down. Francis moved it up a yard and Maniaci went over from the 1.

Manders Kicks Goal.

In the final minutes of the second period, Washington gambled on a fourth down pass with four yards to go. It failed and the Bears took the ball on Washington's 33. Masterson threw three passes, after which Manders dropped back to the 32 on fourth down and place kicked a field goal.

Washington appeared thoroughly disorganized at the start of the second half. Jay Turner fumbled, but Charlie Malone recovered and got back to the 20 to prevent a loss. Baugh attempted to quick kick, and Stydahar blocked it, Bausch recovering on Washington's 8. Maniaci fumbled on the first play, and Mickey Farks recovered for Washington on the 3. Baugh's first down punt from the end zone was blocked by Stydahar again and Farkas recovered in the end zone for a safety.

Another Drive Is Broken Up.

The Bears organized another foray late in the third period, advancing thirty-three yards to the 17, but Filchock broke up the threat by intercepting Nolting's fourth down pass on the 9 and coming back ten yards. Washington got its first drive under way with this interception, advancing to the Bears' 47. A pass failed, however, and nine plays after the Redskin punt Manders wound up an eighty yard march with a three yard plunge for the third Bear touchdown.

Two plays after the ensuing kickoff, Gene Ronzani intercepted Hartman's pass and returned twelve yards to Washington's 25. Francis made fifteen yards on a wide reverse. Buivid missed on one pass, but on next play he rifled a short shot to Manders in the flat and Jack scored.

1,000 SEATS FOR N. U.-IRISH GAME ON SALE TODAY

To accommodate fans who were unable to purchase tickets for the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game in Dyche stadium Saturday, 1,000 additional field seats are being constructed at the ends of the field. Priced at $3.30 each, they will be placed on sale today at Northwestern university.

The extra seats will raise the stadium capacity to 48,500. All permanent seats were sold two weeks ago.

pass receptions had beaten the Bears, was a marked man. Cardwell covered Hutson perfectly on the first passes thrown to him and although Hutson caught the third for fifteen yards and immediately after was awarded another gain of twenty-one yards because of interference by Cardwell that put the ball on the Lions' 31 yard line, the march ended when Hinkle's attempted place kick on fourth down was wide of the left upright.

Isbell's next barrage scored. The Packers had possession on Detroit's 39 yard line where Schneidman had taken Huffman's pass as it bounced from Monk Moscrip's hands. On the first play, the last of the opening period, Isbell swept wide at the Detroit left flank. Hutson from his position at left end, went straight down field and then swung over to his right.

Hutson and Excellent Decoy.

Hutson was an amazing decoy for five Detroit men who swarmed around him. And there, far on the left, was Milt Gantenbein, right end, to take Isbell's pass. Gantenbein was run to earth on Detroit's 14 yard line.

Isbell next shot the ball to Hinkle, running wide and to his left. Hinkle took the ball in stride and continued four yards into the end zone. He place kicked the point for the Packers' 7 to 0 lead.

March Covers 55 Yards.

Mulleneaux, in the second period, caught a pass from Isbell which assisted in the Packer drive for the second touchdown. This march covered fifty-five yards and began with Hinkle's sweep around Detroit's right end for seven yards. Isbell spun through center for three yards and then Mulleneaux took a pass for a gain of thirty-six yards.

Joe Laws raced around right end for nine yards and Hinkle repeated for a first down on Detroit's 5 yard line. Hinkle scored when he shot inside the Lions' right tackle and cut over the goal line untouched. Tiny Engebretsen place kicked the extra point.

Detroit's consolation score was managed by Shepherd and Gutowsky. Shepherd returned the kickoff at the start of the second half from the end zone to the Lions' 19 yard line, but Detroit was convicted of holding on the first play from scrimmage and was sent back to its four. Gutowsky plunged for six yards. Shepherd turned the Packer left end for nine yards and followed with a first down run to Detroit's 30 yard line after he had dropped back to pass and found no receiver open.

Shepherd Makes Touchdown.

Gutowsky and Shepherd picked up five yards and then Shepherd passed to Cardwell running to the Packers' 25 yard line. Cardwell cut across field and finally was stopped on Green Bays' 2 yard line. Shepherd then carried the ball inside left tackle for the touchdown and added the point by placement.

Green Bay received the kickoff, Hinkle returning the ball to his own 36 yard line. In four plays the Packers reached the goal to cut short the crowd's premature celebration. Hinkle sprinted around right end and a pass was incomplete. Then, without warning, Isbell went wide around the other flank behind three white shirted blockers, each of whom cut down a Lion as if he had been machine gunned.

Stopped on 23 Yard Line.

On the next play Isbell made a full spin and came back through right guard in a rapier thrust that carried him between Lee Stokes and Jim McDonald, backing up the line. He danced away from Shepherd and dodged Cardwell to sprint into the end zone. Don Hutson came into the game to placekick the point.

Early in the fourth quarter, after a Lion drive had fizzled on the Packers' 30 yard line in a series of pass failures, the Packers struck again.

This time, with Isbell on the side lines, it was Andy Uram, another of the stars of the Soldiers' field game last August, who carried the ball seventy yards for the touchdown.

On the first play Uram went sweeping around left end, twice bumped into a bevy of tacklers, and came through each cluster successfully. When Uram finished he had twice nearly crossed the gridiron. He outran Bob Reynolds, Detroit tackle, who was forced wide by rear guard protectors. Engebretsen placekicked the final point.

C. Y. O. BOXERS FIGHT THIS WEEK IN TWO SECTIONS

Open Bouts Tomorrow in Marigold Gardens.

Boxers from two sections, north and west, will see action this week in the eighth annual Catholic Youth Organization Christmas Fund boxing tournament.

North side boxers will appear in preliminary bouts, and west section scrappers will perform in quarter-final matches. The north section preliminary contests will be held tomorrow and Wednesday nights in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. The west section quarter-finals will be held Friday night in C. Y. O. Center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street.

North side preliminary winners will qualify for the quarter-finals in the C. Y. O. gym on Nov. 25. West section quarter-final victors will move to the semi-finals which are scheduled for the nights of Nov. 29 and 30 in C. Y. O. Center. Suburban contests will be presented on Nov. 21 and 22 in Catholic High school gymnasium, Joliet, Ill.

Boxers from the south section already have qualified for the semi-finals. They moved into the semi-final bouts by winning quarter-final matches last Friday evening. They have to win only one more match to appear in the C. Y. O. title contests in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets, Dec. 9.

TWO TEAMS ENTER LEAGUE.

Two teams have entered the New Century Basketball league, which will play in Marigold Gardens. They are the Tumaviche and the Queen of Angels C. Y. O. quintet.

YOUR BUSY LIFE LETS DOWN THE BARS TO NERVE STRAIN

BOSTON TERRIER—A cross between the English bulldog and white English terrier, but this gentle, lovable house pet is strictly an American product. First bred in Boston some 60 years ago. Once called the "Roundhead," today he is the "American Gentleman" of dogdom. The phrase "Boston terrier expression" has become almost a synonym for intelligence in dogs.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST...

AND SO IS HE

ARE these busy, trying days for you? Do you find yourself, at day's end, irritable, nerve weary? Take a moment—study the dog above. He's resting his nerves. Even in the midst of strenuous action he will stop, relax. The dog does that instinctively, though his nerves are complex, high-keyed like our own.

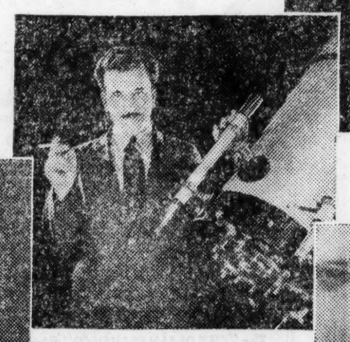
We, trained for the intense stress of modern life, are likely to ignore the distress signals of our nerves—the instinctive urge to rest. So often, we let our will-power drive us on at a task, hour after hour, heedless of nerve tension.

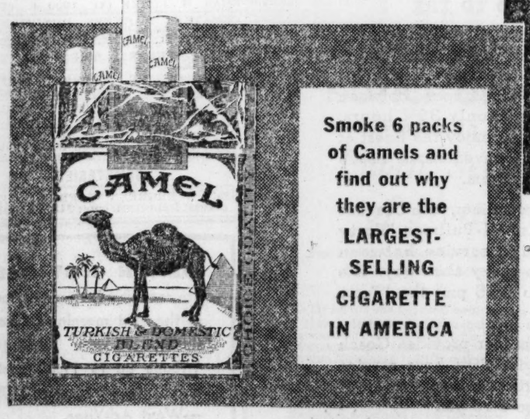
You don't want your nervous system to be a drag. See what a difference it makes when you rest your nerves frequently—when you LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL. Enjoy the mellow goodness, the mildness of Camel's rich, ripe tobaccos. Smokers say Camel's costlier tobaccos are so soothing to the nerves.

They break Nerve Tension—Millions do—They

"Let up—Light up a Camel"

LONG CONCENTRATION over charts and technical equipment puts a big strain on astronomer Louis S. Lojas (right). "But now," he says, "no matter how absorbing my work is, I prevent nerve tension. I let up—light up a Camel. I find Camels really soothing to the nerves."





Smoke 6 packs of Camels and find out why they are the LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

A QUARTER-MILLION miles of flying are behind Miss Lolly Sisson (right), air hostess on TWA's "Sky Chief." She says: "Caring for passengers on long flights is a real strain on the nerves, but I keep away nerve tension by pausing when I can. I let up and light up a Camel. Camels are so mild, comforting."

A LINOTYPE OPERATOR sets type on a complicated machine. In this trying work, more and more men are learning to ease nerve strain by letting up—lighting up a Camel.

DID YOU KNOW:

—that if a roll of cigarette paper were not cut as it runs through the machine, it would make a cigarette a mile long? That modern cigarette machines turn out 800 to 1000 finished cigarettes per minute? That the output of every machine is continuously under inspection and test to make sure each and every Camel is perfect? Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

ARMY REGAINING FIGHTING POWER, SAYS GEN. CRAIG

Reports Strides Toward War Peak Efficiency.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—In his annual accounting of his stewardship as chief of staf of the army, Gen. Malin Craig today reported to Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring that the American army is becoming an efficient military machine.

Lethargy of the post war days has been shaken off and the army is making strides toward a state of preparedness commensurate with America's place in the family of nations, said Gen. Craig.

The chief of staf enumerated improvements being made in organization, personnel, and equipment.

Stresses Peace Policy.

Gen. Craig rejoiced that during the last year the people of this country have come to understand the army and its purpose more clearly.

"The charge that it is militaristic, that its activities menace peace is rarely heard now," he said. "The facts are, of course, quite the reverse. Our army never, in the slightest degree, has contributed to the occurrence of any of our wars.

"Throughout its entire history it has remained consistently within the field assigned to it by the constitution —always wholly subordinate to the civil authorities. It has jealously guarded itself against political connections of any nature.

"It has remained true to its traditions—withdrawn and aloof in peace, a forward, dependable bulwark in war."

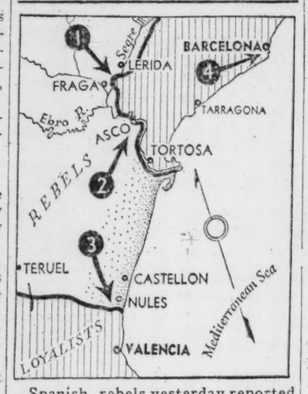
Ranks 18th in Size.

Gen. Craig says that at the strength of 165,000 authorized by the last congress, the regular army ranks only 18th among the standing armies of the world. Because of its small size, he added, it is imperative that the arms and equipment of the American force be equal to that of any army it may be called upon to face.

Since the war, he pointed out, America has failed to keep pace with other powers in modern equipment. This deficiency in new defensive weapons, he reported, is being repaired under the larger appropriations voted the army at the last session of congress.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Why Dig That Up?

Rebels Advance



Spanish rebels yesterday reported successes on three battle fronts: (1) Loyalists' drive toward Fraga was repulsed, (2) rebels hemmed in their foe near Asco, and (3) the government threat to Nules was relieved. Barcelona (4) was bombed by rebel planes.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Nov. 13.—(AP)—Spanish rebels said today their armies were advancing on three fronts in northeastern Spain.

Attacks on the Segre river front in Catalonia and along the Mediterranean coast north of Valencia, they said, were wiping out gains made by the government in recent counter-offensives, while the big rebel drive on the Ebro front was nearing success.

The latest of a series of government counter attacks has been directed against Nules, on the south side of the rebels' wedge to the sea between Valencia and Barcelona. Rebels said the attacks were repulsed.

On the north side of the rebel coastal wedge government troops, clinging to their last positions on the west side of the Ebro river, were reported to have been hemmed in around Asco and were said to be retreating across the river.

Thirty miles farther north, on the Segre front, rebels said they still were advancing against a government foothold on the west bank of the Segre river. Government reports said these attacks, directed at the towns of Fraga and Seros, had been repulsed. They made no mention, however, of new government gains.

Planes Bomb Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Nov. 13.—(AP)—An air raid by ten rebel bombers, which apparently failed in its main objective, today caused the death of fourteen persons and injury of twenty-one others. The new raid raised the casualty tolls for bombardments yesterday and today to eighteen dead and forty-three wounded.

WEATHER, BANDIT AND HIS VICTIMS BECOME COLDER

A bandit with a sartorial eye for himself and his girl made the cold morning a little colder early today for John Springowski, 25 years old, 2518 Wayne avenue, and Miss Adeline Kazmin, 18.

They were sitting in Springowski's car in front of Miss Kazmin's home at 3961 Barry avenue, when the robber invited himself into the car. He ordered Springowski to drive.

During the drive the gunman asked Springowski the size of his hat. Springowski told him. "That's too small," commented the bandit. "How about your coat?" When told, he said, "That's just right, and I'll take your suit coat, too."

Before putting his victims out of the car, the robber took Miss Kazmin's coat and gloves and Springowski's coat and suit coat, plus $5, and drove away in his car.

CHICAGO TO PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO 'THE BATH' TODAY

City officials, from Mayor Kelly down, will attend the funeral services today for John [Bathhouse John] Coughlin, veteran alderman of the 1st ward.

The mayor will head a cortège that will leave the chapel at 1820 South Michigan avenue at 10:30 a. m. and proceed to St. John Catholic church, 18th and Clark streets, where requiem mass will be sung at 11 a. m. In the cortège will be the city council in a body, details of police and firemen, and representatives of ward organizations. Coughlin's body will be placed in a vault in Calvary cemetery.

Thousands of friends paid their last respects to the veteran councilman yesterday and last night. All walks of life were represented. The Bath, as he was known, had made many friends in his long career. He died Friday. He was 78 years old and had been an alderman forty-six years.

W. L. McBride, Internal Revenue Official, Is Dead

Walter Lee McBride, head of the Chicago division of internal revenue agents, died last night in his home in Dallas, Tex., after an illness of six months. He was 46 years old. Mr. McBride had headed the Chicago division since early this year. His work dealt mainly with auditing and investigating all income tax returns, but did not go into criminal matters. Mr. McBride had been in the government service since 1920. He returned to his Dallas home recently.

SIX HURT WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO HAYRACK

Hits Rear of Wagon; Driver Arrested.

Six persons on a hayrack party were injured last night when the hayrack was struck from the rear by an automobile at 79th street and Willow Springs road, Lyons township. Fourteen other persons were shaken up.

All were on an outing arranged by the young people's club of St. Mary's Catholic church, Riverside. Five of the injured were given first aid at the Hinsdale sanitarium. The sixth, William Lesak Jr., 21 years old, 518 Longcommon road, Riverside, received an ankle fracture and hip injuries. He is in the Little Company of Mary hospital. One horse was injured and had to be destroyed.

Policemen Vincent Berardino and Russell Prendergast of the Willow Springs county highway police arrested the automobile driver, Kenneth Moore, 38 years old, of 4719 Grand avenue, Western Springs, an office manager. The Rev. Thomas Brody, who was in charge of the hayrack party, signed complaints charging Moore with driving while intoxicated and reckless driving.

Motorist Killed Near Zion.

Hurled through the windshield when his car was struck from behind on Sheridan road, half a mile south of Zion, William Schmidt, 31 years old, of 1904 Hermon avenue, Zion, was killed outright yesterday. William Bunge of Kenosha, Wis., was the driver of the other car. He told police he did not see Schmidt's car, which was backing into Sheridan road from a roadside café.

DeWitt Davis III., vice president of Welsh and Green, Inc., investment brokers, at 135 South La Salle street, narrowly escaped injury yesterday when his car plunged from the outer drive at 4300 north and overturned. Davis said his car was forced off the drive when he tried to pass another motorist.

Tony Roz, 53 years old, 1817 South Ashland avenue, died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile at 19th and Laflin streets. The driver was Joseph Cermak, 1833 South Ashland avenue.

Killed in Evanston.

Edward Raschke, 54 years old, 2418 Cowper avenue, Evanston, died last night in the Evanston hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night when, while walking across the intersection at Central street and Central Park avenue in the suburb, he was run down by an automobile. Police charged the driver, Henry Berg, 32, of 7418 North Kostner avenue, Niles Center, with driving while intoxicated, driving with defective brakes, and driving without licenses.

James Patton, 21 years old, 3720 Wayne avenue, and Miss Jean Redmond, 18, of 1266 Montrose avenue, who were arrested Saturday night after a stolen car in which they were riding crashed against a tree near Wilmette, were turned over to Chicago police last night. Patton, who first identified himself as Thomas Donahue of 3714 North Ashland avenue, admitted, police said, that he is on parole following an auto theft. The car that crashed was stolen Nov. 3 from Mrs. J. Odegard Becker, 3850 Lake Shore drive.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 744 persons have been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 574 were killed in Chicago, where 17,536 were injured during the same period.

DON L. OMO, FUR BUYER, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Don L. Omo, who was credited with originating the plan of buying raw furs by mail from boys all over the country, died yesterday in a turkish bathhouse at 5 North Clark street of a heart attack. He was 53 years old and lived at 1032 North Dearborn street.

Don L. Omo.

Aided by his successful system for stimulating amateur trapping, Omo rose from office boy to president of the A. B. Shubert Fur company, 25 West Hubbard street. In a depression reorganization he left the firm in 1931. He became a free lance wholesale fur salesman. For several years he was president of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago. His widow, Tresa, survives.

Justice Brandeis is 82; Observes Birthday Quietly

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the Supreme court reached his eighty-second birthday today without special observance of the event. A member of the family said he spent a quiet day at home and had not seen any one. Neither the justice nor Mrs. Brandeis would talk to newsmen.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

FARMER SALES OF CORN FALL BELOW NORMAL

Withhold Grain for Federal Loans.

Farmers in Illinois, Iowa, and other states in the corn belt are not shipping their new corn to market in normal volume. Shipments have been withheld as a result of the government loan program, grain dealers reported yesterday.

The 57 cents a bushel loan rate announced Nov. 10 has been the incentive for renewed activity on farms in cribbing and sealing corn. The rate offers eligible farmers 15 to 20 cents more a bushel than current country prices. New cribs to create more storage room are being built in parts of Illinois and Iowa, it was said.

Farmers who have not coöperated with the crop limitation program of the AAA and, therefore, are not eligible for loans are also withholding their corn. They expect higher prices.

Eastern Air's 9 Month Profit Up to $137,588

Eastern Air Lines, Inc., yesterday reported for the nine months ended Sept. 30 a net profit of $137,588 for the company and its predecessor, after charges and taxes. This compared with $127,112, before federal income taxes, earned by the predecessor company in the corresponding period last year. Gross revenues were $4,154,884, against $3,581,485.

Since March 31 the net profit of the company has been $38,766 after charges and taxes. The earnings from operations before April 1 accrued to North American Aviation, Inc., the predecessor company.

The balance sheet of Sept. 30 shows current assets of $1,650,732, including cash of $892,961, and current liabilities of $607,203.

American Power and Light company yesterday reported consolidated net income of $1,999,046 for the quarter ended Sept. 30. This was equal to $1.13 a share on the combined preferred stocks, and compared with net income of $2,564,351, or $1.45 a share, in the same 1937 quarter. Operating revenues slipped for the quarter to $23,718,577 from $24,537,616 in the 1937 quarter.

For the twelve months ended Sept. 30 net income of $9,726,774 compared with $11,382,853 in the preceding twelve months. Gross revenues for the period totaled $97,523,179, against $97,046,101 in the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1937.

The company is an affiliate of the Electric Bond and Share company, which owns 31 per cent of the common stock.

BANKERS' CHIEF HAILS ELECTION AS TRADE SPUR

Adams Sees Return of Confidence.

BY HOWARD WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Houston, Tex., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The outlook for the nation has been greatly improved by results of the recent elections, Orval W. Adams, president of the American Bankers association, said today. Adams discussed business prospects at an informal interview preceding the formal opening of the sixty-fourth annual convention of the association.

Orval W. Adams.

"The central theme of this year's convention," Adams said, "will be a 'return to fundamentals.' The outlook for business has been improved immeasurably by the elections. Already there are indications of a return of normal checks and balances in our political and economic setup. 'Personal' government is on the way out."

Expects Rise in Loans.

Because of this manifestation of a change in the attitude of the voters, Adams said he looked for a gradual increase in the demand for loans and greater willingness on the part of bankers to meet such demands.

Adams also said that he believed there would be a gradual revival of confidence on the part of individual investors.

"Only through such a return of investor confidence can come a resumption of long term financing," he said. "When owners of capital are sufficiently reassured to put their dollars to work in long term securities, idle workers will get back their jobs in private industry."

The A. B. A. president said that recently banks in New York, Chicago, and other large cities had shown a tendency toward making longer term loans. Instead of limiting loans to industrial concerns to periods of from two to five years, he said, some of the leading banks are making loans for periods as long as seven to ten years. Even in smaller communities, he added, banks are lengthening the maximum periods.

Forecasts Higher Rates.

Adams forecast an eventual increase in interest rates, but added that he did not know just how or when rates would start to move upward.

"Interest rates in the past have been abnormally high," he continued. "Now they have swung to the other extreme and are abnormally low. They are so low now largely because of government intrusion into business and the flotation by the United States treasury of an enormous amount of government securities. The treasury has sought to facilitate this vast borrowing program by manipulating interest rates downward as part of its so-called 'money management'."

He went on to explain that the consequences of this manipulation of interest rates downward had weighed heavily on the bank depositors and life insurance policyholders of the nation. They have received lower interest rates on their bank deposits and have been forced to pay more for insurance.

"Invisible Income Tax."

"The effect of this," he said, "has been to lay on these people what I call an invisible 'income tax' of from 500 to 800 million dollars per year. Forty million bank depositors are now getting about 1½ per cent return on their deposits and other tens of millions of life insurance policyholders are paying higher rates or are receiving smaller dividends on their policies.

"The election results indicate that these people and others are beginning to realize what has been going on."

Branch Banking an Issue.

Again in the foreground this year is the struggle between advocates and opponents of branch banking. Both factions seek to name the man for the second vice presidency of the association. The individual elected second vice president this year will be elevated to the A. B. A. presidency two years hence, according to tradition.

P. D. Houston, chairman of the board of the American National Bank of Nashville, Tenn., is being pushed as the "regular" candidate for the job. Independent unit bankers, particularly those from small communities, who fear that Houston is not sufficiently opposed to branch banking legislation, are proposing a number of candidates, particularly Frank P. Powers, president of the Kanabec State bank of Mora, Minn.

Philip A. Benson, president of the Dime Savings bank of Brooklyn, N. Y., is expected to be raised to the presidency of the association and Robert M. Hanes, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust company of Winston-Salem, N. C., is expected to be made first vice president. Hanes is a brother of John Hanes, recently appointed undersecretary of the treasury.

Oil—5.

The development of a process of distilling kerosene from crude oil brought about the making of lamps designed especially for kerosene. These lamps gave much better light than the tallow candles formerly used. The production of kerosene was the main reason for the existence of the oil industry at first.

As time went on, drilling for oil spread from New York, Pennsylvania, and western Virginia to Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana. When drilling spread into the west, the term "wildcat" as applied to oil wells came into use. It was applied to the search for oil in new areas "out among the wildcats" of Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. Hence its present application to drilling in unproved territory.

Important as was kerosene as a contribution to illumination, a far greater field was to be opened for the industry by a strange twist of fate. A still tender was to slip away one night to a dance in 1860. He stayed too long, and then——

INLAND STEEL IS TOLD TO DEAL WITH THE C. I. O.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The labor relations board reaffirmed today is determination to require the Inland Steel company to reduce to writing any oral agreement it may reach with the Steel Workers Organizing committee [C. I. O.].

It ordered the company to bargain collectively with the committee. It said the committee represented a majority of the employés in the company's plants at Indiana Harbor, Ind., and Chicago Heights, Ill. It ordered the company to embody any terms reached in a signed agreement. A similar order was issued in April and later withdrawn.

The board ordered the company to disestablish the Steel Workers Independent Union, Inc. The board said this union had been the spearhead of a "back to work" movement during a strike in June, 1937.

The strike ended on July 1, 1937, under a "truce" arrangement, which left unresolved the issue of whether the union should receive a signed contract. The company was not ordered to agree to any particular terms.

Investors' Guide

Worthless If Stamped.

Investors' Guide: Can you tell me what is the status of the 4 per cent gold bonds due Nov. 1, 2002, of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company? I hold one of these bonds.—E. M.

Answer: These bonds were issued in 1902 by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company of Iowa. The company was in no way connected with the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, which with its predecessors has been operating in Illinois and other states since 1847. The Iowa "railroad" company owned at one time a large block of stock in the "railway" company.

The "railroad" company defaulted the interest on its bonds in 1914. A foreclosure sale was held in October, 1914, and on Jan. 6, 1915, the sale was confirmed by the United States District court for the southern district of New York. Payment of $98.50 was ordered on each $1,000 bond. Subsequently payment of $8.50 was made in 1916 and another payment of 66⅔ cents was made in 1918.

Each of these payments was recorded by stamping on bonds submitted for collection. If your bond is stamped with the record of these three payments, it is apparently worthless now. If it has not been stamped, you should send it to the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, New York City.

There have been reports at intervals of attempts to sell these old stamped bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company as securities of the present railway company. All bonds of the present company bear the corporate title Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company.

Chicago Junction Railroad Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Please describe the 4 per cent bonds of the Chicago Junction Railway company. What is the security behind this issue?—A. B.

Answer: The funded debt of the Chicago Junction Railroad company consists of $2,327,000 of 4 per cent first mortgage bonds, due March 1, 1945. They are secured by a first mortgage on all its property, and are guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards company. The Chicago Junction Railroad company owns a 3½ mile stretch of elevated tracks which are leased by the Chicago Rapid Transit company. The bonds are redeemable at 105 and interest on any interest date.

U. S. COAL BOARD OPENS CHICAGO HEARING TODAY

Move Toward Fixing Minimum Prices.

The national bituminous coal commission, created under the Guffey act to regulate the soft coal industry, will open a hearing in the Morrison hotel today preparatory to fixing minimum prices for coal produced in mid-continental fields.

This hearing will be open to the public. Last Feb. 24 the commission revoked all 30,000 minimum prices for soft coal it had put into effect ten weeks before, as the result of a storm of protest and adverse court decisions.

Most of the attacks were made on the ground that the prices were fixed without public hearing and without disclosing facts on which the prices were based. Illinois consumers and producers charged they were the victims of discrimination because the prices favored other states.

Control by Lewis Charged.

Illinois is the only leading coal producing state not represented on the commission. It was charged on the floor of the senate that the policies and activities of the commission are controled by John L. Lewis, head of the Committee on Industrial Organization, who is head of the United Mine Workers of America.

The chairman of the coal commission is Percy Tetlow of Ohio, former special representative of the United Mine Workers of America. The other labor member of the board is John C. Lewis of Iowa. He also is supported by John L. Lewis.

Other commissioners who will be here are Walter L. Maloney of Kansas City, Mo.; Clarence E. Smith of Fairmont, W. Va., and Pleas C. Greenlee of Indianapolis, Ind.

Board Moves Cautiously.

The commission has proceeded cautiously in development of the new price schedule, it was reported, because of the collapse of the last one under the weight of public resentment.

Witnesses at the hearing opening today will include representatives of the bituminous coal producers' boards in nine states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, western Kentucky, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. Each will propose prices and attempt to prove that these reflect the relative values of coals produced in their districts. Individual producers also will be heard if they do not concur.

MAKE RAYON 800 TIMES FASTER IN NEW PROCESS

Painesville, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Rayon, young industry which has flourished in times of depression, is taking another forward step this week.

One of its manufacturers is innovating a process designed to spin and finish thread 800 times faster than methods in use for a generation.

Into the factory, built by Industrial Rayon corporation, are going 96 of its new continuous spinning units. Each unit will spin 100 threads at once, transforming molasses like viscose into yarn in 6½ minutes.

The predecessor method, cluttered with tedious processing baths, requires 90 hours.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

The Art of Stacking

November 13, 1938.

THE art of building neat stacks of wheat, oats, rye, barley, and other grains in this country rapidly is being lost. Modern methods of harvesting small grain makes stacking of the sheaves unnecessary.

In England and other foreign countries where modern harvesting machinery is not used as commonly as it is in America stack building still is an art. In rural districts of Great Britain orderly rows of grain stacks, neatly thatched and tapered to a point, are common sights today. English farmers lack space for storing unthreshed grain, making it necessary to continue stacking their crops outdoors until they can be threshed with a machine that is moved from farm to farm.

Harvest Methods Better.

Stacking grain in this country has been gradually decreasing for many years because of improved methods of harvesting and handling unthreshed crops. In more recent years stacking has been discontinued on many farms, particularly since the combined harvester-thresher has been in use. Within the last three or four years the practice of threshing grain from stacks has been discontinued rapidly in the eastern grain growing regions. This has been made possible through the use of the small combine that may be operated on small farms wherever the ordinary grain binder can be used.

Grain always goes through a sweat, and for many years farmers thought it was necessary to stack the grain and allow it to stand for several weeks to allow time for it to go through the final ripening process. Now experienced wheat growers know that grain will go through the sweat in the shock, stack, or bin and that harvesting methods nowadays make stacking unnecessary.

With the combine grain is allowed to stand in the field for ten days after it is ready to cut with a binder. During this period the grain ripens more thoroughly. If combined while dry it will go through the sweat in a bin without spoiling. Often grain is combined, poured from the spout of the combine into a truck, and hauled directly to an elevator at a nearby shipping point. There it can be stirred and processed to keep it dry during the sweating period.

Time and Money Saved.

Discontinuing the laborious job of stacking saves extra work and costs for the grower. It also saves time and avoids the necessity of exposing the grain to the weather while it is curing in the shock or stack.

Not many years ago grain stacking was common in the central west and eastern states. The grain was usually allowed to remain in the shocks for about two weeks before it was stacked. Then stacks were often built in sets of four, allowing about six feet of space between each pair. The threshing machine was then set between the stacks so that bundles could be tossed into the feeder from both sides.

But stack building in America was never developed to the fine point reached in European countries, where the skill of stacking is handed down from father to son. There the stacks are flared from the bottom to several feet above ground so that water running off the smoothly thatched top falls on the ground several inches away from the base, as shown in the accompanying picture.

Row of grain stacks in England, where farmers have kept alive the art of stack building. These neatly thatched and tapering stacks are on a farm near Harwich.

Oil Men Gather Today to Study Their Problems

The nineteenth annual meeting of the American Petroleum institute will open at the Stevens hotel today and will continue through Friday. About 3,000 oil men are expected to attend. They will discuss production and other problems.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION

on November 25, 1938, of all outstanding

Public Service Company of Northern Illinois

First Lien and Refunding Mortgage 4½% Gold Bonds, Series D, and First Lien and Refunding Mortgage 4½% Bonds, Series I.

To the holders and registered owners of the above bonds:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that all outstanding First Lien and Refunding Mortgage 4½% Gold Bonds, Series D, due November 1, 1978, and First Lien and Refunding Mortgage 4½% Bonds, Series I, due July 1, 1960, of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, issued under the First Lien and Refunding Mortgage of the Company to Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, Trustee, dated June 1, 1922, will be redeemed and become due and payable on November 25, 1938 (hereinafter referred to as the "redemption date"), at the office of Continental National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, successor Trustee, 231 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois, at the respective redemption prices hereinafter mentioned. Such redemption is made in accordance with the provisions of the above mentioned Mortgage and of the resolutions of the Board of Directors of the Company creating the above named series of bonds. The holders and registered owners of such bonds are hereby required to surrender their bonds at such office for redemption on the redemption date. Upon such surrender of the bonds, with, in the case of coupon bonds, interest coupons maturing subsequently to the redemption date, and, in the case of registered bonds without coupons and coupon bonds which shall at the time be registered as to principal, accompanied by duly executed assignments or transfer powers, there will be paid in cash on account of each bond so surrendered a sum equal to the principal thereof, accrued interest thereon to the redemption date and a premium of two per centum (2%) of such principal in the case of the bonds of Series D, and four per centum (4%) of such principal in the case of the bonds of Series I. After the redemption date the bonds shall cease to bear further interest.

Such of the bonds of Series I called for redemption on October 22, 1938, as have not yet been surrendered are not treated as outstanding for the purposes of this call. Such bonds should be immediately surrendered in accordance with the redemption notice dated September 22, 1938.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS
By JAMES SIMPSON, Chairman.
Dated October 26, 1938.

Our Place in the Auto Trade

A few years ago we decided to accept automobiles—new or used—as eligible collateral to loans. Since that time we have handled a substantial volume of loans of this type.

Automobile buyers and automobile owners are enthusiastic over our low rates, our liberal terms, and the way we handle the business.

In addition to the pleasure of the public, benefits to the trade are noteworthy: The discriminating buyer finds a way to buy or trade independently, thereby making cash deals for the automobile dealer . . . By our policy of no direct or indirect participation in insurance commissions, insurance agents and brokers are put in the way of unsolicited business in addition to the insurance commissions on the "deals" which they originate for themselves . . . And the accredited automobile finance corporations recognize a place for our style of operation in rounding out the financing phase of automobile selling.

By always keeping our "model" of operation and service up to the minute, we hope to continue to be a constructive factor in the entire industry.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1938.

Rich and Poor, Young and Old, Swarm to See Motor Industry on Parade at 1939 Auto Show

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Amos Ingalls comes to the auto show at the International amphitheater so she can tell folks back home in Fontana, Wis., about new models.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

J. T. Trowbridge gives the once over to the bright red upholstery of a sport model, and thinks how times have changed since he was a boy.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

While A. M. Lubasek of Berwyn looks on, Daughter Joan gazes with open mouthed admiration through the window at the gadgets on a new instrument board.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gallagher are typical of the thousands of couples in the week-end crowd of 82,000 who came to make up their minds about a new family car.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

It doesn't cost anything to look, so George Timm of Berwyn studies the interior of a luxurious limousine, meanwhile munching on an apple.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

While their parents are busy looking over the sleek, new cars, three tired youngsters rest and eat popcorn in a luggage compartment.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Like most women visitors at the exposition, Jeanne Olkowski climbs in and out of the automobile to admire the fittings and try out the comfort of the seats.
